

YOU DON'T HAVE TO KNOW HOW TO SING TO ENJOY "HEART SONGS"

The words are as full of heart-thrills as the music. Only when the words match the music perfectly—as they do in "Heart Songs"—do you have the greatest songs in the world. That is why the songs in this book will last forever! That is why these songs, sung fifty years ago, are of imperishable memory.

Today is the Big Distribution Day

"Tenting On the Old Camp Ground"—the song illustrated today—a famous song of the olden time—sang often during the dark days of the Civil War by the saddened hearts at home as they thought of their soldier boy at the front! How they longed for a sound of the dear, familiar voice; for a sight of the beloved form, and what a relief it was to pour out their soul into these words of sympathy—this music so tender—that gave complete utterance to their hidden feelings!

The men around the camp-fires at night with only the distant stars looking on—with the leaves of the trees rustling in sympathy—with the rivulet murmuring in soft accord—they sang it, too—this wonderful song! What memories of home—of father, mother, sister, wife or sweetheart—it brought up! Somehow, its melody soothed them—its words brought rest to their weary bodies—and their sleep was sweeter and sounder for this song!

In "Heart Songs" are many War Time Melodies You Don't Have to Know How to Sing to Enjoy Them.

King James IV. of Scotland, Paid the Price of 14 Oxen for One "Sang Booke" in 1489

That Royalty itself encouraged the native bards and minstrels as far back as the fifteenth century, we have positive proof. In 1489 the following item appears in the accounts of the Lord High Treasurer of Scotland, during the reign of James IV:

"1489, July 1. Item, to Wilzeam, Sangster of Lithgow, for a sangbooke he brocht to the King by a precept, x.li."

This sum was about the value of fourteen oxen in those times, which shows a high appreciation of music on the part of the Scottish monarch. Based on this valuation, "Heart Songs"—the most wonderful of modern song books, would be worth a whole cattle ranch in Texas, land and all.

Not an ordinary song collection, but a four years' song gathering from 20,000 music lovers, who sent in their favorites.
