PLAN FINANCIAL

Great Britain's proposal that a "buy nothing from Italy" campaign be adopted as a sanction, France and Britain, officials disclosed today, plan to ask the United States whether it would support a worldwide embargo against Italian exports if the League should adopt such a sanction.

The two powers will seek to learn if the United States would restrict its Italian imports to aid the League.

Attitudes of other non-League member powers, including Germany, Japan and Brazil, will be sought likewise, it was understood. Premier Laval requested Mussolini's terms for an Ethiopian compromise with Britain in what was unofficially considered a "last warning" to Il Duce before sanctions reach a critical stage. But the terms were not given. Laval has warned Mussolini, said quarters close to the Foreign Office, that France would be forced to support Britain in increasingly severe sanctions unless a compromise is reached.

A French assurance of "solidarity" with Britain was officially reaffirmed by Laval to Sir George Russell Clerk, British Ambassador. Asked how far France would go with London the French Premier said France is "inclined to furnish all the aid needed under Article 10" of the League Covenant, providing for sanctions.

Without Decisions. WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The United States was represented in official quarters tonight as determined to withhold any decisions on its attitude toward League of Nations sanctions against Italy until the countries directly concerned have defined a clear-cut program. This word capped a cautious discussion by Secretary of Commerce Roper of suggestions that the United States' embargo against arms and munitions exports to Italy and Ethiopia could be extended to include raw materials for war.

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) FARRSBORO, N.S., Oct. 16.—Duncan Johnson of Apple River, N. S., met death today as he walked along a road beside his wagon to aid his horses in pulling a heavy load against a strong head wind. A wheel fell in a rut, tilting the lumber. One of the pieces struck him on the side of the head causing a fractured skull and he died a few hours later. Although a native of New Brunswick, Johnson had lived in Apple River for 50 years.

Island Boy Does Well In West

In Europe

Ethiopian homes, in an attempt to avert bombing, must cease. This source asserted Italian troops entering Addis found almost all houses bore the red cross, and Italy protested such action to the League of Nations.

A government spokesman said Italy would accept no settlement of the dispute which did not guarantee absolute disarmament of Ethiopia, safety of Italian colonies, and Italian colonial expansion.

(Copyright 1935 By The Havas News Agency) (By Guardian's Special Wire) PARIS, Oct. 16.—(C. P. Havas)—Premier Mussolini's refusal to reveal his full ambitions in Africa has blocked Premier Laval's latest efforts to halt the Italo-Ethiopian war, it was learned here tonight.

France herself declines to side either with Great Britain or Italy in the conflict, a reliable source revealed. Premier Laval will continue in the three-power negotiations but with little hope for immediate important results.

A whole series of imaginary proposals is said to have been made by him to Britain, but actually they are without basis, this informant confirmed.

The request that Britain withdraw its Home Fleet units from the Mediterranean and the Mediterranean Fleet from the neighborhood of the Suez Canal was made only in the imaginations of those who reported it, this source declared.

What M. Laval did propose, and the most that he proposed, was to act as intermediary for the transmission to Britain of any proposal Italy might have to make for the peaceful solution of the war, Havas was informed. Up to the present his talks with the Italian and British Ambassadors have been restricted to exchanges of information to serve as a basis for formulation of a plan.

Mystery Surrounds Stabbing

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) YARMOUTH, N.S., Oct. 16.—Stabbed through the back of his neck by a butcher knife, Colin Lawrence was in serious condition in hospital here tonight.

Police had two stories of how the injury was caused. One, the explanation of the wounded man, was that it was an accident, the result of "fooling." The other was that a companion had picked up the knife and stabbed Lawrence during a card game argument.

Meantime routine business of government continues to function. Canada borrowed $135,000,000 yesterday. This was the loan taken by Canadian banks. Most of the money was used to pay off $89,000,000 of refunding bonds of 1933 at 3 1/2 percent, and $25,000,000 of the 1931 Dominion of Canada bonds. The balance of the money will be used for general government purposes. said. He saw great stretches of country rich in natural resources and as yet undeveloped. It means great obligations for the people of Canada for the better the room the higher the rent.

