

THE FLAVOR LASTS

Who Helps the Farmers?

SOME OF THE THINGS R. B. BENNETT HAS DONE

EVERY FARMER in Canada knows the last ten years have been the worst he ever experienced. Even before the 1929 crash, foreign markets had been closed. Canada had become "the happy dumping ground" for surplus foreign produce.

Mr. King could not worry about the farmers. He was too busy with power projects and other big interests even to heed the danger signals flashing on every hand in world trends, to warn the farmers of the obvious chaos ahead.

Then came August 7, 1930. Mr. Bennett became prime minister. Vigorous action was promptly substituted for the unbecoming inaction of Mr. King.

"Quick, definite and courageous action was required—and it was forthcoming."

By his actions R. B. Bennett has proved during the last five years he is the best friend Canadian farmers have ever had. He has given to Dominion agriculture prompt aid and material help in every problem confronting the industry.

Who saw the millions of people to be fed in Great Britain and the opportunity for building an economic union within the British Empire in 1930? Who secured the biggest farm produce market in the world for Canadian farmers through the Ottawa agreements in 1932—BENNETT.

Who legalized co-operative marketing for all Canada? Who has given, and is still offering, administrative and financial assistance wherever marketing schemes are organized, in order that the participating producer may have a steadier market and a better price?—BENNETT.

Who gave new hope and the promise of success to Canadian farmers, depressed under the load of piled up liabilities, by enacting the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act—a measure that has brought relief and gladness into thousands of Canadian farm homes?—BENNETT.

Who provided $90,000,000 under the Canadian Farm Loan Act for credit to farmers under easier and more favorable conditions than had been known before?—BENNETT.

Who stabilized wheat prices to give growers $150,000,000 more than they would otherwise have received in the last three years? Who established the Wheat Board to market the Canadian wheat crop systematically and give growers the best possible price the world will pay?—BENNETT.

Who in the last five years provided relief for drought-stricken areas of the west to an amount of $6,000,000 to assist the victims? Who has started the five-million-dollar, five-year drought reclamation plan?—BENNETT.

Who, in 1931, after two years of falling wheat prices, drought and dust, gave a bonus of five cents per bushel on wheat produced in the prairies, totalling $13,000,000?—BENNETT.

Who acted promptly in 1930 to prevent the dumping of surplus foreign produce into Canada, restoring to the Canadian farmer his home market?—BENNETT.

Who is described by Henry Wise Wood as "having gone a long way in endeavoring to aid and restore the industry of agriculture in Canada"?—BENNETT.

Who has worked consistently, with all his might, in the farmers' interests? Who can be depended upon to continue working for the farmers?—BENNETT.

Against this record of consistent, prompt and real help on the part of Mr. Bennett, consider the policy of Mr. King. True, in 1923 the King government passed a Wheat Board Act—but he DID NOT create the Board! After all this inaction on the part of Mr. King was consistent with his declared policy that agriculture prices must find their own level.

Are you willing to go back to open competition against a world of subsidized, organized and bonussed farm marketing, merely for the sake of putting the old Liberal crowd back into office? ACTIONS SPEAK LOUDER THAN WORDS. BENNETT HAS PROVED HE IS THE FARMER'S BEST FRIEND.

Balkans Astray With Trouble Over Frontier

(Associated Press) SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 12.—The political cooks of Europe, occupied in quenching the fire under the Italo-Ethiopian trouble-spot, seemingly have forgotten another kettle in southeastern Europe, which also is boiling over.

Reports from the Bulgar-Turkish border have been especially disquieting to King Boris and his ministers.

Bulgaria has been obliged to stifle many aspirations since the war. She lost territory in the Balkan wars ending in 1913, and what she ceded in 1919 brought the total up to nearly 20,000 square miles.

The only hope of Bulgaria after the 1919 treaty of Neuilly was the promise of a port on the Aegean Sea. Sixteen years have passed, but Greece's offer to let Bulgaria use a small section of the harbor of Salonika has not been accepted here.

Bulgaria requested from Greece and from Turkey a neutral zone along the Greek-Turkish border—the so-called Maritza valley—with the port of Dedeagatch (now Alexandropolis). To this Turks and Greeks strongly objected.

But this is only one angle. In the lost districts of Macedonia and Thrace are many Bulgars who want to come back to their motherland. They say terrorism, anarchism and communism thrive there.

Instead of getting the old Bulgarian dream fulfilled to regain all the west to the Albanian border, where 1,000 years ago the kings of Bulgaria had their capital at Ochrida, Serbia in 1913 drove the Bulgars back to the present borderline. Now efforts to establish a real friendship between Bulgaria and Yugoslavia fall because Bulgaria demands satisfaction on this border.

Bulgaria also was hit hard by the loss of the Dobrutcha farm area to Rumania. "Never and nowhere will we acknowledge this robbery," still is a general expression of the Bulgars.

