Prince Edward Island on Saturday morning en route to Boston, Mass., where she will resume her duties with the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. Miss Stewart, who has been on an extended leave of absence from her business since last April, owing to ill health, is much improved, and her many friends will be pleased to have her with them again. Miss Maimie D. Stewart, of Portage, accompanied her sister as far as Borden.

HALLOWE'EN OBSERVED. — Hallowe'en crowds were out in full force last night, some with masks and lanterns, but the majority just running around loose looking for mischief. A number of college students congregated at some of the street corners around 11 p. m. and emitted unearthly howls. The silent policemen received a lot of elbowing and successful attempts were made in at least one instance to carry them bodily away, the one at the corner of Kent and Great George Streets, disappearing about midnight. Some fist fights developed in other quarters but quieter activities included many nice little Hallowe'en parties and in many homes in the city lights were burning till a late hour.

Dalhousie and Wanderers Play Tie in City Football League Contest; Two Penalties Result in Scores

HALIFAX, Oct 30—A sensational field goal by Mount Haslam on a penalty, enabled Dalhousie to tie Wanderers in Saturday's fixture and prevent the clubmen from winning the league. Both teams saved themselves from defeat through the other's errors. It was the sensational tackling of George attle and too much Richie MacCoy was the big obstacle in the way of Dalhousie's best, and but for these two men, the collegians might have won as they had a clear lead over their opponents in both sessions. Haslam saved his team from defeat twice in succession. He nailed Billy Arthur a yard from the line wit ha beautiful tackle in the second half just when the Wanderers halffliner was about ta make the touch.

Schooner Races May Take Place Of Cup Contests

NEW YORK, Ict 30—The New York Times today hints at the possibility of the international fishermen's cup series succeeding the America's Cup races as an international sporting feature of general interest. As races for the America's Cup are becoming less frequent, "and seem to be dependent upon the initiative of that intrepid sportsman, Sir Thomas Lipton." the paper declares "It would be a matter of regret if the international fishermen's contest were to be abandoned because of discord between Gloucester and Lunenburg." The Times, after reviewing the various events which caused discord and dissatisfaction with the recent series, lands the international committee for bringing the trouble to an end and for arranging another series next year off Halifax.

Wanderers or Dal May Play McGill For Mactier Cup

MONTREAL, Oct 30—Following their victory on Saturday when they blanked the McGill English rugby by eight to nil, the Montreal English rugby team earned the right to meet the Halifax champion squad in the final for the MacTier Cup to be played here on Thanksgiving Day. Montreal had a distinct advantage in weight and experience on the forward line in Saturday's game.

HALIFAX, Oct 30—Two Halifax English rugby teams, Dalhousie teur Athletic Club, entered this year for competition for the MacTier Cup. These teams, forming the Halifax City League, have played three games, one a 11 to 10 win fo rthe Wanderers and the other two ties. If Wanderers win or tie next Saturday's game, they will have the local championship and presumably will meet the Montreal English rugby team for the MacTier trophy. Dalhousie must have two victories to head their local rivals.

Currie Suspended Up to December 1

FREDERICTON, Oct 30—A. W. Covey, recently re-elected president of the maritime provinces branch of the A. A. U. of Canada, is in Fredericton today. He said that the application of Donald Currie, of this city, for reinstatement as an amateur had been received and considered. The executive would recommend that he be reinstated to the reinstatement to date from Dec. I. Currie pitched a portion of a game for Fredericton baseball club late in the summer. Since he has entered Normal School and is desirous of playing again as an amateur he payed two matches with the Normal School rugby team under protest, one against Fredericton High and one against U. N. B. freshfen. Currie will be barred from all competitions during the period of suspension.

Would Provide Its Own Prizes

NEW YORK, Oct 30—Having attained strength to stand on its own legs, without support, the professional folgers' association next year will provide cash prizes out of its own funds instead of accepting donations from individuals as it previously has done.

Exactly how the plan is to be worked will be decided upon at the November feeting of the association's national executive committee, which will be held in New York.

At the same time the committee will consider the proposal of dividing the country into two sections, east and west, as a preliminary elimination in keeping the field of entrants in the national championship tournament donw to 150.

Sensational Evidence

day morning Mr. Block said he was in bed. The warehouse was about 50 to 75 feet from the dwelling. His wife, five children and himself were in the house and he was sleeping down stairs. His wife woke him up and told him about the fire. The girls had awakened her about 1.30 a. m. When he was told the fire was in his barn he went out across the street to Quinn's and asked them to ring up the Fire Department.

