STOMACH MUSCLES ARE FIRST TO REVEAL AGE

Once she is past 25, every woman should do daily exercises to strengthen the muscles of her abdomen. When these muscles are allowed to become soft and flabby, it is most difficult to maintain excellent posture or to regain the streamlines of youth.

The following exercises, if done regularly and correctly, tend to keep the muscles of the stomach hard and firm. Lie on your back with arms at sides. Pull knees up to chest, then at legs forward at the same time coming to a sitting-up position with knees straight and arms stretched forward as far as possible. Repeat five times.

Lie face down on the floor with ankles together and hands under chest. Now straighten arms, raise body, putting weight on hands and feet. Lower stomach and hips to the floor, keeping elbows straight. Repeat five times.

Lie on the right side with ankles together and arms outstretched slightly below shoulder level. Bring feet up close to the floor, and trying to touch legs with fingertips. Reverse, lying on left side. Repeat five times. Incidentally, this is good for back and neck as well.

For slenderizing the hips and thighs, rolling routines are efficacious. Holding shoulders flat against the floor, cross right leg over left foot, and with the right foot upward until it is perpendicular with your body. Feel the muscles of right leg stretch.

Remember, of course, that standing correctly keeps stomach muscles in line. Stand with head erect, shoulders square and backbone straight. There should be no exaggerated hollow in the centre of your backline. If you have one, imagine it at waist level and see how much flatter your stomach becomes.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

A newborn baby can tell the difference between light and dark, but the experts have found out that he does not really see during the first few months of life. His eyes at this time will make irregular and unco-ordinated movements because he does not have the power to fix his vision on any given object.

Mothers frequently worry because the newborn baby seems to be squinting. This is not significant because until the child is about two months old little can be done in determining his vision.

Strong light annoys little babies but it is not likely to damage their eyes, really since the reflex which causes the closing of the eye in the presence of strong light appears almost at birth.

After a few weeks the child will be observed following a light with his eyes, and at about three months of age the eyes will be moving together as they do normally. It is believed that children are able to recognize people whom they see regularly, when they reach five to six months of age.

The newborn baby also does not seem to hear very much, but within a few days it does show signs of being able to hear. At this time the hearing of the child is very sensitive and any sudden or loud noise will make it manifest signs of fright.

At about three months the child will turn his head toward the place from which the sound came. Apparently, however, it does not identify voices with definite people until at least the fourth month.

A newborn baby can tell the difference between sweet and bitter. Apparently it is not especially sensitive to smells of various kinds. That develops later in the other senses and with some children it does not develop until they are several years old.

Babies can, however, tell when they are comfortable and when they are not. A baby that is left wet or cold will cry. A baby with colic or cramps will shriek. A baby that gets food that is too hot will indicate that it is burned.

Children differ as to the time at which they begin to talk. Some talk early and some late. Some talk much more than others. Generally, simple words are spoken toward the end of the first year and sentences by the end of the second.

The notes that babies make should not be considered as speech although many a parent will take a solemn oath that the child called him by his middle name. Children first learn nouns which are the name of objects which they want. Next they learn a few words indicating action or motion. In-

LADIES CIRCLE MEETS - The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Circle of the Christian Church, Montague, met on Monday evening, Feb. 7, at the home of Mrs. Lemuel MacLaren. Mrs. Rena Moae presided. In the absence of the secretary, Mrs. L. B. Mellich acted in that capacity. After the routine business plans were made for a donation party in the basement of the church.

Announcement of same will appear later. The Circle will plan another social affair, but have not decided definitely what form it will take. Mrs. MacLaren served refreshments at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Mellich was a gracious hostess despite her advancing years.