"The world has a right to expect great things of you," Mr. Anderson said in concluding his reference to impressions of Canada.

In beginning the second part of his address the speaker said that Scotland while it has been experiencing difficult years like most countries of the world there have been silver linings to the clouds. "We in the old land have felt a thrill of pride for the way the old country and democracy there has stood the test in these recent years. It has kept an even keel while other countries in Europe were tottering" Mr. Anderson went on to say.

Dealing next with how the old land is faring educationally the speaker declared that the pre-eminence of Scotland in every field has been due to its belief in education. He then went on to refer to the influence of Scotsmen in the industrial, religious, and educational life of Canada.

For many years past and in some cases for centuries each parish in Scotland has had a school. One of the last acts of the Scottish Parliament before the Union with England was to pass an act providing for a school in each parish. They were free and even remote districts could give a child enough to carry a child up to university stage.

Improvements in education are evident in the increased attention parents give to the education of their children. The speaker paid a high tribute to the mothers of Scotland, declaring that they are as good now as ever they were. "The school buildings are better," he said, and the teachers are better paid. They are assured of a high standard of living and receive a substantial pension.

More attention is being paid to the cultural side the appreciation for music and art having greatly developed. This broadening out has been due to a feeling that the young people how to use their leisure time well in addition to instructing them in how to make a livelihood. "We must watch in the broadening out that we do not lose depth, for there is a spiritual side," the speaker warned. He then went on to speak of brotherhood and the teacher's opportunity to foster it.

F. H. Toyne in speaking on "General Education" said that character and usefulness should be the primary aims of life. Scholarship is the means of realizing those aims. An older generation had an idea which is beginning to be accepted again that education consisted of a series of impressions received both voluntarily and accidentally from birth onward throughout life. Those impressions were not only intellectual but moral and athletic. Education is a process of growth that does not stop with the school but continues on through life.

The speaker had been asked, he said, if the broadening out of education will make the young too well educated for the problems they will have to undertake in later life. He considers the widening of the curriculum as essential, he said. He commended the idea of selecting courses suited to the individual and not giving a purely academic education to one not suited to it and vice versa.

In conclusion he expressed pleasure in being able to speak here. He did not want to omit one province in the tour even in theory but since he came and experienced the welcome he would have been less willing to omit it in practice he said.

Educational Council In Session

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) TRURO, N.S., Oct. 16.—"There is no God" campaigns, carried on at special classes in public schools in various parts of Canada, were condemned today by Miss Netanis Semmens of Toronto, secretary of National Children's Work, speaking before the 16th annual convention of the Maritime Religious Education Council in session here.

The "internationale" was freely sung at children's meetings in many parts of the Dominion she visited, Miss Semmens told the meeting. Although some people are "too good to be any good," the remedy for the increasingly alarming condition lay in acquiring "a radiant religious faith," she concluded.

During today's sessions, Muriel Lawrence, a graduate of Boston University School of Religious Education, was appointed secretary of girls' and children's work in the Maritime Provinces.

Reports of the general board were made to the convention by L. W. Simms of Saint John. Robert Reid of Saint John submitted the treasurer's report.

Sessions of the convention will conclude tomorrow. Rev. D. T. I. Forsythe, Montreal, general secretary of religious education in the United Church for Eastern Canada, will address the final meeting.

Old New York Landmark Doomed

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The inexorable hand of time moved today toward the Hotel Brevoort, one of old New York's last remaining landmarks, to mark the approaching end of the famous old hotelery.

In its place, at the lower end of Fifth Avenue near the tree lined precincts of Washington Square, is to be an abode of modern apartment dwellers, seekers after the life of tiled baths, folding beds, and room service.

