Diphtheria Claims lives of 3 Children

An isolated outbreak of diphtheria at Ellmers, Prince County, has claimed two more deaths, it was learned yesterday. Both were children of Mr. and Mrs. Aeneas Whelan. Five other children are ill but their condition is said to be good and they are believed to have passed the danger period.

The outbreak had a strong grip on the family before the nature of the disease was learned. The nearest medical aid is Dr. J. A. Johnston at Tignish, eight miles distant, and he had to make the trip to the country home over roads deep with snow. The round trip with a horse drawn sleigh, would occupy possibly four hours.

All the children, except a baby, were affected but two given regular immunization treatment at a school clinic, were only slightly ill. It was learned.

Dr. B. C. Keeling, deputy minister of health for the province said so far as he could learn the disease was brought to the family by a soldier home on leave. He had been released from quarantine after diphtheria but was still a carrier, apparently.

There was no other known cases in the neighborhood, Dr. Keeling said. Earlier one case had been reported in the neighborhood of Charlottetown but all had recovered and were now released from quarantine. Apparently the Kildare cases were known in the Province.

Mysterious Disease of Spruce Sawfly

A disease which sometimes kills large numbers of larvae of the European spruce sawfly, has in recent years made its appearance over the greater part of the territory infested by this sawfly. About four years ago the officers of the Dominion Forest Insect Laboratory at Fredericton, N. B., observed in certain lots of sawfly larvae brought in from the forest for experimental purposes that the infested larvae first turned to a pale green, later changing to black. The body tissues became liquefied and oozed out, leaving the empty larval skin glued to the twigs and foliage.

The true nature of the disease has not yet been definitely determined, states J. J. de Grys, Chief, Forest Insect Investigations, Dominion Department of Agriculture. It is thought, however, that it may be a virus. Little or nothing is known regarding the mode of transmission, but experiments carried out in the Gaspé peninsula by the staff of the Fredericton laboratory have yielded evidence that spraying the foliage of spruce with extracts of the body contents of the diseased insects results in the infection of healthy larvae feeding on the sprayed trees. This may, perhaps, be construed as an indication that in nature the disease is transmitted either by direct contact of some kind or by the ingestion of foliage which has been in contact with diseased individuals. The disease is present in practically the entire territory infested by the sawfly. In some regions, it has almost completely destroyed the 1940 larvae. This is particularly true in the States of New Hampshire, Ver-

Mr. John Grimes spent the weekend in Webster's Corner, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McEachern. Mr. Grimes was in the province and to a somewhat lesser extent in Maine and the Province of New Brunswick. So far, in other areas, mortality due to the disease has not been heavy enough to be of economic importance. The rapid and thorough decimation of sawflies in some of the more southerly infestations has raised such high hopes in the minds of those interested as to lead them to the belief that, in these regions, the sawfly may never become a cause of serious concern, but such hopes may not be realized. Observations made during the course of the past few years have definitely shown that spruce is endowed with remarkable powers of resistance to the type of defoliation resulting from the feeding of the European spruce sawfly.

R. E. Balch of the Dominion Laboratory at Fredericton in co-operation with Dr. J. MacLeod of the Division of Botany and Plant Pathology, Dominion Department of Agriculture has begun a study of the disease. The results of this investigation are awaited with interest.

Flag at half-Mast over Naval Reserve

The flag over the Royal Canadian Volunteer Reserve headquarters flew at half-mast yesterday in memory of two natives of this province who lost their lives when the Royal Canadian Naval vessel Otter burned off Halifax Wednesday. A third man here as a casualty was a former resident of this city although his home town was Sydney, N. S.

The two island natives, Elmer A. Mabey of Tryon, 30 miles from the city and John A. Graham, of Cambridge, 10 miles from Montserrat had been in the Navy only a few months. The third listed from this province, Daniel E. Gillis, was a member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Marine Section. He had been stationed here about six years before he was called into the navy at the outbreak of war.

Mrs. Gillis left the City not long after her husband was called into the Navy. Her present whereabouts are not known but for a time she was at Sydney, it was learned.

Mabey's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mabey live in Tryon. He had two sisters and four brothers, it was learned. He was unmarried. He had been employed in Charlottetown for a number of years. More than a year ago he joined the navy and was called for active service in June.

