"Henry VIII" Rates Superlative Praise At Prince Edward

It is difficult to write a critical review of a picture like "The Private Life of Henry VIII," the new film at the Prince Edward Theatre, without a new set of superlatives, for only the highest praise can be given to the brilliant direction of Alexander Korda, and there are no words to describe the magnificent acting of Charles Laughton, who definitely makes claim to the title of the greatest actor to date on screen or stage.

With its delicious risque passages the film shows us the private life of Henry VIII and five of his six wives, the court intrigues, the jealousies, the beheading of Anne Boleyn, the coming of Ann of Cleves, the beautiful Katheryn Howard and, finally, Katherine Parr.

The film opens with the coming execution of Anne Boleyn, a scene splendidly handled, with the spectators assembling on the green; then the king's further adventures into the matrimonial field; a glorious interlude with Ann of Cleves, the highlight of which is a game of cards played on their wedding night, at which Henry is decisively defeated; his attempt to pay a stealthy visit to the bedchamber of Katheryn Howard; ther wedding and her love for Culpeper, discovered by Wriothesly—a dramatic scene where the truth is laid before the monarch who is reduced to tears. Finally, as age creeps on, comes his wedding to Katherine Parr, who dominates this still tempestuous King.

Such is a bald outline of a story which gives a wonderful panoply of spectacle — banquet scenes with Henry tearing his food in the manner of the day, joustings, and the familiar atmosphere of life in the 16th century, incidents flawless in detail and beautifully grouped.

Above it all is the amazing performance of Laughton, who literally lives Henry VIII, and who renders a portrayal that is nothing short of astounding. His rage, his whirlwind moods and amorous adventures are put before us as if we were looking upon the real Henry VIII.

The rest of the cast also yield brilliant performances. Binnie Barnes as Katheryn Howard gives a scintillating portrayal. Elsa Lanchester, in private life Mrs. Laughton, does wonderfully well as Ann of Cleves. Merle Oberon as Anne Boleyn, Wendy Barrie as Jane Seymour, Lady Tree as the old nurse, Franklyn Dyall, Miles Mander, Claud Allister and Robert Donat all lend magnificent support.

The picture is superbly photographed and produced with huge settings lavishly dressed. It is indeed a triumph for its producers, London Films, as it is for Laughton and Korda.

Perfect Eyes Rarely Found

The more the function of sight is studied the more it is recognized as having a vital influence on the lives of all of us. It may be definitely stated that scarcely any one has perfect vision. There are varying degrees of approach to it. But perfect eyes may be said to be unknown. That fact deserves the attention of everyone.

Silver Tip Fox Cubes
VERSUS FOX MEAT

It is more economical to feed Silver Tip Fox Cubes in place of meat because if you could wring all the water out of three pounds of fresh meat, less than one pound of actual food would be left. The other two pounds are water. But there is practically no water in Silver Tip Cubes. One pound of Silver Tip Cubes is equal to three pounds of meat.

Silver Tip Fox Cubes have met with instant favor. It is the fox food that you, too, should use for numerous good reasons: No other food or supplement need be fed to completely nourish the fox. Balanced in its nourishing animal and vegetable elements, Silver Tip contains all the known necessary vitamines, the bone and nerve forming minerals, the digestion aiding enzymes, and Nature's own food regulators and conditioners which make for perfect health and growth.

FATE WOUND THE CLOCK OF DEATH—

"Before Midnight" Is Exciting Murder Film With Fine Cast At Capitol

A pool of blood is found before the portrait of a family ancester and the next day, a descendant dies!

A clock which has always stopped ticking when death is approaching pauses; a moment later a man collapses before it.

A Japanese house-servant is shot in the back just as he is about to reveal the murderer of his employer.

These are but a few of the many unusual happenings in "Before Midnight," Columbia production, which opened at the Capitol Theatre yesterday.

And the resultant connection is one of the most exciting mystery dramas yet created in Hollywood. It is guaranteed to provide enough chills, thrills, and gasps to satisfy even the most jaded mystery fan.

Ralph Bellamy has a colorful role asthe brilliant sleuth, Trent, who solves the mysterious deaths. George Cooper, as the hick detective who serves as Bellamy's Man Friday, profides comedy relief.

June Collyer makes her screen comeback in "Before Midnight." She is as exquisite as always, and her charm lends a pleasant contrast to the gloomy settings. Arthur Pierson is excellent as the romantic lead. Betty Blythe contributes an outstanding piece of work as the regal mystery woman who complicates the work of the detectives considerably. Claude Gillingwater and Bradley Page both interpret their roles with their customary capability.

See "Before Midnight" by all means!

COMMISSION TAKES CONTROL IN NFLD.

Various Departments Are Allotted to Members in First Meeting.

(C. P. Cable By Guardian's Special Wire)

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Feb. 18 — Control of specific government departments had been vested tonight in individual members of Newfoundland's new governing commission. The positions were allotted at the commission's first meeting Saturday, just a day after it assumed control of the Island's affairs.

Hon. F. C. Alderdice, who forsook the premiership of Newfoundland to gain the commission, was named its vice-chairman under Governor Sir David Murray Anderson. In addition, the former Premier was appointed Commissioner of Home Affairs and Education.

FINANCE

E. N. R. Trentham, British financial expert and one of Great Britain's representatives in the new government, was placed in charge of the Department of Finance and given control of customs, income and post-office affairs.

Sir John Hope Simpson, another British representative, became Commissioner of Natural Resources. Under his jurisdiction come the important marine and fisheries branch, with their vital problems affecting the welfare of the Island's fishermen, and the agriculture, forests and mines branches.

JUSTICE

The Department of Justice was placed under W.R. Howley, K.C., Newfoundland member of the commission, who thus took control of the Newfoundland constabulary and became responsible also for administration of the country's Liquor Control Act.

The Department of Public Utilities, with its many branches, was assigned to Thomas Lodge, C. B., Great Britain's third representative. The Department has control of public works, railway, steamship and other communication services, and the government-operated Newfoundland hotel.

Newfoundland's retiring Secretary of State, J. C. Puddester, was designated as Commisioner of Public Health and Welfare. Labor and pensions affairs come within the purview of this department.

W. J. Carew, who was secretary to Premier Alderdice, was appointed Secretary of the Commission.

Departmental deputy ministers under the suspended government all were named secretaries of their respective departments under the Commission.

FULL POWERS

Full legislative powers have been conferred upon the commission, appointed by the British Government under recommendations of a Royal Commission which invested Newfoundland's economic situation after the Imperial and Canadian Governments had helped her meet bond interest.

Enactment of laws and disposal of other matters coming before the commissioners shall be determined by majority vote of the commissioners, with the governor and each member entitled to one vote. No measure shall become law until it has been assented to and signed by the Governor, and the Imperial Government has reserved the right to veto all measures.

Members of the Commission hold office during pleasure, and vacancies are to be filled through appointment by Governor Anderson. They will be subject also to the approval of the British Government.

U. S. Government To Control Mass Housing

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(A.P.) The United States Government has begun a long range study of mass housing, designed to facilitate and direct the expenditures of from $30,000,000,000 to $40,000,000,000 of private funds in the next 10 years.

Holding such huge expenditures are beyond government financing abilities, President Roosevelt designated four cabinet members to make the study with a view to finding out how private capital might be stimulated in this field.

1. Modernization; 2. New private dwellings and apartments. 3. Slum clearance and rehabilitation.

Some analysis have found a housing shortage ranging up to 300,000 family units while one leading industrialist has said privately that 50,000,000 people are living in inadequate or improper homes.
