A Help To Those Past Middle Age

When men and women get past middle age their energy and activity, in many instances, begin to decline, and their general vitality is on the wane.

Little sicknesses and ailments seem harder to shake off than formerly, and, here and there, evidences of a breakdown begin to appear.

Now is the time when those who wish to maintain their health and vigor, and retain their energy unimpaired should take a course of Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills.

They brace up and invigorate the system, and help stall off the decrep-tude of advancing years.

—STEAMER NANDI AFLOAT—
The steamer Nandi was floated at 3:30 a. m. on Monday at West Cape, Prince County after most strenuous efforts on the part of the Foundation Franklin and two smaller tugs and a dredge. The tugs worked all Sunday morning but only succeeded in turning the ship about. At high tide at midnight Sunday they renewed their efforts with the result that the Nandi floated inside the bar at 3:30. The tugs stood by for the noon tide Monday as it was expected the Nandi might need help to get her round the bar. The Foundation Franklin arrived on Thursday last but the dredge and smaller tugs have been at West Cape dredging for the past two weeks. Captain Sam Smith, a local man of West Point has been on board the boat since last fall.

—SCOUTS COMMEMORATE KING'S BIRTHDAY—About forty five Scouts of the Summerside Troops joined with Scouts throughout the Dominion in commemorating the official birthday of King George VI by lighting a Scout Bonfire, one in a chain of bonfires which stretched from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The ceremony was held at the rifle range, west of Summerside. District Commissioner Mollison with Mr. Joseph Callaghan and Mr. B. W. Robinson M. L. A., attended the ceremony.
The fire was lit by Mr. Robinson, who spoke to the boys on the significance of the occasion. Mr.
Mollison also spoke a few words.
The boys then gave three cheers for His Majesty after which the National Anthem was sung very heartily. The bonfire could be seen for miles around, and was witnessed by a large number of people. S.

Dismayed English Discover That German Maids-of-All-Work
All Work for the Nazis!

BY MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, England has been afflicted with a mild case of "spy-itis." Several persons have been arrested, charged with selling their country's secrets to Germany, and a fair number of Germans, masking as journalists, business men and mere travelers, have been ordered back to Nazi land.
Hundreds of German women work as servants in English homes. Recently there has been much newspaper agitation on the subject, it being pointed out that many army officers living near important points like Aldershot and Woolwich were employing German women as domestics. The reason for this is the difficulty in getting British women to do this kind of work.
That many of these German women may use their eyes and ears to obtain information for the Nazi regime is not improbable.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt admiring the sheer woolen fabric, especially woven from the finest fleeces of the British Empire and the gift of the Empire's wool growers, which had just been presented to her by (left to right) I. R. Macgregor, R. M. Firth, Trade Commissioners for Australia and New Zealand, and Emile Horne, Counsel for the Union of South Africa, in New York. From this wool will be fashioned a dress to be worn when Mrs. Roosevelt welcomes Queen Elizabeth to Washington on June 8. A similar gift from the wool growers of the United States was recently presented to the Queen.

The Danzig Preparations
(Globe and Mail)
The reports of German preparations for the seizure of Danzig are probably accurate enough. At least the source is good. And from what is known of Nazi operations in Austria and the Sudetenland they are more likely to err as understate-ment. The opportunities for a coup crossed to England to stay here for a short period as a business representative of a machine company well known in the United States. One evening, on the steamer, he was not sure but he thought he saw a man disappearing through an unused door in his bathroom.

The American had a number of portfolios in which he carried in Danzig are more numerous than either of the other victims afforded. There Hitler's control is undisputed. His followers are the administrators, they are the police, and the League's supervision has been a sham almost since the day they came to power.

But it is doubtful that Hitler will carry his plot just yet to the extremes. Dr. Herman Rauschning suggested in his article in yesterday's Globe and Mail. In this report the article is more valuable as a warning of the international ramifications of a Danzig incident, than as a guide to procedure. In having the Free City equipped to the extent claimed, Berlin is allowing, as always, for an alternative choice of weapons.
So far as compromising Poland's position, Hitler can do that just as effectively by having the loyal government vote the Free City back into the Reich and defy Warsaw or the League to do anything about it. In this way he could place Poland in the position of having to fire the first shot without resorting to a revolution, which as Dr. Rauschning stated carries the risk of a European conflict.

But what must be kept in mind is that Hitler does not want Danzig in settlement of his claims by the ultimatum delivered before the Reichstag a fortnight ago. Consequently any pressure play planned for the Free City must include the Corridor as part of the plunder. And it is safe to assume that it will be calculated to succeed without rousing Poland to armed resistance. A Danzig incident of the proportions described would run a real danger of doing so, and to have Poland "framed" as an aggressor will not be enough to isolate her from her new allies.

Somebody was interested in seeing his papers.
Here is a case in point known to this correspondent:
Not long ago an American up with a practically invisible thread. A few evenings later he found all those threads had been broken. Somebody was interested in seeing his papers.

Later he settled with his family in a town in the English Midlands. He advertised for a maid of all work and a Getman girl responded. Now all he said in that ad was that he had a house in a certain street in a certain town.
He met the girl at the railway station. Driving home with her, she got conversational and remarked to him:
"You are in the machinery business, are you not?"
A few days later, when she got settled into the job, she said to her employer:
"You don't make machinery for war purposes, do you?"
ADMITS SHE IS A NAZI
The American is still wondering how she knew his business before she even reached his home. He is inclined to put the steamship incident and this one together. Especially as the girl admitted she was a Nazi. She said she would have to get the special evening off each month.
"Because I must attend our district meeting of Nazi Germans. If I do not come and pay my monthly dues of 30 cents, I might have trouble getting back to Germany some day."
And the first time these Americans gave a dinner party, they were amazed when she brought in a home-baked cake neatly ornamented with a chocolate swastika.

Having recently taken up residence in England, the former Prime Minister of Canada has already identified himself with the interests of his new home, where matters having to do with the sea are the concern of all. He is shown here (right) as he appeared at the 121st meeting of the British Sailors' Society at the Mansion House in London a few days ago with the Lord Mayor, Sir Frank Bowater, (centre) and Lady Bowater, taking part in the inspection of the guard of honor.
