Does Eighty Years of Success Mean Anything to You?

The McClary Manufacturing Company have for over eighty years been successful manufacturers of heating appliances. Take advantage of their long experience in this line by buying a scientifically constructed range—one that combines beauty with all the largest labor and fuel saving devices known today. The best known are:—

The Kootenay Steel Range—

The Range That Lasts A Lifetime

The Kootenay is a high grade steel range. Its moderate price, economy on coal and lasting quality have made it one of the most popular on the market. The deep and uniform lustre on the polished steel body is offset by the plain nickel trimmings. Cooking success is a certainty with the Kootenay.

GOOD RECEPTION—A most successful concert was broadcasted from Moncton on Friday evening by the following Charlottetown artists who left on Friday morning: Mrs. Roy Cudmore, Miss Kathleen Hornby, Miss May Sterns, Miss Bernice Huestis, Messrs Rod, Gillis, George Johnstone. They returned to the city on Saturday evening with the exception of Miss Huestis who remained over with friends. After the concert it was announced that congratulatory telegrams had been received from Charlottetown from Messrs. J. J. Hornby, Walter Burke and Wm. Huestis.

WE WELCOME VISITORS—Mrs. Jwladis F. Pray (formerly Miss Jwladis MacIntyre) for the past fifteen years of Boston, is visiting her mother, Mrs. W. D. MacIntyre, here. She is accompanied by her sister, Miss Lillian MacIntyre and Mrs. J. H. Pray, of Medford, Mrs. Pray formerly taught school at Southport. She is now General Secretary in the great firm of Gilchrist Co. of Boston. It is worthy of note that the oldest employee in this firm is Mr. Robert H. Heartz of Charlottetown, who has been with this house for over half a century. Mrs. Pray will remain on the Island until Labor Day. The many friends of both herself and the family will be delighted to see her again.

IN THE OLD HOMETOWN—The Truro News says:—Mr. W. R. McCready, a cousin of the well-known western Editor J. E. B. McCready of The Guardian, Charlottetown, and his wife of Vancouver, B. C. have been visitors in Truro for a few days, guests with their kinsfolk, Mrs. and Miss Compton, (the latter of the Western Union Office) in residence at "Grasmere" on Dominion Street, Truro. These tourists have greatly enjoyed their visit to the Hub, where Mr. McCready, a native of Jacksonville, N. B., once took the Short Course at the N. S. A. C. and everything of interest around the old college farm and building was visited. After leaving Truro these Pacific coast residents visited their old homes in New Brunswick. It is 18 years since Mr. McCready went to Vancouver and he now has a good position in the great C. P. R. mechanical Department in that city.

WEDDING BELLS—A very pretty wedding was solemnized on August 22nd, when Miss Clara Murphy of South Shore and Mr. Ben Scully were united in marriage by Rev. Father Walsh. The bride looked winsome in a blue suit and grey hat, and carried a bouquet of roses. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Katie Smith who looked beautiful in blue suit and white hat and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. The groom was ably supported by his friend Mr. Fred Morrison of Charlottetown. After the ceremony the bridal party motored to the groom's sisters where breakfast was served to a large number of friends. The following day the bridal party motored through the eastern part of the Island returning in the evening to the bride's home in South Shore where a reception was held to about two hundred. Music and dancing were enjoyed by all till day break when they left wishing Mr. and Mrs. Kelly many years of happiness.

PAINFUL INJURY—On Saturday last while Russel Duncan of the C. N. R. was employed cutting bolts on the track near Sherwood a piece of metal from either the chisel or bolt struck him on the throat, causing a severe gash on the wind pipe. He was at once taken to the P. E. I. Hospital for treatment.

POLICE COURT—A defendant in a prohibition case was fined $200, or three months in jail. Two boys charged under the "Nuisance By-Law" were each assessed $5.00 and $10.00 respectively or days in goal; they paid up. One drunk was fined $5.00. A man charged with assaulting a Chinaman was fined $5.00 or 10 days. Another for creating a disturbance in the City Cafe, contributed $2.00 and costs to the Treasury. A speeder pleaded guilty and was taxed $2.00 and costs or 5 days in jail; he also paid up.

TYPICAL PICTURE OF ENGLISH GARDENS

Drawn by an Englishman

Historicus.

At the annual meeting of the Ontario Horticultural Association, held in Toronto, Ont., on Feb. 9th, 1928, the subjoined sketch was read by Rev. George W. Tebbis, of Burlington, Ont., and won tremendous applause at the close. He said: "Last year I had the pleasure of showing you pictures of many English gardens I had recently visited. They were mostly of the Public Parks, and the Gardens of the middle classes, the latter quite small in comparison to those I purpose showing today. I did not at that time touch at all upon the gardens of the nobility with their wonderful landscapes and glorious settings; with their centuries of care; and of their rare specimens of flowers we love. It is my purpose now to take you with me to England once more and sketch for you as best I can with camera and color box a few of these exquisite paradises across the sea.

You will see some of these fairyland gardens in early springtime, and in the glories of the summer; many of them laid out in Italian and Grecian styles, with beautiful specimens of statuary of the purest white marble; with the broad stone pathways lined with dainty Alpine and rock border. Others with quaint stone steps and archways covered with roses, Jessamine, and honeysuckles; banks of lovely lawn edgings, and beautiful pergolas; yew and box trees trimmed into shapes most grotesque, and at others like balustrades and pillars of the greenest marble. Then we shall wander into the woodlands in early springtime, and see the fringes ablaze with the setting sun catching the beauty of the flowers which now look like rich-hued carpets from the looms of Arabia. And as we tarry, loath to leave, the thrush sings his evening hymn to which the racous cawing of the starling and the chirping of the wood reminds us it is time to pass on our way, and leave these priceless treasures of the gentleman of England until some other day.

