Is Optimistic Of Present Trend Toward Religion

MONCTON, N.B., Sept. 8.—On his way from Halifax, N.S., to attend a meeting of the general synod at Guelph, Ont., His Grace, Archbishop Worrell of Nova Scotia, was a passenger on the Ocean Limited of the Canadian National Railways, passing through Moncton on Monday. The general synod will open in Guelph and will later adjourn to Toronto. Speaking of the trend in this era of unrest, His Grace stated that he found a greater seeking for truth. He found that men are desirous of knowing more about the vital things of life and many times he has been asked to explain matters connected with religion. He had also found a more sincere attitude towards things in relation to religion and a more open mind on many questions. He said there is also a more tolerant attitude among the churches all of which he attributes in part to the development of transportation and the more rapid means of communication which we have today. These, he continued, are bringing the peoples of the world closer together and laying a foundation for a better understanding which will strengthen the cause of world peace.

Stolen Crown Jewels May Be Returned

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Sept. 9.—The Irish Capital today buzzed with a report that an anonymous letter, written on expensive note paper, has been received by authorities here offering to deliver, for a ransom price, the famous Crown jewels, which were stolen from Dublin Castle in 1907. Police headquarters insisted it was ignorant of the letter, but the report continued to circulate, and it was believed that police intention might be due to a desire to catch the thieves, the jewels which are worth $300,000, were stolen from the castle 24 years ago in the very shadow of what then was the detective headquarters, and within hailing distance of the Governor himself. The thieves walked quietly into the castle, unlocked the safe to which there were only two keys, and walked out again with the jewels. King Edward VII and Queen Alexandra were due to arrive here for an international exposition, and Lord Castletown was getting ready to be made a Knight of St. Patrick, when it was found that the jewels, which were to have been used in the ceremony, had vanished.

Three Arrested For Smuggling

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Three men were arrested today in what was described as a drive against traffic in smuggling of alien into the United States from Canada and Mexico by racketeers. The drive was instituted by United States Attorney George L. Medalle following instructions from Secretary William N. Doak of the Department of Labor. The men taken were Joseph Kogan, a Canadian, Ben Friedland, an Attorney and Stephen A. Tillinghast. Investigators said ten arrests had been made thus far in the drive, but that in order to avoid early publicity which might have impeded the work, the defendants arrested previous to today were assigned on complaints which did not specify the offense. Kogan and Friedland were arraigned before United States Commissioner Garet W. Cottor on charges of conspiring to bring Saly Jacomy from Canada to New York. Kogan made a strong plea for moderate bail, but was nevertheless held for bond of $20,000. Friedland was held in lieu of $2,500 because he was a resident of New York. Mr. Medalle said a general roundup of aliens who have entered the country illegally would follow. The number of his staff estimated the number of such aliens brought here by the alleged "ring" to be 8,000. Medalle stated he had evidence to indicate the "ring" had representatives in various parts of Canada and Mexico.

ROCKY POINT AND VICINITY—The harvest in this section is about all out, a few days and it will be safely housed.—The summer visitors and tourists have nearly all departed. The summer resort was as usual patronized. All cottages being occupied.—Last autumn some parties in this vicinity had a quantity of their years supply of preserves stolen. This year, the same petty thieving has started. It is regrettable if the culprits are not found out and brought to justice. It is a warning to others to have their premises secure against the intruder or intruders.—Ringwood Women's Institute met for their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Wm. Mutch, tea-members and twelve visitors being present. Regular business was carried out. Dental Clinics were fully discussed and finally $1.50 was voted towards its promotion. A guessing contest was started which will be concluded next month. Secretary gave splendid report of Biennial Convention. Band and vocal music added to the enjoyment of the evening. Mrs. Joseph Dolron kindly invited members to her home for next meeting.—Deep regret is expected for the continued illness of Miss Ella Murphy.—Quite a number motored to Cornwall last Tuesday to attend the District Convention of the Women's Institutes.—R.

Suarez Appear Through As Top-Rank Fighter

The severe beating which Justo Suarez received in his recent bout with Billy Petrolle appears to have put an end to the little Argentine's campaign for lightweight recognition and to have robbed the 135-pound class of its most colorful performer.

Suarez, himself, will not admit that he is through as a top-rank lightweight and hopes to earn a return bout with Petrolle, and go on to the championship. However, if his first "come back" bout can be accepted as a criterion, the "Little Bull of the Pampas" has small chance of regaining the proud position held before the Petrolle bout.

The body beating received from Petrolle not only appears to have robbed Suarez of his stamina, but it also tipped off rival fighters to the Argentine's weakness. Suarez simply does not relish body punishment—for that matter, who does?—and his "come back" showing, indicated that Justo has not forgotten the ripping left hooks to the body which Petrolle scored a knockout.

New Has Tendency To Back-Pedal

Justo now has a tendency to back-pedal when opponents shift their attack to the body, and this robs him of the effective attack which enabled him to win earlier bouts. Suarez always was a wide-open forward type of battler, who was willing to take several blows to land one, and when he concentrates on protecting himself "downstairs" he is ineffective.

