The little child had been ailing only a short time but all that loving care and Medical Science could do were not sufficient to overcome an attack of Spinal Meningitis. Phyllis was at the sweetest and most lovable age of childhood, she was just two years and 6 months, and her loss will not only be mourned by her heart-broken parents but by a large number of friends and acquaintances who could not help but be infatuated with her simple childish charm. ..SUMMER VISITORS—There are not a great many summer visitors from the States. Amongst the latest are, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Campbell, who motored down from New Hampshire in his luxurious six-cylinder Nash car. They are staying with Mrs. Campbell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald McPhee, North Lake.

..FINE GROWING WEATHER—Bad tourist weather we all admit, but splendid growing weather. The continuous wet weather for the past few weeks has so changed the conditions of the grain and hay crops on the sandy and gravelly light soils on the North side of the island, that the hay crop bids fair to be the heaviest in many years. The grown crops, particularly the late sowing, never presented such a healthy and luxuriant growth. But it's the Brown-top grass crop that shows up best of all its eastern habitat. The wet weather has been so favourable for the highly profitable cash crop that it means many thousands of dollars to our Eastern farmers. No weeds. The strong growth of the Brown-top has crowded out all weeds. The crop will be double that of last year and will be of the highest quality.

..CEMETERY IMPROVEMENTS—The annual meeting of the Three Rivers Cemetery Co. (Brudenell) was held in the hall on July 12th, a report of the committee appointed to solicit subscriptions towards the improvement of the cemetery was received and the money placed in the hands of the treasurer. The minutes of last meeting were read and adopted, and many ways were proposed for improvement. The following directors were appointed: Oliver McNeill, George McDonald, Lemuel McLaren, Henry McLaren, Charles Robertson, Fred Robertson, George Rourke, who then met and elected Fred Robertson, President, and Charles Robertson, Secretary-Treasurer. After considering ways and means, the directors named a day, July 18th, for all share holders and plot holders to come to cemetery and fix up their own plots. Some have done so, but there is much to be done yet, and the directors respectfully request those that were not able to attend on that date to kindly fix up their plots before August 15th. When this is done the directors will have a better idea of the amount of work that will have to be done by paid labor. And if there are any persons who are interested, and who would like to contribute towards this improvement, their donations will be thankfully received by any of the directors, or mailed to the treasurer, Charles Robertson, Brudenell, for perhaps in this neglected spot is laid.

TAKE GOOD CARE OF POTATO FIELDS

(Experimental Farms Note.)
 Farmers having fields of potatoes intended for certified seed should put forth every effort possible to protect the standing crop from the ravages of destructive diseases, which may bring about considerable losses, if left uncontrolled. Proper cultural practices and the use of vigorous varieties or strains give promise of high yields, but it should be borne in mind that no matter how much attention a grower gives to the cultivation of his crop or how vigorous a variety or strain he is using; unless the necessary precautions are taken to control such diseases as mosaic, leafroll, spindle tuber, early and late blight, and blackleg, these diseases will lower the vitality of the affected plants sufficiently to cause a large reduction in the yield. The former may show only a slight decrease in the yield from season to season, but eventually will cause a gradual "running out", rendering any variety or strain of potatoes so affected, unproductive. The latter, early and late blight and blackleg, particularly when weather conditions are favourable for their production such as warm damp temperatures, will ruin a crop in one season by destroying the foliage and ultimately causing a destructive rot in the tubers. Mosaic, leafroll, and spindle tuber can be controlled in large measure by rugging plants showing characteristic symptoms as soon as they are observed, insuring that in each and every case the plants removed are carried from the field and destroyed. Early and late blight can be largely prevented by carefully spraying the foliage with Bordeaux mixture at regular periods from the time the plants are seven to eight inches high until the foliage dies normally at the end of the season. Control of all the diseases mentioned should begin early in the season before they have gained any headway. Unless this is done considerable spread may result through the agency of plant lice or aphids in the case of mosaic, leaf roll and spindle tuber, the Seed Corn Maggot in the case of blackleg, while early and late blight may be carried by wind and rain washing the spores of the fungus causing the diseases from affected plants to healthy ones. Strict observance of these precautions will more than pay for the time and money spent insuring healthy plants and increased yields.

ZION PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
 Preaching from the text: "And I if I be lifted up will draw all men unto Myself." John 12:32. Rev. M. Scott Fulton delivered an excellent sermon Sunday morning. He answered two questions, one as to what Jesus proposed to do being lifted upon the cross and the other, how He proposed to draw men unto Himself. There are two Greek words translated to mean, one "Sure" to drag or haul; the other "helo" meaning to attract or impel by inward power. The latter is the word Jesus used. The pathos, the power and the glory of the cross were inspiring thoughts in the sermon.
 The evening sermon was from John 13:13. "Ye call Me Master and Lord and ye say well for so I am." The pastor dwelt mainly on two propositions; Jesus is Master because He can produce the greatest effects from the most unpromising material and all power lies in being mastered by Christ. History is full of examples to substantiate this. Wealth and learning was not an essential to those who accomplished wonderful things as follows: Abraham Lincoln may have been very unattractive at first sight to the culture of New York but his convictions, based on the teachings of his Master, changed the history of a great nation.
 A full choir greeted both services and the music was particularly good. The morning anthem was from Mendelssohn "St. Paul," "But the Lord is Mindful of His Own," and for the evening "The Lord is My Shepherd," by Semper. A fine selection by Zion Male Quartette, "Glorious Things of Thee are Spoken" and a solo by Miss Florence Ings of Boston, "Something for Thee" by Sheldon, were added attractions to the evening's musical service.
 The evening service was broadcasted by CFCY.

upon Canada's everyday speech. Visitors from this country deprecate the addition of Canadians to American slang, but Canadian philologists maintain that this is merely superficial phenomena and that the invasion of colloquialisms from the south is not permanently affecting the speech of cultured Canadians. Philologists can do little to direct the development of a language. Transplanted to a new continent, English is inevitably acquiring new characteristics. During this period of change it may appear slipshod and ungainly, but there is no reason to doubt that with maturity will come clarity and precision.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION

A surprise was given to Dr. A. B. Martin and Mrs. Martin of Mt. Stewart when a host of friends gave them a friendly call in their new home. The following address was read by Mr. Russell C. Clark: To Doctor A. E. Martin and Mrs. Martin.
 Mount Stewart,
 Dear Friends,—

 We desire also to express our appreciation of the active part you have both taken since coming to

Canadians Do Not Speak Pure English

(By Canadian Press.)
LONDON, July 25—Do Canadians speak English "pure and undefiled"? Not according to English visitors to the Dominion who frequently comment upon the prevalence of "Irishisms" and the firm grip which they seem to have secured upon the speech of the country. Even well educated Canadians, they say, get into difficulties with those tricky little words, "shall" and "will", misplacing them with fine abandon. This particular straying from the standards of academic English is characteristically Irish and is common among the Scotch.
 An Englishman is often surprised when, on asking the hour, he is informed by a Canadian that it is "half-after-four," instead of "half-past." That idiom being native to Erin. He also remarks in Canada the stressed, often rolled "r" and the prevalence of closed vowel sounds. Of course Irish and Scotch immigrants have played a large part in the development of Canada as have those from England and it is only natural that they should have made their mark
