WHEN FOXES WENT UP WITHOUT INCREASING PRICE

Dr. Frank Tells of His Trip Among the Clouds With His Pair of Silver Beauties and His Other Exploits. Says Montreal Show was a Success.

Most of the Island ranchers who have been attending the Live Fox Show in Montreal have returned. The latest to arrive were Mr. Jas. C. Tuplin of Black Banks and Dr. Leo Frank of this city, who returned Wednesday night.

Dr. Frank reports that the exhibition was a marked success not only from an educational standpoint but from a strictly business point of view. There were a number of buyers present from the United States but few sales were consummated.

This is claimed to have been due to the fact that the Islanders were reported to be selling the foxes below pet value and bargain hunters were looking for snags.

There were a number of buyers present from the United States but few sales were consummated.

Dr. Frank himself made a number of purchases, feeling very much enthused over the future prospects of the business and is ready to buy more.

When asked whether the exhibition from a financial standpoint was a success the Doctor replied that he was reliably informed that the Commission of Conservation is out to the extent of about three thousand dollars.

The chief items of expense of course were the building of cages and the salaries of the organizing staff, which next year no doubt will show a profit.

The doctor questioned as to his reported escapades in Montreal was asked if it was true that foxes had gone up in that city without increasing the price. He replied:—

"Yes, it is a fact. From a publicity standpoint, it was a success. It would be good business. Someone had to act the fool and at the same time raise above the common level. There happened to be two aviators in Montreal, each with an aeroplane.

One machine was equipped with a camera for the taking of moving pictures in the air. The other was for passenger service. I arranged with both parties for a flight and on the afternoon of the first day of the show I stepped into the passenger plane with two of my special favorite foxes and made an ascent of 2500 feet. The other plane followed and some above us flying a series of photographs showing the foxes in the air. The animals were not tied; I simply held them and they showed not the least sign of fear. If anyone was scared it was not the foxes. We were seventy-five minutes in the air and circled the entire city, making three ascents. This brought quite a number of visitors to the exhibition to see the flying foxes as they were "trade marked." The pictures will no doubt be seen later in Charlottetown as they were taken by the Paths Weekly, the Fox Weekly and the Pictoscope people.

The doctor's next escapade was to introduce the foxes to Montreal society. His means of accomplishing this was to have a lady place a live fox around her neck while the doctor, in company with her, led one of the foxes through the streets on a leash. This as may be supposed, attracted considerable attention and the movie men were not slow to take advantage of this unique method of advertising and secured some good views.

The doctor's last exploit was to introduce the foxes into a real fox trot. He took two of the pets to a number of well known dancing saloons where the fox trot was danced. In this novel dance some of the ladies placed one of the foxes across their shoulders. The animals are so tame that they showed no fear and actually appeared to enjoy the dance.

CANON SIMPSON LAID TO REST

Impressive Funeral Services at St. Peter's Cathedral Yesterday—Many Citizens Pay Their Last Tribute.

Citizens of every rank and station paid their final tribute of respect to the memory of the late Canon Simpson yesterday morning. The church was filled to capacity at the funeral service which was conducted by Rev. Dr. Hunt of King's College, who had been associated with the Canon for many years in the work at St. Peter's.

Other clergy present were Archdeacon Watson who represented the Archbishop of the Diocese, Rev. Canon Harris, of Halifax, Rev. C. de W. White, of Summerside, Rev. J. J. Bamford of Port Hill, Rev. W. R. Wrixton of Capraud, Rev. E. P. Wood of Alberton, Rev. S. Jeffrey of Georgetown and Rev. H. C. Light acting incumbent of St. Peter's.

The service rendered by a full choir opened with the singing of the 90th Psalm—"Lord Thou Hast Been Our Refuge from One Generation to Another," followed by the 130th, the "De Profundis," "Out of the Deep Have I Called Unto Thee, O Lord."

The fifteenth chapter of I. Corinthians, the chapter appointed by the prayer book to be read at funerals in which St. Paul deals so effectively with the theme of Death and the Resurrection was impressively read by Archdeacon Watson. The hymns sung were two of the deceased's favorites, No 593—

"Where the Light Footed Shineth," and 258—"Just As I Am." At the close of the service the choir and clergy proceeded to the church entrance the coffin and pall bearers following the choir in their robes standing in a double line between the bears and the church as the body was carried out.

The funeral was very largely attended, notwithstanding the fact that the weather was disagreeable, a heavy shower coming on just as the body was taken from the church.

The words of commitment in St. Peter's Cemetery were said by Rev. Dr. Hunt.

There was a very large attendance at the Memorial Eucharist held at 7.45. Merbecke's setting of the office of the Holy Communion was capably rendered by the choir supplemented by appropriate hymns. Seven eucharists were present at this service at which Dr. Hunt was celebrant, assisted by Canon Harris. Fifty-seven persons received the Communion.

Mrs. Simpson and family receive telegrams of sympathy from many sources including ones from Sir Joseph Pope, Secretary of State, Archbishop Worrell, Rev. A. E. Andrew, Windsor, N. S., Rev. A. R. Yeoman, Halifax, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Carvell, Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Longworth in St. John and others.

IN MEMORIAM

REV. CANON SIMPSON. Remember now, dear Lord, we pray, Thy servant who has passed away, That he may find eternal rest With all the spirits of the blest.

Thy bright rays upon him shine, Lead him, O Holy One Divine, Where those celestial mountains rise Amid the fields of paradise.

If aught of sin doth yet remain, May Thy pure love efface its stain, And grant him everlasting peace, And may his love and joy increase.

May we, dear Lord, when life is o'er, With all our loved ones gone be sweet glimpses of Thy presence gain. Till perfect bliss we shall attain.

Then with all holy souls may we The Beatific Vision see, And while eternal ages run And while the blessed Three in One, Exult the Blessed Three in One. W. EDGAR ENMAN