W. M. S. MEETING - The W. M. S. of the United Church met at the home of Mrs. J. E. Fraser on Tuesday evening with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. L. MacDonald, presided. Mrs. John Johnson led the devotional service, the theme being "The Church in Action in the Nation." Mrs. Johnstone spoke of Paul's work in the first church at Philippi and stressed the need for a real zeal in the work of our church today. She quoted from an address she had heard, when the speaker feared that a light of a great many of our present day missionaries work of being a "beacon light" to light the world, had dwindled till it was only a candle light. "A solo by Mrs. Mary Fraser, "Walked In the Garden With Jesus" was very sweetly sung. A number of the members took part with readings and prayer; then came a duet by Mrs. L. A. Johnston and Mrs. J. MacLaren, "Jesus Is Always There," which was very much enjoyed. This part of the program was very interesting, as so many have been in Mrs. L. B. Mellich gave a short reading on "Christian Stewardship" in the absence of the secretary of that office.

The business meeting came next, then the roll was called and answered with a brief summary of Bible character beginning with the letter M. A discussion followed on the advisability of showing lantern slides on missionary work with a musical program after the Sunday evening service in the near future. The secretary was instructed to write and try to arrange this. Refreshments were served by the hostess and a pleasant half hour spent.

REMEMBER WHEN

(By The Canadian Press) England's Olympic hockeyists, spurred on by the brilliant goaltending of Winnipeg's Jimmy Foster, rocked the sports world in years ago tonight when they bumped Canada off her world's amateur championship perch with a 2-1 victory. It was the most bitterly-fought game in the tournament's 16-year history and marked Canada's first loss.

SWIMMING ADVANCES

BERLIN - The movement to popularize swimming in Germany is growing. A committee, formed in 1937, has completed plans for building 3,600 new swimming baths during the next six years.

Jeelives come later-which is probably fortunate. The child usually is taught to control bowel action by the third or fourth month and at 10 to 12 months of age may learn to call for attention. The control of the bladder and of wetting the clothing may be developed by the end of the second year, every normal child should have this function under control.

In Memoriam

MR. ALFRED JOHNSON

(Truro News Feb. 8)

Following an illness of a year's duration, Alfred Johnson, aged 68 years, well known retired stock farmer, passed away Tuesday morning at his home on Park Street. Throughout his life he had been a familiar figure at stock breeders' meetings and had made a lasting contribution to this industry during that time. As a stock breeder Mr. Johnson specialized in Durham cattle and as an exhibitor of such had traveled extensively throughout the province. He was also a keen gardening enthusiast and up until the time of his passing his garden plot was a source of much planning and pleasure.

Born at Lower Truro, son of the late William M. and Amelia Wilson Johnson, the deceased had resided there until fifteen years ago when he moved to Truro. Surviving besides his wife, the former Elizabeth Blanche Livingstone, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Livingstone of Truro, are two sons and two daughters. They are Arnold, with the Sawyer Lumber Company, Worcester, Mass., Truman, herdsman at the Oakfield Estate, Halifax County, Nova Scotia, Mrs. F. E. Rockwell, Fort St. Vrain, Colo., Mrs. F. W. Murphy, Edon, P. E. I. One brother Joseph Johnson in California, also survives.

The deceased was a member of the congregation of St. Andrews United Church. The funeral was held from the home Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

MR. JAMES H. BROOKS

On January 25th the community of Murray Harbor lost one of its oldest and best known citizens in the person of James H. Brooks who passed away peacefully on this date after a few days illness of pneumonia.

Mr. Brooks who was in the 84th year of his age, was born at White Sands, son of the late John and Elizabeth Brooks and was one of a family of ten, three of whom are still living, John of Sackville, N. B., David of Murray Harbor and Mrs. H. E. Brehaut, White Sands. Besides these he also has two sons, his wife, formerly Miss Charlotte Brehaut of Murray Harbor now residing in Vancouver, B. C., two sons, Guy of Vancouver, Charlottetown, three daughters, Mrs. Florence Perry and Miss Zelta Brooks of Vancouver and Mrs. Mildred Howard of Beverly, Mass. One son, a Great War veteran, predeceased him by some years and three children died in infancy.

