McShine, President of the Trinidad Co-operative Bank, in an interview with the Trinidad Guardian, and about $192,000 are distributed annually by them as sick relief, doctors' fees, medicines, weekly allowances, and burials.

DREAMS AND DREAMERS

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 11.—(By The Canadian Press)—"A.E." poet and artist, lecturing here on "Dreams" gave some highly interesting experiences of his own and of psychologists.

The figures seen in dreams were moving like those seen in the theatre and were often created in the second before waking. Mr. Russell told the story of the French psychologist who, investigating dreams, got his children to wake him in unusual ways. One day his daughter woke him by drawing the point of a nail lightly across his throat. On waking he said that he had dreamed of himself as a figure in the French revolution, saw himself arrested as a Royalist, and tried, heard the evidence for and against himself, and heard himself condemned to the guillotine. As the knife of the guillotine touched his throat he awoke. He believed the whole dream had taken place between the instant his daughter had touched his throat with the nail and the moment he reached waking consciousness.

He himself has twice been in an aeroplane, but he had flying dreams 25 or 30 years before the Wright brothers flew at Kitty Hawk. In one dream he flew over houses and into a large gymnasium, where athletes were taking exercise. When they saw him they tried to reach him, but, by an effort of will, he was able to float out of their reach. Such dreams, he held, were not the reawakening of memory, because nothing in the waking consciousness corresponded to them.

"As for the idea that dreams were the recombination of memories, there was some difficulty here. One could take the great masters of form and give them life-sized photographs of human beings and ask them to recombine them and try to make one single figure out of them. Such would be a work of great difficulty and would result in a patch-work. Was there nothing to consider mysterious about such dreams? The person who saw the dream was not the creator of its forms. No doubt some part of his being created them, but not that part of consciousness which saw the dream. The creation took part in some part of man's consciousness which he had not explored sufficiently.

Scout News and Notices

St. James Troop

St. James Troop went on a winter hike on Friday. The Troop met at their hall at 6 p. m. Scoutmaster Lawson divided the twelve scouts into two patrols, each patrol had a toboggan, containing a shovel, ground sheet and food. They proceeded out Brighton and North River Road to Inkerman, where they stopped to camp. They cleared away the snow, gathered dry wood and birch bark, while two scouts went for water. Each patrol built a fire using birch bark instead of paper. They prepared supper, making cocoa and frying meat. After supper a song was held around the camp fire. About 9 o'clock the boys cleared camp, put out their fire and were dismissed at their hall at 9.30.

STUDIED LAW WITH PREMIER

(Canadian Press)

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 11.—Personalities of the Dalhousie University Law Class of 1893 were reunited in a common expression in the office of the Prime Minister of Canada on January 27. On that day the Right Honourable R. B. Bennett was presented with a leather bound script, conveying the recognition and regard of nineteen classmates who donned the law hood on the day the present premier was graduated. The presentation was made privately by a member of the class now living in Ottawa.

The idea originated with Halifax members of the class, who in the course of investigation preliminary to the sending out of a draft letter to their classmates, discovered that of the original twenty one members of that class, twenty were living, in various parts of Canada and United States. The whereabouts of the twenty first '93 man could not be obtained, nor was it known whether he is still living.

Members of the class in Halifax constituted a committee and recommended to fellow members that some sort of recognition be accorded the class's most distinguished graduate, with the result that a draft of the simple letter which later found its way to the prime minister between gold-embossed leather covers with signatures appended, was sent to each member of the class for approval. The copy journeyed as far afield as Vancouver and Hollywood and returned bearing the felicitations represented in their signatures, of those who studied law with Mr. Bennett.

Reduced photostat copies of the letter have been sent to members of the class, and to the Dalhousie law lecturers of that day; Hon. Mr. Justice E. L. Newcombe, of the Supreme Court of Canada, and Alfred E. Silver, K. C., of Halifax. Copies have also been presented to the University, the Archives and the Law School.

Members of the class in law of 1893 were: The Rt. Hon. Richard B. Bennett; J. B. Kenney, K. C., Halifax; Major H. B. Stairs, D. S. O.; Halifax; Colonel W. E. Thompson, V. D., Halifax; J. A. Fulton, K. C.,

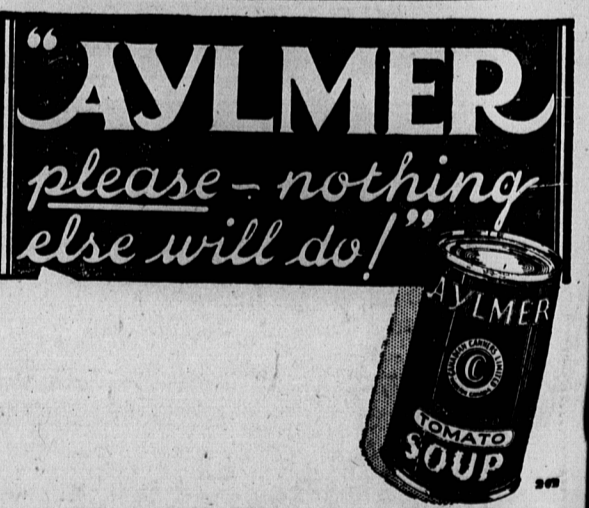

Guysboro; G. A. R. Rowlinga, K. C., Sydney; S. E. March, C. E., Bridgewater, N. S.; His Honor Judge J. A. Grierson, Weymouth, N. S.; Hon. L. P. D. Tilley, K. C., Saint John; H. P. Puddington, Saint John; W. B. McCoy, Montreal; Col. A. H. Anderson, Ottawa; C. B. Burns, Ottawa; H. W. Brown, Ottawa; R. Blackwood Graham, K. C., Winnipeg; H. H. Munro, Stettin, Alta.; is Honor Judge F. W. Russell, Vegreville, Alta.; G. M. Woodworth, Vancouver; J. A. Pyszant, Hollywood, Cal.; John Montgomery, residence unknown.

Emp'y

Little Betty had been allowed to stay up to dinner one night on the strict understanding that she should behave very well and not ask for anything on the table.

When dessert came all the guests were attended to, but she was overlooked.

She sat despondently for a time, and then was struck by sudden idea. "I exclaimed in a loud voice, 'Who wants a clean plate?'"—Ladysmith Chronicle.
