

Fosters' Beef Iron and Wine

This is a delicious tonic worth trying. We never ask anyone to buy the second bottle, they always buy it without asking.

Delicious to the taste, it contains iron to enrich the blood, reptonized (digested) beef to feed the tissues and choice wine as an appetizer.

If you feel worn-out, tired and run down you need a tonic you couldn't find a better one than this—like all our remedies it is of the highest quality.

Twice Proven Cure for Nerves

Irritable, Hysterical, Sleepless, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Restores Health.

There is a message in this letter for thousands of women who are suffering from broken-down nervous systems. Sleepless nights, much irritability over little things, spells of dizziness and nervous sick headaches are among the symptoms.

You may not realize the nature of your ailments until nervous prostration comes upon you. But, in whatever stage you find yourself, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is ready to help you.

Mrs. W. J. May, 88 Annette street, Toronto, writes: "Some years ago I suffered from nervous trouble, and took Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which completely cured me. About six months ago I received a shock which again shattered my nervous system to such an extent that I was irritable and hysterical, and could not sleep nights. I began to use the Nerve Food again and was not disappointed. Improvement was apparent from the first box, and now I am entirely well."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers.

RIFLE SHOOTING

Under the winding up act of 1913, several riflemen, upon their own responsibility propose going out to Kensington range next Saturday afternoon to have a friendly shoot. Two members of the now celebrated and hard to down Civilian Rifle Club, have decided to fight to a finish over a League Spoon. Others suggest that the Ferris Cup be shot for on Saturday. Perhaps Range Officer Longworth could get together those eligible for this competition.

Then for those who want to try to get 100 points for the first time Capt. Wells Stanley's silver medal is open for the rest of the season. It may seem strange in print to say that the Civilians' second team, who beat the first, have not shot off that tie yet.

Fortunately "there are other ties that bind", otherwise there might be trouble. The order of the ranges for Saturday next will be 500 and 600 yds finishing at 200 yds.—7 shots each. Those bent on making 100 points this year have another opportunity. Arrangements might be made to have the 500 yd. bulls eye placed on the 200 yd. range target, and the 600 yd. bull on the 500 and 600 targets. With these conditions and Indian summer weather everyone would go home happy.

FOOTBALL

Football is now in full swing in Charlottetown, and on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the first of the A.A.A. Grounds. The teams that are to play are the Connaughts and the St. Dunstan's College boys.

The collegians are a strong aggregation and it will be remembered that last year they proved that they knew how, and could play the game. The Connaughts on Thursday will play their first game and although it cannot yet be said how they will play it, it can plainly be seen by the line-up that they have the material and will make an earnest effort to establish a reputation in football.

The following is the line-up: Connaughts.—Full Back, Jack MacAleer; Halves: H. Gillis, F. McCarry, Reg Fitzgerald, D. Gillis; Tom Trainor, G. D. McDonald, George McMahon. The forwards will be picked from the following:—Gay McAskill, Boates, McPherson, Mullins, Trainor, Keenan, Landrigan and Fred Moore. S. D. C. Full back, Edwin McDonald; Halves, H. Fitzgerald, J. Sark, E. Kelly, J. McIsaac, quarter, E. McNeill, P. Butler, A. McDonald. Forwards: Hogan, J. McDougal, Jas. McGuigan, A. Murphy, A. McIntyre, F. McPherson, B. Gorman, M. McGuigan.

MEXICAN SITUATION CAUSES COMMENT

(Canadian Press.) WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The Mexican situation is the subject of wide spread comment in Washington official quarters where little of a definite, tangible character is known concerning the exact status of affairs from reports from Mexico City. The new and somewhat summary move made by the United States towards the elimination of General Huerta has brought no response from the State Department or other official sources, beyond a brief statement from Secretary Bryan that no ultimatum was presented. Whether some communication less drastic than an ultimatum was presented Mr. Bryan positively declined to state maintaining that the Government should be free to shape its course of action on such affairs without defining each step through the press.

President Wilson left early to cast his vote in New Jersey, returning late in the evening. Meantime Secretary Bryan remained at the State Department where they were no signs of unwonted activity beyond constant inquiries concerning reports from Mexico City of another urgent communication.

P. E. ISLAND'S CASE

until the year 1873 when that government at last conceded six members as the following correspondence shows:

Telegram from Robert P. Haythorne to Lieutenant Governor Robinson dated February 26th, 1873.

"Held two Conferences. Increase of annual allowance. Probable yield six representatives."

Telegram from Robert P. Haythorne to Lieutenant Governor Robinson, March 6th, 1873.

"Highly probable get six representatives; try and send reply Council as soon as possible."

Telegram from Lieutenant Governor Robinson to Robert P. Haythorne.

"Council will concur in advising dissolution. We hope six representatives will be conceded."

Telegram to Hon. Edward Palmer from Robert Haythorne, March 6th, 1873.

"Except modifications stated and interest difference old debt better terms allowed. Six members conceded."