Graham, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Graham at Cambridge had been on active service since last fall. He has a sister, Mrs. David Hicken at Graham's Road, not far from Cambridge.

Rumored air Service change Not confirmed Rumors, which could not be confirmed however, were heard here yesterday indicating a change in the air service between this province and the mainland is contemplated.

Some reports said the Trans Canada Lines were to take over the Moncton-Charlottetown and the Moncton-Quebec Airways which operates a feeder line at present, and there were hints Summerdale might not be included as a part of call.

Nothing of an official nature was available however. Mr. H. S. Jones, superintendent of Canadian Airlines, said the entire action is in Winnipeg and may not be back here for almost two weeks.

Last night Trans Canada officials at Moncton and Montreal said they knew nothing of any change.

Hardy Chrysanthemums

(Experimental Farms News) To keep the garden gay in autumn the hardy or garden chrysanthemums are recommended, and given a reasonably open season. It should be possible to extend the season of bloom well into October, says J. Scatterly, Head Gardener, Dominion Experimental Station, Harrow, Ont. The first chrysanthemum to reach England was a small single yellow variety introduced from China about the year 1755. The large flowered Japanese sorts did not arrive there until 1862. It was about thirty years after that before chrysanthemum culture received much attention in North America. The present-day so-called "hardy" chrysanthemums have been produced in most cases through hybridization of the hardier types with the earliest flowering of those which are grown in greenhouses. Korean hybrids in single double, and pompon types are of hardier parentage and are acceptable additions to a list of varieties already long. The varieties chosen will depend greatly on the locality and in districts where early frosts occur it would be well to use the earliest flowering sorts. Some of the pompons, such as Early Yellow and Early Bronze flower about the first week in September and seem able to withstand considerable frost. Judith Anderson, another pompon, is somewhat later but does not seem affected by high frosts. Cushion mums or azaleum-like are valuable for their early flowering habit. They are rather soft for cut flower purposes but where a low growing, long blooming plant is desired an azaleum should fill the bill. The lighter colored varieties seem quite easily affected by frost and if it is decided to have some for later cutting it would be well to choose the deeper bronzes and dark reds. It would be impossible to give a complete list of available varieties here, but the following are suggested as being worthy of trial: Aladdin, a very early double orange bronze; Albert Miller, medium early apricot

P.E.I. census Commissioners

OTTAWA, March 27—(CP)—Names of 248 census administrators for the 1941 decennial count of Canada's people and resources were announced by the Trade and Commerce Department today.

The census starts June 2, and announcement of administrators—names of the entire action, taking divisions—came after Trade Minister's statement in the Commons yesterday that the count would be taken at scheduled intervals. Following are the census commissioners for P. E. Island, decennial census made public today: Prince Edward Island: Kings—Howland Mullally, Souris River; Prince—Charles R. Rogers, Summerside; Queens—C. S. MacKay, Park Corner.

Melodrama and Concert at Baptist Church

A very enjoyable concert and old time melodrama, presented to a capacity audience at the Baptist Hall last night. The show was presented by the Victoria Group of the Baptist Church Women's Auxiliary and included piano music, violin solos and vocal duets and solos.

Accompanists for the musical part of the program were John Inch, Mus. Bac, and Suzanne Brenton.

The play in one act, entitled, "She Was Only a Farmer's Daughter," was introduced from China about the year 1755. The large flowered Japanese sorts did not arrive there until 1862. It was about thirty years after that before chrysanthemum culture received much attention in North America. The present-day so-called "hardy" chrysanthemums have been produced in most cases through hybridization of the hardier types with the earliest flowering of those which are grown in greenhouses. The March meeting of the Rollo Bay East Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Victor Peters with ten members and two visitors present. Meeting opened by reading A Club Woman's Creed, followed by the roll call. The minutes of last meeting were read and correspondence and questionnaires. Members decided to scrub the school before next meeting and to see about sewing for the Red Cross.

