Canadian Ghost Story.

In Lake Huron there is an island called Main Station. On this island is a stone structure which is supposed to have been a fort to shelter United States troops in the war of 1812. The Indians tell many stories of the spirits which are supposed to gather round this fort. The structure is built of solid stone. It is divided into two compartments by a stone partition, and in each of these is found a fireplace. In and around this structure have been found the bones of many human beings. Also some distance below the surface have been unearthed a number of cannons of solid brass, and the other weapons of warfare.

In the summer of 1889, says a correspondent of the Charlottetown "News," a camping party visited the island. "We purposed remaining for some time. On the first night we were determined to sleep within the walls of the old fort. As the darkness gathered round, driftwood was brought and bright fires were soon ablaze in each of the fireplaces. Story-telling, song-singing, and whist-playing were the amusements of the evening. At last, the hour for retiring having arrived, camp-beds were arranged and all retired. We had lain for several hours; a number were in the world of forgetfulness, as was shown by their heavy breathing. The wind moaned among the trees, and the waves beat upon the rocks below the cliff. Just outside the walls was heard a strange and unearthly noise, which awoke several of the campers, who arose to see, if possible, the cause of the disturbance. On opening the door a bumping noise was heard a few rods away, but as the night was dark nothing could be seen. After waiting into darkness for some time and seeing nothing, all again retired to their beds, with the hope of no further disturbance for the night. In this, however, they were disappointed, for only a few minutes elapsed when the strange noise was again heard. This time it sounded like one crying for help. The door was again opened, and a white figure of a human being was seen. It disappeared as if the earth had opened to receive it. Those who were awake and saw the sight remembered the stories told of the haunted island. These weird sounds were continued during the rest of the night, and sleep forsook the frightened campers. As soon as daylight all concluded to leave the island, which they did, selecting another same distance from this one, where they pitched their tent and finished their stay at Lake Huron."

A Japanese View of Religion.

The spirit of religious unrest and of dissatisfaction with existing religions that undoubtedly prevail to a large extent among the more intellectual classes in Japan finds noteworthy utterance in an article by Kiichi Kaneko in the "Metaphysical Magazine." "What is religion?" he asks:

"According to the ancient philosophers, religion is the worship of God. The object of religion," says Seneca, "is to know God and to imitate Him." Even among modern thinkers, a man like Schleiermacher held that religion is the worship of God and obey His commands. Immanuel Kant, the great German philosopher, once said, "Religion consists in our recognizing all our duties as divine commands." Many other scholars concur in this opinion. But it seems to me that these are the definitions given to the religions of the past. Such is the definition of the historic religions. It is not the definition of ideal religion, not of the religion of the new age, not of the religion of the future. It is too narrow and one-sided. Religion is not merely the worship of God. It is one's sincere attitude toward the universe and life. In this sense, we may call Socialism a religion; Positivism a religion; and Buddhism a religion. If religion is merely to worship a God, Buddhism may not be called a religion, because it names no god to worship. But no historical scholar of religion would overlook it. Buddhism is, undoubtedly, a religion. One of the representative scholars on comparative religion says, summing up all definitions of religion, that religion is the worship of higher power in the sense of need. This seems to me much better and a little broader. Edward Caird wisely adds to this that a man's religion is the expression of his summed-up meaning and the purport of his whole consciousness of things. I think this is as nearly perfect a definition of religion as modern philosophers can give."

Minard's Liniment for Rheumatism.

Willy—Pa, is acting a trade or a profession? Papa—Sometimes, my son, its a profession, but usually it's a walk in life.

MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS regulate the bowels, cure constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache and all affections of the organ of digestion.

"The man who can drive with one hand is the man for me," announced the girl in gray gait.

"You're easily satisfied," returned the girl in blue. "For my part I prefer the man who asks me to drive."

RED HOT SEASON.

During the hot season the blood gets over heated, the drain on the system is severe and the appetite is often lost. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies and invigorates the blood, tones up the system and restores the lost appetite.

"As it is quite cool in this room perhaps I had better keep my hat on while you out my hair."

"Do you think that sugar is unwholesome for children?" asked the anxious parent.

Yes, and you are just as fresh.

As a Food For the Skin

Powders may cover up the disgusting eruptions, but can never cure them, and are positively injurious, because they clog up the pores of the skin. Dr. Chase's Ointment is a food for the skin. It is readily absorbed, and thoroughly cures each and every skin disease, making the skin smooth, soft and clear.

No woman's toilet is complete without Dr. Chase's Ointment, for, besides being the most perfect skin beautifier obtainable, it can be used in a score of different ways. It absolutely cures eczema, salt rheum and the itching to which women are especially subject.

When the feet are sore and chafed with walking an application of Dr. Chase's Ointment takes out the smarting and allays the inflammation in a surprisingly short time. Then for burns, scalds and every sort of chafing, irritation or eruption of the skin, Dr. Chase's Ointment affords a safe and certain cure. It has come to be indispensable in scores of thousands of homes; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Messrs. C. C. Richards & Co.

Gentlemen,—In '98 I had my hand and wrist bitten and badly mangled by a vicious horse. I suffered greatly for several days and the tooth cuts refused to heal, until your agent gave me a bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT which I began using, and the effect was magical. In five hours the pain had ceased, and in two weeks the wound had completely healed and my hand and arm were as well as ever.

Yours truly,
A. E. Roy.

Neuralgia

is Rheumatism of the face.
Uric Acid left in the blood by disordered kidneys lodges along the nerve which branches from the eye over the forehead, and across the cheek to the side of the nose. The cause is the same as in all Rheumatism—disordered kidneys. The cure is likewise the same—

A FAST VOYAGE.

Boston, Sept. 18.—Steamship New England, of the Dominion line, which arrived to lay from Liverpool and Queenstown, established a new record for the trip between Liverpool and Boston. The vessel covered the distance in six days seven hours and 12 minutes. This is 10 minutes better than the best previous time. On the last day of the voyage she steamed 423 miles.
