Laval Has Opposition In France

By Thomas F. Hawkins (Associated Press Staff Writer) BERNE, SWITZERLAND, Aug. 18 (AP)—Pierre Laval starts his fifth month as pilot of the government at Vichy tomorrow with his energies devoted to pouring more French labor into Germany, and to consolidating his own political power at home.

proposes a degree of collaboration with Germany which he implies will surpass that of Laval. The difficulties of combating sabotage and subversive resistance, especially in the occupied area of France, and problems of providing sufficient food for the country are other political factors confronting Laval.

Nevertheless Laval has made progress in the eyes of the Axis. He has started workers on the way to Germany, and has promised more. He has cleared away any doubt which may have existed when he took office with the fiat declaration, "I salute the German victory," and he has maintained this attitude thus far without bringing about a break in relations with the United States. He has been energetic in recruiting workers for Germany, stimulating public interest in exchanging laborers for war prisoners in accordance with a plan offered by the Germans. Laval has gone beyond recruiting of purely technical workers for the German armament industries to include, as press chief Jean Luchaire announced, "all superfluous" employees of newspapers and publishing plants to assure release of war prisoners who are needed urgently in France for agricultural work. Has Opposition In the political field at home, Laval has run up against Doriot. "Rumors have been spread continuously endeavoring to prepare Doriot for responsibilities in the near future," the Vichy correspondent of the Neue Zurich Zeitung wrote recently. Le Franciste, newspaper in the unoccupied zone, intimated that Doriot hoped to assume control of the government about Oct. 15 "with or without the Marshal's consent."

Addressing Doriot editorially, Le Franciste said this "can never be," but Doriot nevertheless remains a factor in French politics. One big "if" persists for Laval—the reaction of the French population in the event of British military action on the continent. But Laval is aware of his responsibility toward the Germans in this respect. Through subordinates he has warned that "the whole country would be held accountable for imprudent actions of individuals." He is taking steps to see that his program of collaboration isn't spoiled by French support of a second front.

MacGillivray and the late John J. MacGillivray of Blooming Point became the bride of Mrs. Joseph Baldwin, son of Mrs. Thomas Baldwin, Baldwin's Road. The ceremony, which was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends was performed by Rev. Father MacPherson, Parish Priest. For the occasion the altar was tastefully decorated by friends of the bride. The bride looked very charming in a floor length gown of white silk net with a finger tip veil caught with rosebuds, and carried an arm bouquet of baby's breath. The bride's maid Miss Rita MacGillivray, sister of the bride, wore a floor length gown of blue silk sheer and carried a bouquet of baby's breath.

Mr. Daniel Baldwin, cousin of the groom, acted as groomsmen. Amidst showers of confetti and best wishes the bride and groom were escorted to the bride's home at 48 Road, where a dinner reception was given at the Charlottetown Hotel. For travelling the bride wore a street length dress of blue silk with matching accessories. The bridesmaid wore flowered silk with accompanying accessories. Deacon Chambers Nuptials (Vancouver News-Gazette) On Saturday, June 20, at 4 p.m. in Ryerson United Church, Bernice Beaulah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Chambers of Regina, Saskatchewan, became the bride of Mr. Campbell Keith Deacon, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Deacon of this city, former residents of North Wiltshire P. E. I.

For the ceremony the bride chose flowing ivory satin with fitted bodice and long pointed sleeves adding graceful lines to the all-housette skirt. Ivory satin tubing piped the drop-shoulder yoke as well as the new low waistline, while English illusion net cascaded its full length over the satin train. The bride carried pink and white carnations and at her throat she wore the gift of her groom, a cross pendant of amethyst and rubies.

Her only attendant, Miss Gertrude (Arthur) Anthony, was gowned in floor-length yellow sheer with net cap on tone. Her bouquet was of yellow carnations and mauve sweetpeas. Mrs. Chambers chose floor-length rose sheer with white gardenias en corsage, while the groom's mother was attired in black rose-embroidered net gown and cape and black accessories. Her corsage was also of white gardenias and rubies. Fifty guests were present at the attractive ceremony performed amidst a galaxy of roses, delphiniums, peonies and ferns. To the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, the bride's father led his daughter to the altar where Rev. E. D. Braden performed the ceremony. Mr. Arthur Anthony supported the groom, while others were Messrs. Douglas Speer and George Scott. Following the signing of the registers, during which the organs rendered "I Love You Truly," a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Sault, 2140 West Thirtieth Avenue. Serviteurs included Mrs. Geo. Scott, Mrs. Verma Chambers, Miss Charlotte Kinnear and Miss Sibi, Pop. Rev.
