—PROPER BATHING FACILITIES—The Summerside Town Council recently passed a resolution granting $100.00 to the Y's Men's Club to assist in providing bathing houses for the children on the railway wharf. In the opinion of many of the citizens the railway wharf is not the most suitable place for a bathing beach for children. The railway cars shunt up and down and ships are loading and unloading which necessitates heavy trucks passing up and down the wharf with great danger to children. Besides this the water at the wharf is deep, and only suitable for strong swimmers; and then again many parents will not allow their children on the wharf for the very reason that the water is deep. It has been sugested that a much more suitable place would be at the east end buttment, which was recently built up and provided with concrete steps down to the beach. At the present time there is no accommodation for bathing anywhere in Summerside and children are obliged, if they are to enjoy the lovely bathing beaches at all, to encroach on the private gardens of residents along the shore, which is very undesirable from many points of view and it can hardly be deemed decent to have children of all ages and both sexes and even adults, making open air dressing rooms of private gardens, and certainly would not be allowed anywhere else.—S.

Had Many Boils On His Neck and Body

While the skin seems to be the cause of the irritating and painful boils the real trouble is rooted in the blood, and when you think you are rid of one, another seems ready to take its place and prolong your agony.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do does not, as a rule, get rid of them. What is most essential is to give the blood a thorough cleansing.

When the blood is purified, cleansed and vitalized by Burdock Blood Bitters the boils disappear, your misery is at an end, your health and strength renewed, and the skin clean and smooth.

MR. ALFRED A. FERRIER, Falkenburg, Ont., writes:—"Several years ago I suffered greatly from numerous boils on my neck and body, and had three blind ones on my knee.

Our druggist advised me to take Burdock Blood Bitters, so I took two bottles, and in a short time I was completely rid of the boils."

Floud Criticism Was a Talk-Out

CALCUTTA, June 3 —(CP — Keen and at times seated discussion in the Bengal legislative assembly about the ministry's selection of Sir Francis Floud, former British high commissioner in Canada, to preside over the commission that will examine Bengal's land revenue system ended in a talk-out —a division deciding that the question should not be put.

It was one more opportunity of testing the Fazlul Huq government's strength and the government won by a generous margin.

There was dissastisfaction in some quarters that the choice of chairman had fallen on one who is a stranger to India, it being argued that it will take him a long time to master the complicated problem set him. On the other side was the argument that man who has won distinction by his administrative work in many fields can bring a fresh view to bear on familiar difficulties and has no prior reason for favoring either landlord or tenant against the other.

The permanent settlement of land revenue, instituted in 1793, now is much more than a comprehensive land revenue organization; it is part of Bengal's social structure. The commission will review the whole of the existing system and make recommendations for legislation. It will consider among a variety of problems whether the existing machinery for fixing fair rents has worked satisfactorily in Bengal. Also whether it is practisable and advisable for government to acquire all the superior interests in agricultural land and bring cultivators into the position of direct tenants of government; in other words, whether the "zemindars" should be bought out and government manage the land for itself.

MAY BE CANDIDATE IN MASSACHUSETTS

BOSTON, June 3—(CP)—Horace T. Cahill, Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor, according to political observers at the State House.

Mr. Cahill's mother is the former Alice G. Duncan of Black River, N. B. and his stepfather is J. Whitman McConnell of Yarmouth, N. S.

Cards circulated among Republican members of the House asked them to support Representative Christian A. Herter for Speaker. Mr. Herter is an intimate friend of Mr. Cahill and it is believed that the present Speaker confided in Mr. Herter in order to allow the Representative a head start in getting the nomination for Speakership.

Charles P. Howard, former chairman of the state commission on administration and finance, has announced that he, too, would seek the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor.

Muni As "Zola" At Capitol Today

Paul Muni, whose most recent film, "The Story of Louis Pasteur," won for him the coveted gold statuette of the Motion Picture Academy as the best actor in 1936, comes to the Capitol today in another epic story—"The Life of Emile Zola."

Directed by the same genius who guided the making of "Pasteur," the celebrated William Dieterle, the Zola movie is declared to excel even the previous masterpiece.

It begins with the early struggles of Zola as a novelist, carries him along to wealth and fame and goes thoroughly into his magnificent crusade on behalf of Captain Dreyfus, the army officer who was falsely accused of selling military secrets, and was unjustly convicted and sent to Devil's Island.

Muni, of course, plays Zola. Another splendid actor, Joseph Schildkraut, portrays the unfortunate Dreyfus. The rest of the cast is practically all-star. Gale Sondergaard, who had a sensational success in "Anthony Adverse," is Madame Dreyfus; Gloria Holden is Madame Zola, and Erin O'Brien-Moore is "Nana," the girl of the streets about whom Zola wrote his first great novel.