Joseph MacDonald tried to get in the warehouse through the big door but this was locked and he could not manage it. Witness believed he was still at this time in his bare feet. When the firemen arrived they started putting on the water. There was a loft door to the building but he did not see any firemen there. He saw Chief Ranaghan, Fireman Vatcher, Frank Hennessey, Fred Trainor and others working around. The building was not completely burned in the fire but was badly destroyed.

Back Door Open.

Though the front door was locked when MacDonald tried to gain entrance, it was found that the back door was open. Witness had not been near the building for three days previously and at that time the back door was bolted securely. SOMEBODY MUST HAVE BROKEN IN. IT LOOKED LIKE THE ACT OF AN INCENDIARY.

Mr. Block said he tried to save some things that night but did not succeed. Some stuff was saved, however. He recovered about 700 lbs. of solder and that was all that remained of the 3,000 lbs. originally there.

Att. Gen. Johnson: "Did the rest go up in smoke?"

Witness: "Yes, it must have."

"Is that what solder does?"

"Well, it melted away, anyway."

"And wouldn't you get it again when it cooled?"

"No, not all of it."

"Would 3,000 pounds leave only 700 pounds?"

"That's all this did."

There was no rubber or rope recovered after the fire. The Attorney General asked if that went up in smoke too, and Mr Block replied that it must have. Most of the loft was burned and some of it fell in. The horsehair had all vanished.

Att. Gen. Johnston: "Wasn't there a HAIR left?"

Mr. Block did not believe there was even that. Some wool and some bags were burned, the remainder being salvaged.

Second Fire Call..

The firemen left after putting out the blaze, about 3 a. m. An hour or two afterwards the fire started again after witness and his wife had gone back to bed. The firemen were rung up again and they came and put it out a second time.

This was on Sunday morning, Oct 1st. Witness was in the city on the previous Friday and Saturday. He was in town since the previous Monday night, when he came home from St. John, where he had gone on Friday, Sept 22nd.

There were two bolts on the back door of the warehouse, and it was found at the fire that they had both been forced.

Had Talked With Carr

Witness said he knew Golden Carr pretty well. Before last winter he had been in the habit of visiting his house occasionally for a game of cards. Carr used to truck for him at times. He remembered meeting Carr shortly before the fire one afternoon on the corner of Great George and Grafton Streets. This was over a week before the fire and a few days before he left for St. John. Carr was alone. At the time, witness was going to see Mr. Carter the auctioneer; he was on the Bank of Nova Scotia side of the street and he crossed over to Hooper's barber shop to speak with Carr. Carr and witness walked a short distance down Grafton St. in the direction of Zion Church. He talked to Carr two or three minutes and then went over to the Post Office.

Att. Gen. Johnston: "Will you tell us why you didn't go to Carter's."

Witness: "I forgot all about it."

"Was it your conversation with Carr that made you forget all about it?"

"No, I often forget things like that."

Mr. Block declared he had made no appointment with Carr but had just conversed for a minute or two.

"Are you and Carr good friends," asked the Attorney General.

"As far as I know" replied Mr. Block, adding cautiously, "You can never tell who is your friends."

"You never had any falling out?"

"Well, when I would refuse to give him a dollar or fifty cents he would say "I'll get square with you."

"Would you give him money sometimes when he asked you for it?"

"Sometimes, yes."

"You must have been pretty friendly with him, then."

"Well, I would give him a dollar now and then, but I used to get tired of it."

"You don't throw away your money, Louis, you must have been pretty friendly with him. Do you give dollars to everybody who asks you?"

"Not everybody. I got tired of giving them to him, too."

"When you wouldn't lend him fifty cents or a dollar he used to say he'd get square with you?"

"Yes."

"How would he get square—by lending you fifty cents."

"No, no."

Continuing, Mr. Block said he was not at Carr's house, after the conversation on the street, until the Attorney General told him to go and fetch him.

Att. Gen. Johnston: "Do you mean to say I told you to go and fetch him?"

Mr. Block: "Yes, Sure."

"Are all your other statements on a par with that?"

"Yes, that's right, that's what you told me."

"What do you mean. I did not ask you to see him. I had just come from Goldie's myself."

"Well, you told me to go anyway. I didn't want to go."

