TORONTO MURDER INQUEST ADJOURNED

TORONTO, March 29.—The inquest into the death of Rebecca Cooper (Berge), who was shot down at the door of her home, 160 Chestnut St., on Monday night, was adjourned until Wednesday, April 3. The only evidence taken at the Morgue was the statement of Dr. A. J. Harrington, 813 Bathurst street, who made the post-mortem examination. The autopsy showed that the bullet which was a ".32" passed through the heart and lungs and lodged in the muscles of the back. The inquiry was postponed to give the police an opportunity to make further investigations.

The police are now looking for a dark, clean-shaven man of medium height as the man who fired the fatal shot. Three boys who saw the tragedy gave this description of the murderer to the police yesterday. They stated that the man wore a green-colored overcoat and a Christy hat. Detectives Taylor, Archibald and Tipton have been detailed on the case, and yesterday located a man who may prove to be a valuable witness. He is Alex. Markovitch, a baker, who lives on Chestnut street. He stated that it was he who met Abel Cohen, a friend of the dead woman, near the corner of Edward and Shepard streets and told him of the shooting. Markovitch said he himself had previously heard of the murder.