Other notables include Morris Carnovsky, Vladimir Sokoloff, Henry O'Neill, Donald Crisp and Louis Calhern. Fifty immense sets were built for "The Life of Emile Zola" and nearly 5,000 players were used in its various scenes.

Maine Replaces Old Industries With New Ones

AUGUSTA, June 3—(CP)—New industries that are springing up in Maine to supplant the vanishing lumber and ice trade make the most of the natural resources of the state and of the nearby Canadian provinces.

One of the new business ventures situated in Rockland, is the processing of kelp for the production of algin, a substance used in a variety of manufactures. Most of the supply of the big, purple leaves is now being obtained from the vicinity of Clark's Harbor, N. S., where it is put through a preliminary process before being shipped by schooner to Rockland. Recently one vessel landed a cargo of 125 tons.

The producers, the Algin Corporation of America, plan to erect another plant in the Maitimes. At present their principal competitor is on the Pacific Coast.

The algin is obtained as a white powdery substance in a process that is secret, but which involves huge concrete tanks and a maze of pipes and pumps. Eventually it is hoped to extract both iodine and potash as well as algin. The plant has a capacity of handling 30 tons of kelp a day.

Another unique industry in Maine is the canning of periwinkles, or whelks, in Jonesport. As far as it is known this is the only concern of its kind outside of Europe.

Emery F. Farnsworth, veteran packer of Jonesport, arranged to commercialize the tiny shellfish after he had procured enough of them to make a chowder. He declared the flavor "excellent."

Tests showed the "winkles" have a 15.91 per cent protein content, much more than that of clams or oysters. The fat content of 0.48 per cent is only half of that of the better known bivalves. The periwinkles have been found to contain calcium, iodine, iron, phosporus and sulphur.

The principal use up to now of the "winkles" on this side of the Atlantic has been for bait although in European countries they have long been regarded as a luxury.

Resembling conchols in shape, they average about one and one-half inches in length. They live on the bottom of the sea and move by crawling. They often burrow in the sand or cling to rocks, and prey on clams and other bivalves. Lobster fishermen often find them in their traps and they are attracted to nets of all kinds.

SPORTSMEN ASK CHANGE IN SEASON

Quarterly Meeting Of Fish And Game Assn. At Summerside Discusses Problems.

It was decided to request the Prince Edward Island government to ask the Federal government to sanction the season for ducks opening September 15 and for geese, October and November, at a meeting of the Prince Edward Island Fish and Game Protective Association here Friday night. This would give a two and a half months season for ducks and two months for geese, the season to close for all November 30.

Mr. D. A. MacKinnon, Charlottetown, tabled a resolution requesting that the trout season be shortened in the spring and extended in the fall. He claimed that the big catches were taken by boys and "pot-hunters" in the spring and favored a longer season during the fine weather in the fall.

He suggested that the season be closed until May 1 and opened until September 30, instead of September 15 as at present.

Mr. H. T. Holman, Summerside, gave the meeting an account of what he had done with some pheasants he had received from the Department of Agriculture. Instead of letting these birds run wild, he kept them in a netted enclosure with the result that many eggs had been distributed to reliable farmers who had hatched the eggs successfully. Mr. Holman believed this a better way than turning the birds loose without being somewhat climatized.

During the meeting some of the members urged that the Association press for a seven and a half inch size limit for trout. Mr. Harry Tidmarsh, the president, stated he had written to Mr. Pound at Ottawa and also to all local members of the Senate and Commons, but without result. The president also referred to the way the members of the Prince Edward Island government had handled the fish and game bill.

Mr. A. E. Morrison, Charlottetown, game inspector, supported Mr. Tidmarsh and believed it was quite useless to try to do anything.

In his closing remarks, President Tidmarsh declared there was a movement on foot by a large number of new members to make changes in the officials and he requested the Summerside delegates to come to the Charlottetown annual meeting in September to back up the present officials.

Probe Smoke Reports In Plane Search

ZEBALLOS, B. C., June 3—(CP)—Pilot Ted Dobbin took off today for Rafael Point on the west coast of Vancouver Island to investigate the possibility that smoke seen there by Indians might have been from fires lit by four persons missing since last Friday in a Ginger Coote Airways seaplane.

The missing craft took off from Wells Air harbor in Vancouver Friday. It was piloted by Len Waagen of Edmonton and carried as passengers, Mrs. George Nicholson of Zeballos, Charles R. Rumsey of Toronto and H. Boyd of Steveston, B. C.

Rafael Point is on the western tip of Flores Island which lies about 40 miles south of Zeballos.