Witness denied emphatically that he was at Carr's house between the day of the conversation on the street and the day of the fire. He had not spoken to him at any time since until after the fire. He had never had his warehouse insured before and he would not have done so this time if he had not been forced to put it on. He referred to stock he had in the cellar at the time of the fire, which could not be stored conveniently in the warehouse.

Golden Carr's Evidence

Golden Carr, laborer, 20 Elm Ave., gave evidence regarding his acquaintance with Louis Block and of the frequent visits Block used to make two years ago to his house to play cards. He was not present at the fire in Block's barn. He had a conversation with him on Thursday, Sept 21, when he met him at Hooper's Barber Shop corner. He was talking to Mr. Hooper outside the door when Block came across the street and called him aside and they walked a short distance down Grafton St. Block made an appointment to see him that night "somewhere when it was dark" and at 7 o'clock they met again at the east end of the Court House. Block took him over behind St. Paul's church and asked him if he wanted to make an easy $100.

"What is it," said Carr.

"Come down and set fire to my barn," he said.

Witness declared he was so mad at this suggestion that he walked right away. At Hooper's corner he met his brother Percy and said: "What do you think that Block wanted me to do—he wanted me to set fire to his barn!" Percy said, "He must be crazy." Witness opened the shop door and called George Hooper out and told him. Mr. Hooper said "He must be crazy."

This conversation took place about ten minutes after his interview with Block.

Next morning (Friday, Sept 22nd) Carr says he got up a few minutes after eight o'clock, opened the front door to lift the cellar hatch and saw Block standing over across the street. Block beckoned to him and asked if anybody was at home. Carr said his little girl Margaret was in the kitchen. His wife was also upstairs at the time. Block came to the door and Carr took him into the front room and shut the door. Block said he came out to tell him to come down at 11 o'clock and he would show him where the keys were to do the "job" on Tuesday of Exhibition week at half past ten at night, when the fakirs would be on the square. He said he was going out on the 1.15 train to Borden, Carr told him he would be around at 11 o'clock all right. But he did not go. He told him so just to get rid of him. There was nothing said about when he was to get the money. He held no conversation with Block since. He saw Block on Tuesday after the fire, coming down the steps of the fire marshal's office with the fire marshal. His wife told him Block had been at his house that day looking for him. That was the day that he had gone to the fire marshal himself.

When Block left his house on the morning of the 22nd Carr told his brother and Geo. Hooper about the result and they both laughed and said Block must be crazy. After the fire, he went voluntarily to the fire-marshal's office and told about it.

(To Mr. MacKinnon.) Witness had lately been working at the oil tanks. Block did not say anything about having a game of cards when he met him at Hooper's corner. He was at Block's house Tuesday, after the fire, before he saw the fire marshal. He went there to tell Block that he was going to "squeal" upon him.

Carr denied that he had previously threatened to squeal on certain other people if they would not give him a drink. Pressed by Mr. MacKinnon he said: "I am not up here on a rum case."

He denied that he had sold Brent McInnis any lard or tallow in a visit he had made to his shop on Grafton St. two weeks ago. He believed McInnis had put him out that time because he was drunk. He had been drunk since then occasionally. He had had a few drinks on Saturday night before the fire. During October he had got some drinks out of a gallon of rum "taken" out of a back yard. He had served three months in jail on a stealing charge.

Geo. R.. Hooper, barber, testified to having seen Carr and Block meeting at his corner on the afternoon of their conversation referred to. It was sometime around 5 or 6 o'clock or a little later one day before Exhibition. Carr came back afterwards and said that Block offered him $100 to set fire to a barn. Witness told Carr he had better go home or he would get into trouble. Carr said something about having Block arrested and witness again told him to get home. Later, while returning to his shop from the fire marshal's office, after the fire witness met Block near the Post Office. Block said: "What do you think that Goldie Carr did? He told a lie about me offering him $100 for burning the barn."

Margaret Carr, ten year old daughter of Golden Carr, declared she saw Block visit her father upon the morning of the 22nd.

Percy Carr, Golden's brother, testified to having seen Carr and Block together in conversation on the 21st and to having been told the same evening by Carr that he had been offered $100 to burn Block's warehouse. His brother had also told him that Block was at his house the next day.

The investigation was adjourned until 10 a. m. today.

Darken Gray Hair, Look Young, Pretty

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens So Naturally That Nobody Can Tell

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful and thousands of women and men who value taht even color; that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.