In 1873 when 19 years of age Mr. Brooks went to America where he entered the employ of Mr. J. W. White and he learned the trade of carriage builder and painter. For almost sixty years he carried on a successful woodworking business in Murray Harbor. He was a man who took a deep interest in the church and the welfare of the community and was a staunch supporter of the Temperance cause, having been for many years identified with the I. O. O. F. and for some time held the offices of G. C. T. and Juvenile Organizer for the Island. A staunch supporter of the Presbyterian Church since its formation in 1852, he was a member of the United Baptist and Presbyterian Sabbath School since 1926. A beautiful spray of white carnations testified to his love and respect borne him by the children.

The funeral service, which was held in the beautiful parlour to which the deceased had given so much loving care and skillful work, was conducted by his pastor, Rev. H. H. Slaver, assisted by Rev. Roy Weber. The hymn led by Messrs. H. J. Brehaut, J. W. White, Hanford Bell, Robert Bell, Jos. MacLeod and Alfred Chapman.

MRS. H. WALLACE TOOMBS

Entered into rest on Jan. 27, 1938 at her home in Tryon, Mrs. H. Wallace Toombs, aged 82. It will be remembered that the deceased met with a serious accident in October last by being struck by a car on the highway near her home. Despite hospital treatment and the most tender and loving ministrations in her own home, her weakened system could not stand the strain, and after months of suffering borne with the patience and fortitude of a true Christian, she peacefully passed to her eternal Home on the above mentioned date.

The late Mrs. Toombs was born at Crapaud on Feb. 4, 1856, and there her childhood days were spent. After her marriage in 1879 her home was in North Rustico, where by her many kindly Christian qualities, she made a host of friends who with loved ones, mourn her passing.

In 1919 she with her husband and daughter retired from farm life and made their home in Tryon. Much might be said of her beautiful Christian character as a wife and mother, she played her part nobly and well, and today her children rise up and call her blessed. A faithful and devoted member of the United Church, a life member of the Women's Missionary Society, she ever showed a deep interest in spiritual things.

Her husband predeceased her in 1928. She leaves to mourn their loss, two sons, Austin in Tryon, and Roy in North Rustico; also two daughters, Pearl, Mrs. George Brennan of Greenfield, Cal., and Mrs. Rose in Tryon. One daughter, Thomas Wigninton of Dundas, also survives.

The funeral which was largely attended was held from her late home on Sunday, Jan. 29, the officiating clergymen being her pastor, Rev. P. M. Young, assisted by Rev. S. Triles. Mr. Young very beautifully spoke of her passing, comparing it to the fall of the leaf in autumn, which after its radiant glory of color, gradually fades and falls to the ground; so in the life of the departed, she had lived a life of consecrated loyalty to Jesus Christ, a life made bright by the beauty of holiness, her faith and courage undimmed, she too has gone home to a blissful glory.

The hymns sung were "Forever With the Lord," "Asleep in Jesus" and "Peace, Perfect Peace." The beautiful solo, "No Night There" was very sweetly rendered by Mrs. Burpee Carr.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. C. D. Wright, Alfred Wood, Albro Howard, Lloyd Sturdy, Roy Dawson and Kenneth MacDonell. Interment in Crapaud Cemetery. (Patriot please copy)

The SNAPSHOT GUILD DECORATIVE SILHOUETTES

Since the puppy is likely to move, a photographic flash bulb, which gives an instantaneous flash of light, was used in making this silhouette.

PHOTOGRAPHIC silhouettes are a source of decorative pictures - and camera fun - which every snapshotter should try. The arrangements are simple - a white sheet stretched over a doorway, or division between two rooms, with a strong light behind it and the camera set up in front.

By arranging his subjects in front of this brightly illuminated sheet, the clever photographer can construct any number of imaginative or story-telling pictures. Costume snaps are particularly interesting in silhouette, and there are possibilities for many humorous pictures of the "it-can't-be" variety.

For instance, a juggler can be pictured keeping a dozen or two balls or bottles in the air at one time, or a camper can be pictured with two skillets, flipping a dozen flapjacks at one shot. In both these pictures, the objects to appear in the air would be cut from black paper or cardboard and pinned to the sheet at proper points.

The sheet must be stretched evenly, as wrinkles will show in the pictures. Lighting behind the sheet should also be as even as possible. Five feet is a suitable distance from lamps to sheet. John van Guilder.
