HAPPENINGS OF THE WEEK

Outdoor sports and exercises are now being thoroughly enjoyed, the bright sunny days of June tempting young and old to live out-of-doors as much as possible. Many private picnics have been held during the week, especially so on the King's Birthday, when automobiles could be seen whizzing by in different directions with gay holiday seekers. Motor boats were also a popular means of conveyance and the ever popular Bonshaw and Rocky Point received their share of visitors.

The horse races proved the greatest possible attraction and were more largely attended than was expected. It was a splendid afternoon's sport, thoroughly enjoyed by everybody.

The King's Birthday, a generally observed half holiday, was quietly celebrated with no Royal Salute or public affairs of any kind. A generous display of bunting was to be seen however on all public buildings and many private residences also decorated their homes in honor of their King and country.

Genuine sympathy is being extended to the family of the late Mrs. DeBlois, whose sudden and very unexpected death came as a shock to them on Monday morning. A lady of rare charm she will be greatly missed in the social and church circles in which she took an active part.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Gane and Miss Pippy are again in residence in Charlottetown for the summer months and are being welcomed most cordially by their friends.

Owing to death of Mrs. DeBlois several afternoon teas, etc., to have been held this week were cancelled, out of respect to her memory.

The Tennis Courts at Victoria Park have been remade and are now in splendid condition for the young people of the club. Afternoon tea will be served today by Miss Fitzgerald, Miss Rose Longworth and Miss Norton.

Miss Alice Harrison of Summerside was the guest this week for a few days of her parents, Rev. Wm. and Mrs. Harrison, the Parsonage, Newcastle, N. B.

Mr Allan P. Starr of Halifax, was renewing old friendships in the city this week, a guest at the Victoria.

The Belvidere Golf links afford members an excellent opportunity for out door exercises, and is a popular rendezvous. On the King's Birthday afternoon tea was served by Mrs. Frank Hertz and Mrs. E. H. Beer. This afternoon Mrs. Gane and Miss Pippy will be the hostesses.

Senator Murphy of Tignish was a visitor to Newcastle, N. B., this week to attend the funeral of his friend the late Richard L. Malby.

Mrs. Rogers of Government House has returned from attending the meeting of the Daughters of the Empire held this week in Halifax.

The Prince and Princess Rospigiosa enjoyed a short visit to the city this week.

SIR CHAS DAVISON TO CONDUCT PROBE INTO WORK CONTRACTS

OTTAWA, June 2.—Sir Charles Davison, late Chief Justice of Quebec, will be here today and arrangements will be completed for the continuance of the inquiry into the purchase of war supplies which Sir Charles has been commissioned to conduct. The inquiry will probably be held in Ottawa and everything will be done to make it thorough and effective.

The appointment of a man of Sir Charles Davison's judicial standing and experience will ensure that while the investigation will be thorough there will be no findings not entirely supported by the evidence produced. It will also be a guarantee that there will be no chiding if any person who has defrauded the government.

How sleep the brave who sink to rest By all their country's wishes blest! When Spring, with dewy fingers cold, Returns to deck their hallow'd mould, She there shall dress a sweeter sod Than Fancy's feet have ever trod. By fairy hands their knell is rung, By forms unseen their dirge is sung; There Honour comes, a pilgrim gray, To bless the turf that wraps their clay; And Freedom shall a while repair, To dwell a weeping hermit there.

TALES TOLD BY MEN IN THE FIGHTING LINES ON LAND AND ON SEA

WITH THE GERMANS

A press correspondent at the front writes: Half a battalion of German soldiers swung suddenly into a clear space between two woods. They came forward—one can scarcely say charged—at the slow trot which is ordained and practiced for such adventures. The men in the front rank had actually locked arms, as if these most modern of warriors were part and parcel of a Macedonian phalanx. Their rifles were not even held at the hips much less put to the shoulder, but were suspended by straps with the muzzles pointing upwards and backwards. The reason was that the men had no arms or hands to spare. The one arm was locked in the neighbor's; the other was held across and in front of the eyes to hide the death that was coming. It is needless to add that none of this sacrificed company dealt death and all of them died.

This incident was told to me by a British officer who has seen as much of the war as anyone and has most deservedly made his name in the war. He gave the story in the course of conversation as example of the most moving spectacle which had come before his eyes during the war. The slung rifle and the hands before the eyes degraded the soldiers to sheep, a sight to distress another soldier's heart, even though an enemy's. Why the men were forced into this almost passive immolation none could tell, but apparently they represented a deliberate move in a concerted attack. They were meant to die for unknown end.