Suarez, however, has the consolation of knowing that he furnished New York fans with the most thrilling fight they have witnessed since the Dempsey-Firpo heavyweight championship contest. Justo was all but knocked out by hard left hooks to the chin in the opening round of his bout with Petrolle, but he rallied before the round was over and was carrying the fight to Petrolle at the finish.

In the second round, when he battered Petrolle from pillar to post Suarez had hardened ringside critics convinced he was a certain future champ. Once Petrolle shifted his attack to the body, however, Suarez's game rally was at an end and it was only a game fighting heart which enabled him to remain on his feet until the eight round.

York Rifle Club Shoot

On Saturday last the York Rifle Club held its second shoot in the series of Four for the Silver Salver.

This was the beginning of the three day aggregate list of prizes and scores were much better than on the opening day though several met with surprises due possibly to changing light.

Mr. W. J. Scott, of Marshfield, has very kindly donated a special prize to the younger shots; it is a smoking stand all hand made and of very fine workmanship.

Wednesday afternoon and Saturday of this week will complete this series and as these will decide the winner of the Salver it is expected that a large number will be in attendance. Mr. W. H. Vessey of York, apparently has the lead for now.

Scores for last shoot were as follows: Ranges, 2, 5 and 600 yards; Possible, 105.

Celebrates His 80th Birthday

(Canadian Press)

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 8.—Louis B. McFarlane, retired head of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada and the man to whom Graham Bell was indebted for his first chance to demonstrate the practical utility of his telephone apparatus, celebrated his 80th birthday here today.

About 55 years ago Mr. McFarlane, then an employee of the Dominion Telephone in Toronto, found in a wastepaper basket a letter from Alexander Graham Bell, then known as an inventive "crank" living in Brantford, by which Bell asked for permission to demonstrate his instrument over the wires of the telegraph company from Brantford to Paris, a distance of eight miles. Mr. McFarlane went to the manager of the company, who had thrown the letter away, and pleaded that Bell be given at least a sporting chance to show whether his machine would work. He won the argument and a few days later Graham Bell spoke in Brantford and was heard in Paris, Ontario. It was the first long distance telephone message ever spoken in the world.

Before the formation of the Bell Telephone Company, Mr. McFarlane was superintendent of telephone service for the Dominion Telephone Company. He joined the Bell Telephone as soon as it was formed in 1880 and became general manager in 1906, managing director in 1911, president in 1915, chairman of the board in 1925 and retired in 1930. He started earning a living as telegraph messenger at the age of 13 learned telegraphy and has worked his own way through life.

Paris Letter

By Boulevardier (British United Press)

PARIS, Sept. 9.—Frequently on the Boulevard one may encounter a spruce, immaculately dressed man whom all the world knows by name but very few recognize by sight. He is Alfonso XIII of Spain. His Majesty comes regularly to the capital from his hotel at Fontainebleau and makes a round of visits. The King—He is still Spain's ruler in his own eyes, since he did not abdicate—drives his own fast car when he comes in from the country. It is one of the smartest automobiles in France.

I am told that the greatest regret of Alfonso, now that he is exiled from his native land, is to be separated from his seven magnificent Newfoundland dogs. When he was forced to fly from Spain he could not take his dogs with him and he left them in the care of his servants. Without their royal master, the dogs pined and became sick. They always had been accustomed to accompany the King wherever he went in Spain and his prolonged absence apparently seemed inexplicable to them. They refused to take food. King Alfonso was advised but he would not consent to the dogs being destroyed. Through a mutual friend, he asked the President of the Republic, Senor Zamora to save the dogs. Senor Zamora thereupon decided to adopt one of the animals and persuaded other members of the Government to take the others under their care.

Judging by appearances the cares of exile do not weigh heavily on the shoulders of the last of the Spanish Bourbons. He seems as buoyant and youthful looking as when he used to be the life and soul of the social season at Deauville.

Paris is beginning to come to life again after the "dead" season of mid summer when everyone of importance, with the exception of conscientious newspapermen, leave town for the gay shores of the fashionable plages or the sunny country. To tell the truth, this year the seaside beaches are not so gay, although the ingenious publicity men draw pictures of the other resorts crammed full of visitors. That is not the case.

This year many Parisians have gone to Biarritz, attracted by the fact that the Prince of Wales decided to spend his vacation down there. Wherever the Prince goes in France he is certain to be followed by crowds. He specially chose a quiet retreat in the hope that he would have peace for a little while far from the maddening crowd. He succeeded to a large extent this summer in avoiding the curious, because the ancient manor in which he stayed as the guest of Lord Ednam, is not easily accessible.

The peasants have not yet ceased marvelling about the Prince's automobile, which is designed like an airship. The Prince made use of his car mainly to go over to the delightful golf course at Chiberta, which has produced France's best golfers. All the caddies at Chiberta may be mentioned, are girls. Many French golf courses employ girl caddies. I wonder what the

He applied liniment and wrapped the injured leg in adhesive tape. The adhesive tape stuck when he tried to change the dressing. He lighted a match to heat the adhesive to loosen it.
