EARNSCIFFE W. L.
The September meeting of the Earnsciffe Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Robert McKinnon on Tuesday, Sept. 16th with 10 members and one visitor present. The meeting had been postponed for a week owing to illness. Our Vice-Pres., Mrs. J. E. Carrier occupied the chair, meeting opened by recital of Creed, followed by minutes of last meeting read and adopted. Roll call was then answered by

INDUCTION OF REV. P. WATSON CURRIE, MURRAY HARBOR NORTH

The subject of this sketch who was inducted as pastor in Murray Harbor North Presbyterian Church on the evening of Tuesday, the 23rd inst., is a son of the manse, his father, Rev. Archibald Currie, M.A., having served his lifetime in the rural charge of St. Andrew Sonner, Ont., about 50 miles north east of the city of Toronto. At the coming of his father to what was then called the Township of Brock, it was a primitive wilderness and the five farms had their crop of heavy timber. The settlers there had recently come from the Land of cakes and heather and brought with them the religious instincts of their ancestors. Rev. Peter Watson Currie was the second son, the elder brother Edward Charles, being the esteemed minister of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, at Sault Ste Marie, Ontario. A tract of nearly 2000 miles separated these two who received their early start in the Manse.

Rev. P. Watson Currie, after mastering the early rudiments of education around home was privileged to attend the schools of Toronto and graduated from Knox College, towards the end of the last century, having as classmates and fellow-students, Rev. Dr. Eakin, principal of Knox College, and Dr. J. W. MacNamara the very efficient Clerk of the General Assembly, Rev. Dr. T. Wardlaw Taylor, of St. Andrews, N. B., the other clerk of the Assembly and a recognized authority on Presbyterian law and proceedings, Rev. Dr. Hugh Munroe, of New Glasgow, N. S., and Rev. Dr. William Beattie, of First United Church, London, as well as many others, who have made a record in this and other lands. In his student days, Mr. Currie served mission fields in Lindsay Presbytery, preferring that to the far-flung fields of the east and west and on graduation he remained in his native province, serving with acceptance and success, those fields that have developed ministers and a great many efficient church leaders who caught his spirit and enthusiasm in the Kingdom of the Master here upon earth. Mr. Currie's family consists of two daughters, the eldest of whom Christina Helen, gave a term of six years in the Foreign Mission Field of Korea, prior to its passing under the control of the United Church and since her return has been the efficient helper in the home and congregational duties, where her ability and experience prove invaluable. The younger daughter Jean is married to the son of a former elder in Mr. Currie's congregation and contributes to the upbuilding of the farmer's calling in Ontario, being resident about 100 miles from the birthplace of her father as well as herself.

In May last, on the invitation of Rev. Mr. Rodgers, of Belfast, Mr. Currie came down to spend the summer in supplying various vacancies on the Island and was appointed to Murray Harbor North for the period of one month. At the end of that time an invitation from the session was given to remain longer and in due course, a call was given that he was in due course sustained by Presbytery and accepted by Mr. Currie. The vacancy on the field has been about seven years and it is much to the credit of the people that they have continued to hold up the blue banner and now with a leader we expect this field to rank second to none of the fields on our Island. The best wishes of all are extended to pastor and people and the prayers of all are fully granted to them. Rev. Mr. Currie has kept up the habits of a student and every year since his graduation he has spent a month or more in study at Knox College. His method of presenting truth is known as the Expository style and the old beaten paths are carefully followed. The doctrinal training of Knox College has left its impress and congregations in which he labored have received great and lasting benefit. But it is in his pastoral work that Mr. Currie excels the most of our ministers of these days. A capacity to form friendships coupled to the knowledge of rural life and needs has given him an insight into the life and habits of Canadian people. Having taken a course in Agriculture at the College at Guelph, he is informed on all matters in these lines that concern our people. The best wishes of all accompany both the pastor and people in the new sphere to which they have set their steps. A historical sketch of the congregation will follow in due course.

EDUCATION
A practical education is the greatest wealth that mankind may possess. It is a property that can not be alienated, yet one that may be shared with others without loss. Education is a legacy that all responsible parents should bequeath to their children. It is an investment that the youth of every nation must be persuaded to seek. Some part of every day should be set aside for thoughtful study. The acquirement of knowledge should be a passion with us. There are so many kinds of information required nowadays that no college can supply it. "Self-made" means more than ever, and much of the most useful knowledge is that which is acquired in the quiet hours of home study. Books on every subject are available today and a knowledge of things—and language—can be acquired only by reading the best authors, masters of language and their subjects. Many of the world's greatest men started life with few advantages. They succeeded while others failed, by everlastingly sticking to it. There is very little excuse for the ignorance found in people today.—F. H. MacArthur, Lorne Valley.