"The stately homes of England. How beautiful they stand! Amid the tall ancestral trees, O'er all the pleasant land, The deer across their greensward bound.

Through shade and sunny gleam, And the swan glides past them with the sound of oars on the stream. Of some retiring stream. May hearts of native proof be scared, To guard each hallowed wall, And bright the flowering sod, Where first the child's glad spirit loaves.

Its garden and its God." The above copy of this poem very eloquently expresses the sentiments of England's sons and daughters on this subject. The beauty of those gardens has made them famous for centuries and they do not appear to have lost any of those charms in the eyes of the Englishman of today. They cherish the memory of home and cultivate a fond remembrance of its scenic grandeur no matter where they may roam.

In Memoriam

MRS. JOHN T. DEACON

The death took place in Regina, Sask., on August 17th, of Mrs. John T. Deacon, who with her husband were former residents of P. E. I. Mrs. Deacon was before her marriage, Miss Louise Catherine Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Campbell, of Darlington (now of Charlottetown), and her husband is a native of North Wilshire, where several of his family still reside. Mr. and Mrs. Deacon were married at Darlington, in the Spring of 1902, and left soon after for the West, settling in Grenfell, Sask., where they remained for ten years previous to removing to Regina, where they have lived for the past sixteen years. Hospitable, generous in giving of herself in the service of others in time of need, cheerful in disposition, true and firm in her friendships, especially loyal to folk from her native province who came her way, she filled a large place in the life of the communities in which she lived. Testimony to this was borne in the very large attendance at the funeral on August 20th. Among those present were many Islanders resident in Regina, to whom her hospitable home had always given a cordial welcome. A profusion of flowers was the visible symbol of appreciation and tender remembrance of the departed, as well as of sympathy with her sorrowing husband and children who are: Lorne, Donald and Louise. In addition to these, her parents, six sisters and one brother are left to mourn. Of these there were present Mrs. Charlotte Campbell, of the teaching staff of the Regina school; Archibald Campbell, of Quill Lake, Sask., and Mrs. L. H. Deacon, of Corning, Sask., whose husband is a younger brother of Mr. Deacon. The funeral service was conducted by her pastor, the Rev. E. W. Storie, assisted by Rev. A. D. Mackenzie, of Westminster United Church, Regina, a friend of the family since earlier days in the Island. In both brief addresses, testimony was borne to the sterling qualities of the deceased, her unselfish and zealous Christian ministries, and her radiant confidence in an abundant entrance into the house not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens.

THE LATE JOHN LAVERY

The death occurred at his home, Tarantum, on Sunday, July 22nd, of John Lavery, in the 66th year of his age. The deceased had been in failing health for over four years, during which time the most skilful medical attendance and kindly nursing of a loving wife and family failed to eradicate the fatal illness that became entrenched in the system of the once strong, healthy, robust man, who never was known to shirk the hard labours or severe hardships which is a legacy to those who succeed by care and industry to attain a prosperous and comfortable farm house, which deceased had the comfort of possessing, for no man in the knowledge of the writer performed harder labour or withstood severer weather conditions or longer hours of labour than deceased. The death of the late Mr. Lavery removes from the community where he spent his life a kind and obliging neighbour who was always ready and willing to give any assistance he could in trouble, sickness or death, when a neighbour needed help. Mr. Lavery was always first aid, but especially will be missed from the home which he guided by honest and good counsel so long, being left at the early age of twelve years, the only material help of a widowed mother and family. The deceased was widely known, being a most successful stock buyer for years, retiring only when failing health compelled him. The deceased was during his whole life most attentive to the practices of his holy religion and had the consolation during his illness of frequently receiving the Blessed Sacrament at the hands of his loving and zealous pastor, Rev. Dr. D. P. Croken, whose last visit was made shortly before death and surrounded by his wife and family he peacefully passed away. He leaves to mourn a sorrowing widow, three sons and two daughters, viz: James H., of Auburn, Damien and Joseph at home; Mrs. Leo Savidant of Charlottetown and Mrs. Roy Steele of New York, also one sister, Mrs. Catherine Lewis of Roxbury, Mass. Three sons preceded him. Peter died in 1910, William died in military service on voyages overseas and was buried at sea in 1918, and Augustus, victim of a drowning accident in October, 1921. The funeral was held on Tuesday, 24th to Fort Augustus Church, the large attendance of over sixty cars and carriages of kind acquaintances to pay a last tribute of respect to deceased. A High Mass was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Croken, who also performed the burial services at the grave. The pallbearers were: Lemuel Wood, Michael McDonald, John T. Garland, Joseph Beaud, Peter Heron and Leo Brogan. His grief-stricken widow and family have the sympathy of the whole community in their time of grief in which the Guardian most sympathizingly joins. May his soul rest in peace.

Toothwash
A dash of lemon juice in plain water is an excellent tooth wash and antiseptic. It not only removes the tartar but sweetens the breath.

Loaf Cake
When making a loaf cake if one does not have a tube pan, try a round paper mailing tube. Grease the tube and the cake will not stick.

Pens
When steel pens are clogged with ink, dip them in a rather strong solution of ammonia water. This softens the ink and it can be easily wiped off.
