TOO MUCH HOSPITALITY.

Welcomes Offered to Travelers Often Embarrassing.

Returned missionaries, explorers and those who travel in out-of-the-way regions of the globe keep constantly bringing back tales of the strange ways much of mankind still have with their guests.

With the Apinzi tribe of Africa, just below the equator, the essence of hospitality is to include among the presents of food handed over to the visitor a fat slave. "He is young and tender," the donor says thinking that no one can fail to approve of this gift, so much better than the fowls, etc., that have been thrown in. "Kill him for your evening meal." On the other hand, the Navajo Indian considers the finest tribute he can pay to the passing traveler with amole, the root of a plant grown in Mexico and some parts of the Southwest, that is a very good substitute for soap. The Papuans of New Guinea in the Pacific have an even more novel way of showing great friendship for the stranger. Water signifies peace and satisfaction with them, so when a stranger approaches bearing a people of whom they amove at first sight they sprinkle water on their heads and dance wildly and exult in the shallow water around the boat.

The average traveler would much rather not become friends with a Terra del Fuegian, for the people of that nationality know of no better way of expressing liking and showing honor than by hugging the tip-end of South America are very nearly the dirtiest on record, and as their bodies are covered with grease, clay and vermin, such hugging is most offensive. It is not to be avoided, though, if any native of high rank takes a strong liking to his visitor.

There is a Siberian tribe that makes a practice of eating a guest whom it admires or whose virtue it greatly desires to emulate in order, so the story goes, that his virtue might abide "in their midst." The tourist, however, is generally speaking, safe in this Russianized country.

If he visits the Tehuktohi close to Behring's Straits and gets into one of their big tents he will find a family almost completely nude. The women will not mind at all. The women muster up will honor him and make him feel at home by putting strings of glass beads in their hair that has been copiously covered with grease. Then, of course, having been shown this courtesy, he must stay in the smoky stifling atmosphere and sup on hot broiled reindeer.

The visitor to an Abyssinian village must first sit under a tree and let himself be observed. Then some important individual will step forward and give him the freedom of his house. The Ashangos meet the traveler with dishes of red paint and the man who does not paint himself at once is definitely "queered" in that village. The Zunis of New Mexico and Arizona offer their guests a "cock-tail." It is made of mesquite beans pounded in an earthen jar, parched corn and flour, and is reported to be a very superior appetizer.

The black Batokas of the Zambezi roll on their backs and deal themselves resounding slaps on their naked skins. If the rolling is prolonged and the slaps and the attendant yelling very loud the guest is high in favor. Some New Zealanders squat on the ground and weep. The Nubians wait anxiously for the coming visitor and are eager to entertain. A jar of fresh water is always ready in each house of the tribe for the stranger and no one else. The Kafirs assure each white visitor that he ranks as a chief and make good in the way they entertain him.

Cures Old Folks' Coughs

Doesn't Disturb the Stomach, Eases at Once and Cures Thoroughly.

"CATARRHOZONE" A BOON TO MANY THOUSANDS.

Because you are old is no reason for suffering with everlasting coughing—those terrible chest troubles and difficult breathing can be thoroughly cured with Catarrhozone. You simply breathe the healing vapor of Catarrhozone and instantly its rich balsamic fumes are carried by your breath into the tiniest recesses of the nose, throat, chest, bronchial tubes and lungs.

Just think of it—a direct breathing medicine, full of soothing antiseptic pine essences that reaches every sore, congested membrane in two seconds. No drugs to take—nothing to harm or sicken the stomach, because Catarrhozone is the purest, safest cough, catarrh and cold remedy ever devised.

"For many years," writes Richard McCullum, Stirling, Ont., "I have suffered from Catarrh, and continually hawked and coughed, so that my life was always in an inflamed, irritable condition. "Doctors' medicine did not help me in the least, and all other remedies I used were quite useless. In one case it was time wasted in snuffing powder up the nose; in another using a greasy ointment, and so on. Not one of them was the least bit of good. "I heard Catarrhozone favorably spoken of, and tried it. Really it benefited me more in a few hours than years of treatment with doctors' and other so-called remedies. "Receiving such immense benefit, I continued using Catarrhozone, and in a few weeks I was completely cured of Catarrh and throat trouble. "Get Catarrhozone to-day. Large size cost $1.00, and lasts two months. Smaller sizes 25c. and 50c. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

Saving a Desperate Man.

"Why did you get engaged to Harry? You swore that you would never, never have anything to do with such a man." "Yes, dear, I know I did. But—well, I wouldn't have accepted him if I hadn't made such a dreadful threat." "Oh, that old stall about rushing out and committing suicide?" "No; worse than that." "But any of those threats are bluff. I suppose he said he'd kill the next man who called on you, eh?" "No, not I've heard that before. Dearie, he threatened that if I did not accept him he'd go and propose to you. And I believe he would have done it, too. He was perfectly desperate."

The Original Lovers' Leap.

Sappho's Leap was the name given to a white cliff or promontory anciently called Leucadia, now Cape Ducato, at the southern extremity of Santa Maura, one of the Ionian islands. It was so called because Sappho, the poetess, is reported to have thrown herself from this height into the sea. A criminal, with birds attached to him to break his fall, was thrown from the cliff at the annual festival of Apollo, and if he reached the water unhurt he was picked up by boats in possession. This placed there for that purpose. This is the rock from which, according to the story, lovers throw themselves in order to be free from the pangs of love.

Llamas in Peru.

Llamas are employed in transport work in Peru. These animals work in herds of about a hundred, and each carries a load equivalent to a hundredweight. After two weeks' work each llama has a week's rest.

All Served.

Lady—Couldn't you possibly have saved your friend who was captured by the cannibals? African Traveler—Unfortunately not. When I arrived he was already scratched off the menu.

Considerate.

"Well, Willie are you very good to your little sister?" asked the friend of the family. "Sure!" replied Willie. "I even eat her candy, 'cause it always makes her sick."

The Crumbs and the Crust.

Eat the crust of bread in preference to the crumb. This is the advice of The London Lancet. This famous London medical publication says that analysis shows that "the crumb contains on an average 43 per cent. of moisture, while the crust contains only 20." One important dietetic difference between crust and crumb is the fact that the former contains an increased amount of soluble carbohydrates owing to the action of intense heat which the crust receives compared with the crumb during baking. Moreover, the crust has a more pronounced bread flavor than the crumb, a flavor which is attractive and which stimulates the flow of digestive juices.

Length of the Law.

The phrase "the length of the law" owes its origin to the enormous length of some of the parchment rolls upon which the ancient statutes of Great Britain were inscribed. The present official title of the "master of the rolls" is a reminder of this ancient custom. Some faint idea of the bulk of the English records may be obtained from the fact that a single statute, the land tax commissioners act, passed in the first year of the reign of George IV., measures when unrolled upward of 900 feet.

Queen Victoria's Yacht.

Orders have been received at Portsmouth for the crew of the Alberta, Queen Victoria's favorite yacht, to be paid off at that port. The yacht will be broken up in the dockyard. It was on board the Alberta that the Queen's body was conveyed across the sea from Osborne to Gosport, whence it was taken to Windsor.

Experience or Reminiscence.

The Author's Wife—How can you write an up-to-date sea story when you haven't been on the water for years? The Author—Well, I've been married for twenty years, and yet I can write a love story.

Buried Treasure.

Medium—I can tell you about a buried treasure. Patron—Please don't. My husband is always tooting that in my ears. Medium—Does he know anything about a buried treasure? Patron—Yes; his first wife.