UNVEILING TO TAKE PLACE THIS MONTH
MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 23—The unveiling of the statue of Sir Louis Hippolyte Lafontaine, Canadian statesman, which recently arrived in Montreal and is now being erected in Lafontaine Park, will take place on September 28. The granite base upon which the statue is to rest will be completed shortly and the work of placing the historic image in position is now being carried out. At the special commemorative ceremony by which the unveiling will be marked, panegyric addresses of Lafontaine will be pronounced by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux and in English by Hon. C. H. Cahan, Secretary of State. The three laureates of a poetical contest, Abbe J. M. Melancon, J. A. Bailly and Robert Choquette, will read their poems. It has been arranged that in case of inclement weather the addresses will be delivered in the city library near the park. The date of the unveiling of the bronze plaques on the house at Boucherville, where Lafontaine was born, and on his vault at Cote des Neiges Cemetery will be decided later. Sir Louis Hippolyte Lafontaine, the Canadian statesman, was born in 1807, educated in Montreal and practised law here. In 1830, a year after being called to the bar, he entered politics. He was a strong supporter of Papineau but did not approve of violence believing in constitutional methods of reform. He and Robert Baldwin had the honor of establishing the first colonial ministry on an approved constitutional basis. It was during their ministry that the Amnesty Bill, better known as the Rebellion Losses Bill, was passed which caused grave riots in Montreal, personal violence to Lord Elgin, then Governor-General and the destruction of the parliament buildings then in Montreal. He retired from public life in 1851 when the ministry went out of office. In 1853 he was appointed Chief Justice of Lower Canada and president of the seigneurial court, which settled the vexed question of land tenure in Canada. He was created a baronet in 1854 and died in Montreal in 1864. A joint monument to Lafontaine and Baldwin is in Ottawa.

Livestock Market
MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 23—There were 93 cattle, 216 calves, 100 lambs and sheep and 795 hogs for sale on the two Montreal livestock markets today. There was not enough cattle on sale to cause any change in prices. One straight load of good north west cows brought $5. The balance of the cattle were common cows and bulls. Medium veals sold for $8 to $8.50 and common veals around $6.50. Grass calves were poor in both quality and prices. A few very thin ones sold as low as $2.75. The balance of grassers brought $3 to $3.50. Lambs were steady selling for $7.25 to $7.50 for good ewes and wethers with a cut of $2 per cwt. on bucks. Fair sheep brought $4 and culls $2.

EDUCATION LEAGUE TOUR SUCCESSFUL
MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 23—Describing the various tours of the Overseas Education League this summer as the most successful since their organization by him in 1910, Major F. J. Ney, M.C., vice-president and also executive secretary of the National Council of Education of Canada, arrived in Montreal from

"Pickling Hints," each member reported. Report of sick committee was then given by Mrs. Carrier, stating the various calls made during the month also that each and every one were much pleased with the fruit left them on behalf of the Institute. A new school committee was then appointed. It was moved and seconded that a letter of condolence be sent to the family of Mrs. Carey. Roll call for next meeting to be answered by "Halloween Suggestions."

Mrs. Peter McInnis kindly invited the October meeting. A very successful meeting was then brought to a close by Community singing and National Anthem, after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostess, Mrs. McKinnon. To the family of Mrs. William Carey:— We, the members of the Earnsciffe Women's Institute desire to convey to you all our sincere sympathy in the death of your dear mother. We pray that God may comfort and sustain you in this, your hour of sorrow, and enable you to say, "Thy Will be done."

You still have the comforting thought that your mother's love still lives, and that she has just passed on to a richer, fuller life, the glorious reward given to those who have striven in this life to do His will and keep His commandments. We realize that you sorrow not as those who mourn, but believing the revelation of all the joys of her Heavenly Home. Signed on behalf of the members of the Earnsciffe Women's Institute. Mrs. Roy Mutch Mrs. Bernard Doyle, Pres. Laura Young, Sec.

Traces of Lost Franklin

ling wintered there in the ice at Beechey Island after having ascended Wellington Channel to Lat. 77 degrees and returned by the west side of Cornwallis Island. Sir John Franklin was in command and the record ended with "All well." A year later the cairn had been opened and a further note added, telling of the abandonment of the ships and of being then beset. The paper was torn and told its tale of disaster. Sir John had died on June 11, 1847, and nine officers and 14 men had perished also.

Sir John Franklin had fought under Nelson and had made three expeditions to the Arctic before his final one. He had surveyed many thousands of miles of territory and had had a terrifying experience on one occasion, one of the party having in his madness resorted to cannibalism. Yet a quarter of a century later he returned to the Arctic and perished. There is a fascinating and complete account of his adventures in one of the Chronicles of Canada series, "Adventures in the Far North," by Dr. Stephen Leacock, which concludes with the hope that a record buried somewhere in the fastnesses by Franklin or some of his officers may yet be found. The discoveries by Major Burwash add emphasis to this expressed belief.

THE DYING ROSE

Go mark the dying rose that falls
Decaying to the ground;
I think to human hearts it calls,
Tho' few who heard the sound:
"So passes man's brief sojourn here,
Today life's rose will bloom,
Tomorrow, marred by time and care,
He hastens to the tomb."

Let all our thoughts be kind and good,
Since life's brief day soon goes;
And may we learn as Christians should,
A lesson from the rose.
