A GOOD COMPLEXION. What the Famous "Beauty Doctors" Say To Do.

What woman does not crave a good complexion? And what woman, whose clear, soft, delicately hued skin is the envy of all her friends, does not regard it as her dearest possession?

It is very easy to have faultless skin—but it takes time, and some patience. Outdoor exercise, regular bathing, washing only in tepid water, regular hours for sleep and meals, will assist materially.

Blood poisoning from constipation is the great cause of a bad complexion. There is only one thing which will effectually cure constipation, and that is fruit. Ripe fruit purifies the blood by acting on the skin, kidneys and liver.

It causes the bowels to move, cures constipation and beautifies the complexion. An Ottawa physician has discovered a method of combining and concentrating the juices of oranges, apples, prunes and figs, and forcing in an additional atom of bitter from the orange peels—which thus makes a stronger fruit. It makes a new fruit with the fruit action intensified.

The laxative fruit extract is combined with tonics and then condensed into tablets and sold under the name of "Fruit-a-tives" or "Fruit Liver Tablets." These little tablets are pleasant to take, have the mild fruit action, and will cure Constipation, Headaches, Liver and Kidney Diseases and all blood impurities.

Get the genuine "Fruit-a-tives." Nothing else is "just as good," because "Fruit-a-tives" are the only tablets made of pure, fruit juices. For sale at all Druggists, soc. a box, 6 boxes for $2.50 or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

When we came down at half after 6 we were presented to our host and the guests of the evening—handsome men and women in full dress—and young Mr. Livingstone was among them.

I felt rather cheap in my frock coat, although I had thought it grand enough for anybody on the day of my graduation. Dinner announced, the gentleman rose and offered escort to the ladies, and Hope and Mrs. Fuller relieved our embarrassment by conducting us to our seats—women are so deft in those little difficulties.

The dinner was not more formal than that of every evening in the Fuller home—for its master was a rich man of some refinement of taste—and not at all comparable to the splendid hospitality one may see every day at the table of a modern millionaire.

But it did seem very wonderful to us, then, with its fine mannered servants, its flowers, its abundant silver. Hope had written much to her mother of the details of department at John Fuller's table, and Elizabeth had delicately imparted to us the things we ought to know. We behaved well, I have since been told, although we got credit for poorer appetites than we possessed.

Uncle Eb took no chances and refused everything that had a look of mystery and a suggestion of peril, dropping a droll remark betimes that sent a ripple of amusement around the table.

John Trumbull sat opposite me, and even then I felt a curious interest in him—a big, full bearded man, quite six feet tall, his skin and eyes dark, his hair iron gray, his voice deep like David's. I could not get over the impression that I had seen him before—a feeling I have had often facing men I could never possibly have met. No word came out of his iron mouth unless he was addressed, and then all in hearing listened to the little he had to say. It was never more than some very simple remark. In his face and form and voice there was abundant heraldry of rugged power and oxlike vitality.

I have seen a bronze head of Daniel Webster, which, with a full beard and an ample covering of gray hair, would have given one a fairly perfect idea of the look of John Trumbull. Imagine it on a tall and powerful body, and let it speak with a voice that has in it the deep and musical vibration one may hear in the looting of an ox, and you shall see as perfectly as my feeble words can help you to do this remarkable man who must hereafter play before you his part compared to which mine is as the prattle of a child—in this drama of God's triumph.

"You have not heard," said Mrs. Fuller, addressing me, "how Mr. Trumbull saved Slope's life."

"Saved her life?" I exclaimed. "Saved her life," she repeated. "There isn't a doubt of it. We never sent word of it for fear it would give you all needless worry. It was a day of last winter—fell crossing Broadway, a dangerous place. He pulled her aside just in time. The horse's feet were raised above her. She would have been crushed in a moment. He lifted her in his arms and carried her to the sidewalk not a bit the worse for it."

"Seems as if it were fate," said Hope. "I had seen him so often and wondered who he was. I recall a night when I had to come home alone from rehearsal. I was horribly afraid. I remember passing him under a street lamp. If he had spoken to me then I should have dropped with fear, and he would have had to carry me home that time."

"It's an odd thing a girl like you should ever have to walk home alone," said Mr. Fuller. "Doesn't speak well for our friend Livingstone, or Burman there, or Dobbs."

"Mrs. Fuller doesn't give us half a chance," said Livingstone. "She guards her day and night. It's like the monks and the holy grail."

"Hope is independent of the young men," said Mrs. Fuller as we rose from the table. "If I cannot go with her myself in the carriage I always send a maid or a man servant to walk home with her. But Mr. Fuller and I were out of town that night, and the young men missed their great opportunity."

"Find a different way of sparring years ago," said Uncle Eb. "Didn't he've 't please anybody but the girl then. If ye liked a girl ye went an' sot up with her an' giv' her a smack 'n' tol' her right out plain an' square what ye wanted. An' that settled it one way or 'other. An' her mother she s'p' in the next room, with the door half open, an' never paid no 'tention. Recollec' one col' night when I was sparring' the mother hollered out 'o' bed, 'Dony, hev ye got anythin' 'round ye?' An' she hollered back, 'Yis, mother.' An' she hollered, too, but 'twan't nothin' but my arm."

SPECKS BEFORE THE EYES. Seeing Things In The Day Time.

There are Thousands of Persons Afflicted This Way. Ninety-Nine Times Out of One Hundred It Is Caused by Either the Liver, Stomach, Bowels or Digestive Organs.

In no part of the body are the effects of constipation more quickly noticed than in the condition of the eyes. They quickly respond to the poisonous elements which are absorbed into the blood in chronic cases of liver torpidity and sluggish bowel action. When you see a yellowish tinge in the whites of the eyes it shows quickly apparent. Thousands of people see things in the daytime, their vision is blurred, spots come between them and the objects which seem quite intangible, almost imaginary, as they turn their heads they vanish as with a flash. Such conditions are always traced to a torpid liver and a constipated condition of the bowels, yet can always be cured by the well-adjusted use of Smith's Pinpoint Pills, which cure constipation as if by magic. They regulate the functions of the liver, cleanse the poison from the blood, remove the bilious elements, the circulation and strengthen the nerves. Your eyes are clouded without an apparent cause, if you have specks and floating before your vision, see Smith's Pinpoint Pills, Butterfat Pills and get the poisons out of your blood. Remember they cure sick headache, constipation and biliousness in one night. 25 cents, all dealers. All genuine signed by W. F. Smith.

SIGN OF A GOOD SHOE STORE.

THE "Sign of the Slate," hung in front of any Shoe Store is sure testimony to four significant facts.

1st—that store is the most reliable in that town or it couldn't get the agency for "The Slater Shoe."

2nd—that it pays its bills promptly, in cash every thirty days, or it couldn't hold "The Slater Shoe" Agency.

3d—that it is satisfied with a reasonable profit on goods or it wouldn't be selling "The Slater Shoe," which is price-controlled by the Makers.

4th—that it sincerely intends to give the best value possible, and to deal "squarely" with its customers every time, or it wouldn't have signed such a contract as must be signed to control "The Slater Shoe."

Whether you buy Slater Shoes or not, a safe place to trade is at the store where swings "The Sign of the Slate"—for the four reasons given.

The genuine Slater Shoe has the slate frame brand stamped, with the Makers' price ($3.50 or $5.00) on the lining.