That we were to have a minimum representation of six is made clear enough from the evidence and facts above submitted. By some oversight or mistake the memorandum embodying the terms did not in clear and unequivocal language provide for such. That however, was the joint mistake of both contracting parties and a mutual mistake should never be held to be binding. Had there been more care shown at that time in seeing that the understanding for a minimum representation of six had been clearly placed in the agreement no one would have made the least objection. We are simply asking now that the mistake then made be corrected.

2ND GROUND.

The decline in the population of this Province was owing in some degree to the failure of Canada to carry out its contract to place "the Island in continuous communication with the railway system of the Dominion."

Prior to Confederation, this Island had a well established commerce directly with Great Britain, the West Indies and other lands, and had a very small proportion of its commerce with the colonies now comprised in Canada. By entering the Union the direction and control of its commerce and industrial development were delivered over to Canada; the independent lines of trade which this Island had established were diverted to Canadian channels and continuous communication with the Mainland as a consequence became essential to its welfare.

CANADA DEFAULTED ON ITS CONTRACT. It is unnecessary to set forth in detail the extent of this default. It was admitted in 1901 when the Dominion agreed to pay annually to this Province the sum of $30,000 "for non-fulfilment of their terms of Union" as respects the maintenance of efficient steam communication both summer and winter between the Island and the Mainland. The utter inadequacy of this allowance need not be considered in this connection. The point is that the breach of contract was admitted by Canada.

Prior to Confederation this Island was doubling its population every 30 years; its revenues were doubling every 12 years. In 1841 its population was 47,034; in 1871—the last census before Confederation—it was 94,021. At a steadily diminishing ratio of increase, it reached 109,075 in 1891 and then declined rapidly to 93,722 in 1911.

If the pre-Confederation ratio of increase had been maintained the population would now be 219,000.

In the neighboring colony of Newfoundland in which the natural advantages were much less and where the ratio of increase had always been much lower, the population increased from 161,374 in 1874 when its census was taken, to upwards of 240,000 in 1911. Population always tends to move from disadvantage to advantage.

It is but fair to assume that the unfavourable conditions brought about in this Province by the non-fulfilment of their terms of Confederation had much to do with its loss of population and it is contended that it is most unjust that this Province should be penalized by Canada for Canada's default.

It is impossible to come to any other conclusion than that the draughtsman in drawing up the terms of Union overlooked the agreement that had been arrived at as to representation and neglected to use words necessary to provide for a minimum representation. It is clear that our Province refused to accept the Quebec terms because that minimum of six was denied us. Is it reasonable to suppose that having refused to come in for nine years on account of the smallness of the representation which the Quebec terms offered that all these objections would vanish in 1873 and that the Island would join the Union knowing that it would only have six members for a few years. After the census of 1891 we lost one member. After that of 1901 another, and unless this conference comes to our relief with a recommendation we will certainly lose a third as a result of the census of 1911; and in a few years our Province will only have one representative in the House and eventually none at all. When this takes place an intolerable situation will arise. Taxation without representation is under constitutional government impossible, and to this P. E. Island is steadily drifting. It is not the part of wisdom to wait till that day arrives. The remedy should be given and the mistake under which our Province suffers should be corrected now. Delay only aggravates the situation and rosters the final adjustment more difficult.

SAD FATALITY

fore he went over he must have struck something and must have been partially stunned at least, if not altogether, because no man was going to fall into water and lie there who if he was able to get up would not make a noise, and at that hour of the night, everything being quiet around there, His Worship thought that if the deceased had made a noise, the people in the station would have heard him. There were several people around, but no one heard a sound, so that went to show that the man was not in a condition to shout. There were no marks on him at all, except a slight bruise on the nose, and that could very easily be accounted for, from the position of the body; the head being up against the breastwork and the nose pressing against it, practically resting on a piece of iron hoop, which probably caused the scrape on the nose. There were no bones broken, and everything seemed to be all right that way. Of course if a man fell over six or seven feet and came down on his back, the shock would be quite sufficient to cause a partial stunning, and the man would be unable to do anything for himself for a short time. Even half a minute would be sufficient where there was three or four feet of water there, to account for the man not making any noise. There was no doubt that the man was drowned; if he had gone into the water dead he would not have been so full of water as he was found to be. He must have been breathing to get that water into him.

One of the jurors asked whether the deceased could have received a blow sufficient to stun him without leaving a mark.

The coroner replied that a man falling down six or seven feet and getting even a blow on the back would be sufficient to drive the wind out of him for a few seconds; and a man might fall in such a peculiar position as to leave no marks on his body.

Another of the jurors asked whether there was anything to show that the deceased tried to get up the breastwork.

The coroner said that when the body was found it was quite close to the breastwork, as near as it could be. But he thought that if the man had been able to climb up, he would have been able to shout.

Inquiring of the jury whether they would require any more evidence, the coroner remarked that they had not been able to get any more than had been presented to them that night.

The jury expressed themselves as being satisfied with the evidence laid before them, and proceeded to consider their verdict. After short deliberation they returned a verdict that the deceased had come to his death by accidental drowning.
