CHAPTER X

Her face grew grave. "Yes, about a month ago he besieged me, gave me no rest, made all kinds of proposals and promises. He wanted to divorce his 'outside' wife and marry me. He wanted to settle a hundred thousand dollars on me. Then, when he saw it was no use, he turned and begged me to let him be my friend. He spoke so nicely of you. He said he would help us in any way he could. He's everything that's kind to me. He can't do enough for me. Yet, somehow I don't trust him."

I was lying in bed, and a heavy weight was pressing on me, so that in spite of my struggles, I could not move. I was hot, insufferably hot. The blood ran boiling through my veins. My flesh was burning up. My brain would not work. It was all cobwebs, murky, and stale as a charnel house. There came the dreams.

There was always Berna. Through a mass of grimacing, greed-contorted faces gradually there formed and lingered her sweet and pensive one. I struggled to go to her. She was waiting for me, breaking her heart at my delay. Then the fever, the ravings the wild thrashing on my pillow all passed away, and I was left limp weak, helpless, resigned to my fate.

I was on the sunny slope of convalescence. As I turned and twisted on my narrow cot it seemed as if the time would never pass. All I wanted was to get better fast, and to get out again. Then, I thought, I would marry Berna and go "outside." I was sick of the country, of everything.

I was lying thinking over these things, when I became aware that the man in the cot to the right was trying to attract my attention. He had been brought in that very morning, said to have been kicked by a horse. He was in great pain, but quite conscious, and he was making stealthy motions to me.

"Say mate," he said, "I piped you off soon's I met me lamps on you. Don't you know me?" I looked at the bandaged face wonderingly. Then, with a great start, I saw it was the Worm.

"Tain't no horse done me up," he said in a horse whisper; "twas a man. You know de man, de worst devil in all Alaska, Black Jack. Bad luck to him! He knocked me down and gave me de leather. But I'm goin' to get even some day I'm just laying for him."

The man's eyes glittered vengefully between the white bandages. "Twas all on account of de little girl he done it. You know de girl I mean. Black Jack's dead stuck on her, an' de farder she stands him off de more set he is to get her. Youse don't know dat man."

"Tell me what's the matter, for Heaven's sake." "Well, when youse didn't come, de little girl she got worried. I used to be doin' chores round de restaurant, an' she asks me to take a note up to you. So I said I would. But I got on drunk dat day, an' for a week after I didn't draw a sober breath. When I gets around again I told her I'd seen you an' given you de note an' you was comin' in right away."

"Heaven forgive you for that." "Yep, dat's what I say now. But it's all to late. Well, a week went on an' you never showed up an' meantime Locosta was pesterin' her cruel. She got mighty peaked like, pale as a ghost, an' I could see she cried most all her nights. Den she gives me anudder note. I said she could lay on me dis time. I was de hurry-up kid, an' I starts off. But Black Jack he meets me back of de town an' taxes me wid up good and proper. But I'll fix him yet."

"Where are the notes?" I cried. "In de pocket of my coat. Tell de nurse to fetch in me clothes, an' I'll give dem to youse." The nurse brought the clothes. There were the notes, folded very small and written in pencil. There was a strange faintness at my heart, and my fingers trembled as I opened them. Fear, fear was clutching me, compressing me in an agonizing grip.

Here was the first: Q5th nrt.libHt nex 'gtaoinmnn "My Darling Boy: Why didn't you come? I was all ready for you. Has anything happened to you, dear? For Heaven's sake write or send a message. I can't bear the suspense.

"Your loving BERNA." Blankly, dully, almost mechanically, I read the second. "Oh, come, my dear, at once, I'm in serious danger. He's grown desperate. Swears if he can't get me by fair means he'll get me by foul. I'm terribly afraid. Why have you failed me? Oh, my darling, have pity on your poor little girl. Come quickly."

It was unsigned. Heavens! I must go to her at

FIRST AID must be quick

QUICK treatment for minor cuts and burns and bumps is the secret of avoiding dangerous consequences. That's why it pays to keep "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly handy all the time. Its application keeps the sore spot clean, promotes the growth of healthy new tissues. Tends to prevent scars, too.

Keep your medicine chest well stocked with "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly. You can buy it anywhere in jars and tubes. Don't wait for trouble. Be prepared. That's what first aid means.

And remember, when you buy, that the trade-mark Vaseline on the label is your assurance that you are getting the genuine product of the Chesebrough Manufacturing Co., Cons'd, 5520 Chabot Ave., Montreal, Canada.

once, I was well enough. I was all right again. Why would they not let me go? I was strong so strong now.

-SMILES-

Bess: What is a football? Tom: A piece of leather entirely surrounded by twenty-two men.

Wife: How do you like my new biscuits, hubby? I got the recipe out of the paper. Hubby: Well, my dear, I found a button in one and a feather in another. Maybe you got the cooking recipe mixed with the fashion hints.

"What kind of a winter are we going to have, Uncle?" "Well, it's awful hard to say as to that. You see it depends a hull lot on the weather."

LIKE CORKS
 From her point of view Men are like corks, And she is right, no doubt— At least some pop quite easily And some must be drawn out.

"What's your uncle doing?" "He's a collector for a gentleman with a music box."

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

Had Thirteen Boils On His Neck

Mrs. H. V. Duncombe, Grassy Lake, Alta., writes:—"My husband was covered with boils, having as many as thirteen on his neck at once. He tried everything possible, but nothing did any good until he took Burdock Blood Bitters, and before he had used one bottle the boils were all gone, and he has not been bothered with them since."

SUPERB - SILVERS

Prizewinning Prolific Polygamus Pups

SUPERB SILVERS have been bred from a few outstanding individuals. My original Prize male sired a world champion as well as a champion female. Also at least twelve of his offspring won prizes at last years show, for myself and others.

Practically every one of my adult females are either daughters or grand daughters of this male or his 1st prize brother. He was out of a litter of seven and sired two litters of seven this year. Every adult male in my ranch is Polygamus, I never had a pup refuse to double mate. My foxes are line bred and in-bred and still hold their size.

The pups have wonderful color, texture, density and length of fur with exceptionally long guard fur... If you intend going into the fox business start with good foundation animals. If you want some new blood which will not "pull down" your own standard call in and see my stock. Every pup has 3 to 5 Generations Prize Blood. Prices and terms reasonable.

Read the Rules of The Guardian "Famous Canadians" Puzzle Contest. They will answer every question.

Rules Governing Guardian "Famous Canadians" Contest

Everyone who is a paid in advance subscriber excepting employees of The Guardian and their families may take part. As many members of one family of a paid in advance subscriber may compete as desired and any subscriber may send in as many sets of answers as he or she wishes, but each set must be complete and will be judged individually.

The successful competitors whose subscriptions are paid farthest into 1932 will have the preference.

Clip the picture and coupon underneath it every day and write the answer on the blank line. Save all your clippings until the end of the contest and then send them to the "Famous Canadians" Contest Editor of The Guardian in one batch. Name and address should be included, clearly written or printed, and securely attached to your solutions. It will facilitate handling if you bind your solutions by sewing along the top, or using paper fasteners.

In sending more than one solution, each solution must be enclosed in a separate envelope.

Please attach sufficient postage as, otherwise, it may be necessary to refuse acceptance of the mail.

In case of a tie The Guardian reserves the right to publish one or more tie-breaking puzzles.

The judges' decision will be final in all matters, and The Guardian will not undertake to enter into correspondence with any individual regarding the decision of the judges.
