CONSUL AT ARUBA WOULD NOT LEAVE

An Incident of the Trouble Between Venezuela and the Netherlands

WILLEMSTAD, Curacoa, Aug. 21—The Dutch Island of Aruba has furnished the latest incident in the existing difficulty between the Netherland and Venezeula. Five days ago a Venezuelan coasting vessel arrived at Aruba to take away the Venezuelan Consul. As soon as the purpose of the visit became known, the people of the island started a demonstration, crowding around the residence of the Consul and trying to haul down his flag. The Governor of the Island appeared, however, and succeeded with a few well-chosen words in putting an end to the disorder. The Consul refused to leave his post, saying that illness made going away impossible, and consequently the coast guard vessel sailed away with her mission unfulfilled.

A BOY KILLED PLAYING INDIAN

Companion Repulsed Attack with Revolver, Not Knowing it was Loaded

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 21—While playing "soldiers and Indians" Edward Finerty, twelve years old, of Gary, Ind., was shot and killed yesterday by John Gormley, fifteen years old. The boys, with a number of friends, had divided into two groups. The Gormley boy, with his party, were defending the "fort," which at other times was the office of D. T. Finerty, father of the dead boy, an undertaker in Gary.

When the "Indians," under command of young Finerty, made the attack young Gormley flourished a revolver and snapped the trigger, not knowing that the weapon was loaded. He is being held by the police until the accident is investigated by the coroner's jury.

WOMAN KLLS MANY SNAKES

NASHUA, N. H., Aug. 21.—Mrs. Emma Frye, of Nashua, has gained a reputation as a snake killer. Shehas killed as many as ten large black snakes in one week near her home on the Dunstable road.

She says she hates the reptiles and delights in taking their lives. She catches them by the neck and breaks their neck bone with one twist of her hands.

There is a spot on the land adjoining Mrs. Frye's home which she calls her "snake cemetery," where hundreds of snakes are buried.

"The largest snake I killed this year," said Mrs. Frye, "was a little more than eight feet long; many of them were four and five feet long. Indeed, the snakes in this locality seem to grow very large and there are a great many of them hereabouts."

So successful is Mrs. Frye in disposing of serpents that whenever any of the neighbors sights a nest of snakes they call upon her to tackle them, and she is known as "the snake killer of Nashua."

Mrs. Frye is a little woman, and her appearance does not give one the impression of being a killer of snakes. She was left a widow with several small children, and by hard work and much courage maintained them and educated them to fill good positions in life. She is one of the few women in New England who declare they are not afraid of anything.

Joseph Powers, son of John Powers, of Fort Augustus, P. E. Island, was one of the good-looking men attending the last meeting of the San Francisco Society. Joe has been in San Francisco about two years, and has made many friends in the western city during that time.

THE MAN HUNT

Two New Reels—Three New Pictures

The head liner for Tonight's list at New Wonderland runs a whole reel. It is a thrilling story, showing the Flower of the Prairie—pretty Rose starting off from her typical Western ranch home, to the Post Office to get money for the pay roll. The cowboys wave her a farewell, proud of their favorite who is a superb rider. She reaches the Post Office, gets the money, starts for home—is intercepted by a drunken Mexican Half Breed, who robs her and nearly kills her. Her final reaching of her home—the riderless horse—the cowboys off to revenge their darling—the capture of the half breed and the swift justice meted out to him, all have their place in the story, each intensely interesting and thrilling.

Canine Sagacity is another splendid picture, featuring the intelligence of the faithful dumb animal which all children love.

The Match Boy's Honesty tells a good story—and points a good moral. It is grand.

Miss McDonald will sing the catchy March Song "Good bye Mamie" It was posed for by local people. Come and see who they are.