Fatal Obedience

The attack failed, and the Germans lost heavily. The obedience to which the whole nation is attached, was in this case ruinous. How very different is the German soldier when his individuality is given play. "In the dodges of trench warfare, they beat us every time," said the commander of one section of our trenches. Their snipers have exhibited a remarkable combination of patience, scientific precision, and on occasion daring. The standard plan is to watch for any movement in the opposing trench; either a head above the trench or a flick of movement behind a loophole. Using a telescopic sight and fixing the rifle on a rest and "drawn ahead" on the spot, the sniper will wait for an hour or two till the movement is seen again; and so accurate is he that a hit is almost certain. We have tested this accuracy again and again with dummies and movements of paper or stuff behind the loopholes. I do not suggest that the German snipers are better than ours; but I am quite sure that they have an easier quarry. More Germans see British than British see Germans.

Different Qualities

I have given examples of two different, almost contradictory qualities in the German character and the method of fighting. This contradiction is emphasized in the training of the men. The German Jagers distinguished from the rest by their blue-green uniform, are almost perfect soldiers. Many of them have had personal or ancestral connection with the chase. They are hereditary gamekeepers, and inherit skill in musketry. But they are especially trained to develop, as their name implies, the hunter's skill. It is very soon known in the opposing trenches when a battalion of Jagers is present. The German ideal is, I believe a battalion of Jagers to each division, but the proportion is not maintained. Many of these men were killed in some taken prisoner at Neuve Chapelle, and with their wastage the efficiency of the German troops steadily deteriorates. We have tried hard to match the Germans in cunning. Along one line of our trenches the officer, in command appointed a suggestion bureau and encouraged all soldiers to send in their ideas. They responded well, but almost all the suggestions were hopelessly unpractical, though many showed a perverted ingenuity. One man had a scheme for making an artificial cow on wheels and filling her with men. Another proposed the erection of a platform which could be quickly elevated to a height, so allowing our snipers perch on it a point of vantage against the enemy's trench! It is the rarest thing for any device so suggested to be acceptable, though officers at the front, unlike the normal official at home, are always open to receive ideas.

THE MORE OR LESS HAPHAZARD INCIDENTS THAT I HAVE PUT DOWN ARE MEANT TO ILLUSTRATE WHAT SEEMS TO ME THE PECULIAR QUALITY OF THE GERMAN SOLDIER AS OPPOSED TO OURS. THE MASS FORMATION, SEEN IN EXAGGERATION IN THE ADVANCE WITH COVERED EYES, IS NECESSARY TO THE GERMAN BECAUSE HE CANNOT CO-OPERATE WITH OTHERS UNLESS HE IS CLINCHED AND TIED TIGHT, "RIBBED AND PALED IN" WITH BONDS OF PALPABLE DISCIPLINE FOR WHICH THE STRICTEST JUXTAPosition IS NECESSARY. HE CAN ACT ALONE AND INDEPENDENTLY WHEN HE IS, SO TO SPEAK, HIS OWN DISCIPLINARIAN. HIS MIND IS FULL OF CONCRETE INGENUITY, HIS CUNNING DEEP AND VARIOUS. BUT VOLUNTARY CO-OPERATION, IN WHICH UNDERSTANDING OF OTHERS AND SYMPATHY WITH OTHERS ARE THE ONLY BONDS, IS A THING IMPOSSIBLE TO HIM. IN THE FIELD YOU SEE THE SAME QUALITIES WHICH HAVE MADE RECENT GERMAN POLITICS, THE CRUEST MIXTURE EVER YET CONCEIVED OF SMALL CUNNING, NARROW IGNORANCE, AND BRUTAL BULLYING.

The capacity to understand other people matters much less in war than in diplomacy. Blind obedience varied by scientific ingenuity in the field, making the spear-point of an organization more thorough and national than the world has ever seen, produces a military machine still very terrible and effective after the loss of two million men. But the point I would make is this: that the great German qualities, as they exaggerate themselves, lose force. The people's trust in cunning is now such that both at home in the field they are chiefly buoyed up by silly reliance on mysterious tricks and cunning plots—on Zeppelins and monster submarines and deadly gases on 20-mile guns, on unborn inventions. Simultaneously with this week optimism in material things, the denial of human feelings and personal initiative to the soldiers is paving the way to national suicide; and it is to be feared, degrading the men—as fine fellows as the world could wish to house—into mad and desperate agents as material as the weapons they use. I speak with a grim knowledge of events that marked the advance and retreat during this last battle of Ypres. The Allies fight for the soul as well as the bodily safety of their children.