The articles made by Miss Mary Mahar, who attended the short course, were shown by her and explained how she made them. In response to roll call will be singing, play, or pay. Meeting adjourned with the National Anthem. A dainty lunch was served and a social hour spent.

double; Graham Scovill, double coral bronze; Seminole, double early white Azaleum-like are available in various colours, all having the same season of bloom and growing habits. Among the newer Korean hybrids Burgundy, Lavender Lady, Pale Moon, and Rapunzel are excellent cut flowers. Although there are literally hundreds of hardy chrysanthemums available there is a need and a place for each one.

Canadian Legion Recreation Hut Officially Opened

Ceremony performed by His Honor Lieutenant Governor B. W. LePage. "No organization is better qualified than the Canadian Legion to meet the needs of our fighting forces than the Canadian Legion veterans of the last war who compose the Canadian Legion," His Honor Lieutenant Governor B. W. LePage said last night in officially opening the Canadian Legion War Services Hut. "Already this organization has demonstrated its ability in doing a magnificent job both in Canada and Great Britain in providing comforts and entertainments for the fighting forces," His Honor continued. "And they are also congratulated for providing this splendid recreation hut to be used for the forces in this locality. It is therefore a great pleasure for me to declare it officially opened and wish the Canadian Legion War Services every success in providing a home for our men in uniform away from home." His Honor said in concluding his remarks.

Between 450 and 500 persons attended the opening yesterday with tea being served from 4 to 9 o'clock and many were the complimentary remarks heard on the splendid accommodation that is now open to men in the service. Trade Minister's statement in the Commons yesterday that the count would be taken at scheduled intervals. Following are the census commissioners for P. E. The Hut has now been in operation for two months but it was not until today that the official opening took place. In addition to the official opening of the Canadian Legion canteen, the Legion and many other services there were also opened. A C. I. W. S. reading and writing room and a library room. The reading and writing room is in very well equipped quarters on the second floor and was formerly occupied by the Red Cross. The library is in a large and pleasant room up stairs and is the result of the untiring efforts of the educational committee of the Canadian Legion War Services. The books and equipment selected to provide for visitors to the Legion and many other excellent titles were presented by individuals and interested groups. The books are mainly light fiction and are of a nature to supplement the educational program now being started under the guidance of the Canadian Legion War Services. Much is hoped for in results from this program and a great deal of effort and planning is in progress to assure the scheme's success. The task is a difficult one in view of the many scattered centres in the Maritime Provinces, Newfoundland, and even Iceland.

The educational program, of course, extends to wherever the Canadian forces may be found and the key-note of the scheme is education with individual attention to the varied needs of the men. It is a tremendous scheme with great possibilities and a number of men in training in this province are availing themselves of the opportunities provided. It is the intention of the committee to have books of an educational nature included in the library. The library which was also much admired yesterday is headed by a committee composed of Mrs. T. B. Rogers, Mrs. Charles Mackenzie and Miss Laura A. Young. The canteen is run by a committee appointed by the Charlottetown Branch of the Canadian Legion. Many profits made are to be used in providing further comforts for the troops patrolling here.

"I used to get into a lot of trouble," he said. "One form of trouble was 14 days 'CB' for pushing over Miccasen as they knelt at prayer. 'I was young then' he said with a grin. 'and led it once too often.' He was in Jerusalem when the Armistice was signed. 'It was pouring rain that day'—and remained in the Middle East until he got his release from the Army. After he was returned to Canada and did placer mining in northern British Columbia. There was a long succession of jobs after that and a brief period of service with the R.C.A.F. He was doing hard-rock mining several hundred miles north of Winnipeg when this war began and re-enlisted right away in the R.C.A.F.

BROWN expects there'll be action for everyone if the Germans try an invasion and he's looking forward to that day. "Let them come," he said. "I like excitement and if they try to land here, there should be plenty of that."

BRITAIN WANTS LOTS OF MOLES LONDON, March 27—(CP)—Britain wants 10,000 mole-men in a hurry. They are sought by the export council of the Board of Trade to bring in foreign exchange to help pay for war supplies from abroad. In peacetime, Linton, world centre of the mole skin trade, used to get from Europe an average of 25,000,000 pelle annually. Mole skins re-exported to Canada, the United States and South America. They are needed now for export as skins or for making up into mole skin garments for which markets are being developed abroad.