Turkey One Factor Another danger spot is the boundary between Bulgaria and Turkey. For three reasons: First, Turkey claims that Bulgaria was instigator of the first Balkan war whereby Turkey had to cede almost all its European territory and also Crete; second, Turkey claims that among the 5,500,000 inhabitants of Bulgaria are 700,000 Moslem farmers who want to become Turkish subjects again.

To get this strategic and economically important point back is therefore a desire of every Bulgarian.

House of Lords To Revive Trial Ceremony For Peer

Lord de Clifford to be tried for manslaughter

BY CENTRAL PRESS CANADIAN TORONTO, Oct. 11.—Scion of a family that traces its noble lineage back to 1289, Edward Southwell Russell, 26th Earl de Clifford, must soon stand trial before the British House of Lords, charged with manslaughter. The trial will be held with all the pomp and pageantry which the peers of the realm invoke, a pageant which has not been seen in England since the famous trial of Earl Russell on a charge of bigamy in 1901.

The 28-year-old earl was charged with manslaughter following the death of Douglas George Hopkins, killed on a crossroad near London when his car collided with that of Lord de Clifford. The peer came to trial before a Kingston, Surrey, magistrate who promptly ordered that he face the charge before a jury of his peers, that is before the assembled members of the House of Lords. His right to such a hearing antedates even the history of his ancient family.

Magna Carta, signed by King John in 1215 under coercion from his unruly barons, declares in one of its most famous clauses that "no man shall be judged but by his peers." This was but formal recognition of a privilege which even then had been long enjoyed. The Upper House can try members only for "treason or felony." Manslaughter is a felony under English law.

Throughout the centuries the popoous formality that marks such a trial has been little changed. All members of the House of Lords, with or without legal experience, serve as judges, under presidency of the lord high steward appointed by the king. The lord chancellor is usually selected. The trial takes place, not in the House of Lords itself, but in either Westminster Hall or the Royal Gallery of Westminster. Every peer is robed in the scarlet robes of his rank and is seated in a crimson chair. Close to 750 peers, each one of whom must be personally notified of the impending trial, will hold place in the court. The prisoner, without his robes and bareheaded, is escorted into the chamber by the gentleman usher of the black rod. He must kneel before the court until granted permission to stand or be seated.

POLICE COURT—The defendant in an insulting and abusive language case was fined $10.00 and costs or ten days in jail. A drunk and incapable who failed to appear had his five dollar bail bond estreated.

ISLANDER VICE PRESIDENT—Mr. McCarey of Baltimore, who is always interested in the success of Islanders abroad, sends the Guardian a clipping from the Baltimore Sun reporting the selection of Mr. Wilfred T. McQuaid as a vice-president of Loyola Alumni. The names of the directors, given in the same report are, Mr. McCarey states, quite prominent citizens, which goes to show that Mr. McQuaid is a real factor in his adopted home. The Guardian is always pleased to record success of this kind but regrets that our limited area compels many talented people to expand in a broader territory.

MacNutt - Davis Nuptials

The marriage of Miss Edith MacNutt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. MacNutt, to Mr. J. Thomas Davies, son of Mrs. J. J. Davies, was solemnized in the Malpasque United Church by Rev. Mr. MacMillan, at 7.30 Saturday morning, in the presence of the immediate families.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion by girl friends of the bride, with autumn leaves and fall flowers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charmingly attired in a dark brown chiffon velvet dress with matching accessories, and carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses.

Following the marriage service a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Davies left amid a shower of confetti and good wishes on a honeymoon trip to Montreal and other Canadian cities.

REASONABLE

The skipper of a tramp schooner, in writing up the log recording an eventful day, rounded off his task with the entry "Mate intoxicated." To the mate, who indignantly protested on reading it, the skipper retorted, "Well, it's true ain't it?"

"On the following day it was the mate's duty to write up the log, and he completed his account with "Skipper sober."

The captain stared at it for a moment, then exploded, "Well, it's true, ain't it?" was the mate's rejoinder.

Baywater Lady Suffered Severe Pains In Back

Soon Found Relief Through Dodd's Kidney Pills

Baywater, N. S., Oct. 14.—(Special) "About four years ago I was taken sick with pain in my back and left side," writes Mrs. Oliver Amalt, of this place. "It was so severe I couldn't straighten up to walk or lift anything. I was told it was kidney trouble so my husband got me two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. After I used them I was better, so I kept taking them until I felt no pain at all. I haven't had any backache or any of the old trouble since."

When the kidneys fail in their normal duty of filtering all poisons from the blood—backache often follows. Be guided by the experience of Mrs. Amalt and thousands of others, and take Dodd's Kidney Pills if anything goes wrong with your kidneys.

We would be pleased to explain our platform to anyone calling at our Committee Rooms, and would send literature to interested persons.

The issue in this campaign is between the people of Canada, and twelve men who dominate and dictate Canada's affairs.

Our party has no funds to print an advertisement in this paper but we would ask for your support and trust that you will see fit to mark your X after the first two names on the ballot.