The hotel Brevoort was opened in 1854 and for two generations it was a rendezvous for Gourmets. King Edward VII, when the Prince of Wales, was taken to the Brevoort to be feted during a visit here in 1860.

The old registers include the signatures of the Duke of Marlborough, Queen Emma of Hawaii, Mark Twain, Richard Harding Davis, Count Tolstoy, and on down the line to such recent and contemporary celebrities as Charlie Chaplin, Emma Goldman, Maxim Korki, Chalapin.

Wheat Prices Crumble On 'peg Exchange

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) WINNIPEG, Oct. 16.—Wheat prices crumbled on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, dropping three cents under liquidation induced by heavy selling from the Canadian Wheat Board.

Only exchange regulations, which permit no more than a three cent fluctuation in wheat per day, saved the market from collapse.

October wheat ended at 88 5/8 cents, November at 89, December at 89 and May at 92 7/8 cents. Heavy sales by the board brought former buyers into the pit of the liquidating side and pulled out stop-loss selling orders.

At Chicago heavy selling orders, dumped into the wheat pit today on reports of a change in the Canadian grain board's marketing policy, plunged prices downward almost five cents a bushel.

Prices were carried to the lowest level since the first of the month. All deliveries of wheat except December at one time sold below $1.00 a bushel, and may close at 99 7/8-$1.00. The market had opened a cent higher so that the decline closed prices 1 7/8 to 3 5/8 cents below Tuesday's finish.

Winnipeg messages indicated the Wheat Board was selling its holdings of October wheat. A private report said wheat was being sold steadily in the Winnipeg pit, but the Wheat Board would not confirm these sales.

cette provided a pleasant interlude between the two addresses.

Extended Farewell Party By Friends

Friends of Miss Mary MacDonald gathered at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel MacDonald, Travellers Rest, recently to bid her farewell on the eve of her departure for the United States.

After greetings had been exchanged the following address was read and a well filled purse presented to Miss MacDonald on behalf of those present.

Miss MacDonald in her usual charming manner thanked the guests for their tangible expression of good will and assured them that her friends in Travellers Rest would always have a warm corner in her heart.

It was with a very pleasant social evening, a dainty lunch was served and the guests departed wishing Miss MacDonald every success in her new home.

To Miss Mary MacDonald Travellers Rest, Dear Mary:

It was with the deepest regret that we heard of your intended departure from your homeland to visit for a time our great neighbour to the south, the United States, but we hope that your sojourn there will be only in the nature of a visit and that you will soon return to us again, the same Mary as you were when you left us.

No doubt we shall all miss you but perhaps there will be in that new land a better chance for furthering your ambition in life, you will see new faces, you will make new friends, but we ask of you not to forget the old faces, the old friends whom you have left at home.

We felt that we would have been unfaithful in our friendship to you had we left your departure unnoticed so we have gathered in your home tonight to express our regret that you have thought it best to leave us and we ask you to accept this small gift with the hope that we shall soon see you again and to assure you that you are leaving behind you a host of friends who will always honor and respect the person and name of Mary MacDonald.

Signatures on behalf of your friends, Miss MacDonald left this week to accept this small gift with the hope that we shall soon see you again and to assure you that you are leaving behind you a host of friends who will always honor and respect the person and name of Mary MacDonald.

Warns Workers May Turn To Radical Parties

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 16.—Warnings that workers in the vast mass production industries might turn to Communism or Fascism for organization unless they were brought under the banner of the American Federation of Labor were handed the Federation Convention today by John I. Lewis and Charles P. Howard.

These warnings came a short time after the Federation declared Italy an "outlaw nation" and urged all countries to deny her financial and commercial assistance in the Ethiopian war. The declaration was carried in a statement, adopted by the organization, approving the neutrality policy of President Roosevelt and Congress.

In the tense atmosphere that surrounded the start of the Federation's biggest family fight on the convention floor, Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers, told the delegates that continuation of the Federation's present organization policy "will spell ruin of the labor movement."