The indians said they had seen smoke rising from the island last evening also Wednesday and again yesterday morning.

Women Muster For War Work In Air Corps

LONDON, June 4—Organization of the National Women's Air Reserve, new branch of the Women's Legion in England, for work in peace or war, is proceeding apace under the leadership of Amy Johnson whose record as an Empire pilot is a typical achievement of British womanhood.

For the N. W. A. R. 100 women are to be picked from the 350 fliers who hold the certificate of the Royal Aero Club and the many others who have the usual flying certificates and are available as pilots for the women's army.

Flying—as a sport or as a career—has come in since women won equal suffrage, so officials in the government departments of civil aviation are unable to tell how many women have actually passed the required tests. "Women take exactly the same exams as the men so we do not bother to divide the sexes in our reports and statistics. Why should we?" one official questioned.

Miss Ursula Waldron, 21 year old niece of the Marchioness of Townshend, is one of the prime movers in this R. A. F. auxiliary unit. She is busily engaged making arrangements so that the closest contact possible can be kept with the women "territorials" who now are being recruited and instructed by Lady Londonderry's competent staff. Miss Waldron is but one of hundreds of equally enthusiastic young women who hold pilots' licences of several years standing.

Women in England are also to be found in other branches of the "flying game." Thanks to the ingenuity of one woman meals on the planes that journey to Africa and Australia are as good as they are. Miss M. Mundy has the job os providing full restaurant meals on airliners on which no actual cooking can be carried out. Not only that, but she trains and directs the staff providing the food on the flying boats on the Empire routes to Africa, India and Singapore.

Must Be hot

Cooking is done in some cases in the company kitchens, in others in first-rate hotels, but it has to be served—as the English expect their meals—piping hot, out of airplane kitchens not much larger than magicians' hats. The young woman with black bobbed hair has all this down to a science with even a special diet for babies. All her chefs are women.

Another side of women's interests party given lately to celebrate an Imperial Airways pilot's 250,000 in aviation came to fight at a large miles flying in the air. While he received congratulations near the cocktail bar, a quiet little woman in a corner was lured into conversation by a reporter who found she was the famous flier's wife. Questioned as to her experiences she answered proudly that she really hadn't had time for any, she had two children and had moved 31 times in the last eight years.

Not up in the air but also out to save the country in times of stress are the 500 delegates who attended the Women's Liberal Federation convention at Bath. Viscount-

CHINESE ARE FORCED BACK FROM LANFENG

SHANGHAI, June 4—(Saturday) —(AP)—Japanese reported today that Chinese troops were beginning to withdraw from Lanfeng to prepare for a decisive battle at Chengchow, junction of the Lunghai and Peiping-Hankow railways.

Chengchow, 70 miles west of Lanfeng scene of 24 days of bitter fighting, is the next major objective of the Japanese in their drive on Hankow, China's provisional capital.

Chinese admitted that reinforced Japanese forces had turned the tables and now were attacking Lanfeng after being held back for several days, but asserted the latest Japanese attacks had been repulsed.

Japanese advices said General Chiang Kai-Shek had concentrated 200,000 men, including his best Central Army troops, at Chengchow under General Hu Tsung-Nan.

Japanese warplanes made a new raid on Canton, according to Hong Kong dispatches, killing 50 persons in a textile factory and causing a great loss of life among houseboat dwellers along the Canton River. The raid was another of the series in which 1,000 civilians were estimated to have been killed and 1,500 wounded since last Saturday.

TOKYO, June 3— (AP)—Lieut General Seishiro Itagaki, who shared honors with Lieut. General Kenji Dohara in carving out the state of Manchoukuo in 1931-32, today became minister of war in Japan's reorganized "win the war" cabinet.

He succeeded 58-year-old General Hajime Sugiyama who was appointed to the supreme war council after having been minister of war since June 3, 1937. Emperor Hirohito formally installed the two generals in their new positions.

The appointments completed the cabinet shakeup begun May 26 when General Kazushige Ugaki became Foreign Minister, General Baron Sadao Araki became Minister of Education, Seihin Ikeda took the finance portfolio and Marquis Koichi Kido relinquished the ministry of education for the new post of minister of public welfare.

The appointments, however, were mere incidents in the three-day gathering of England's most prominent Liberal women who discussed food shortage and agriculture, air-raid precautions and plans in preparation for the general election. They are devoting great energy throughout the country to organization of younwomen.

Less Gladstone, new president, was not backward in expressing her disapproval of the present government's policy and was much quoted in the papers, while Miss Megan Lloyd George, seconded by Lady Layton, roundly condemned the government's conduct of foreign affairs.
