GRIMES WAS PREM. BENNETT SICK MAN GETS DEGREE IN LAST GAME

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 17.—In the course of those final nerve-racking innings at Sportsman's Park Saturday afternoon while the world championship hung in the balance there was a little drama being enacted on the St. Louis bench. It was in the eighth inning. When the score was 4 to 0 in favor of the Cardinals, and Burleigh Grimes, the Cardinals' spitball pitcher, began to weaken and walk the rivals.

Grimes was the first man up. He went to the plate, then stepped out of the box and walked slowly toward Gabby Street, the manager, coaching at third. Street met him half way and they talked. After which Grimes returned to the plate and struck out, obviously making no attempt to hit the ball. It was learned after the game that Grimes has appendicitis. He will be operated on, now that the series is over. They have been freezing his appendix so he could play in the series.

When Grimes went back to the bench after his turn at bat in the eighth, he lay down on the bench, pale, weak and almost exhausted. Jim Lindsay put some ice in a towel and rubbed Burleigh's head with it. Orsatti fanned him. And when the last of the Cardinals had been retired and it was time for Grimes to pull himself together, they had to help him to his feet and steer him toward the diamond. He was out there just pitching on his nerve. He was slow because he could not be quick. He squatted down because he was in pain. And the perspiration he mopped from his brow was cold.

When he finally had to be taken out, he lay down again while Hallahan retired the side for him. And when Hallahan came back, Burleigh, whose courage had carried him almost to the end, but not quite, lifted himself up. He took Hallahan in his brawny arms and kissed him. "Boy, he said, you're a sweetheart." And nobody laughed.

Prime Minister Urges Abandonment of Sectional Differences in Present Crisis.

(By Thomas Green, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 15.—Intermingling pomp and dignity with a colorful display of warmth of welcome, McGill University yesterday conferred upon Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett the degree of Doctor of Laws, and then as a climax, the large audience attending the special convocation marking the opening of a three days' reunion heard the Prime Minister in an address permeated with confidence in Canada.

"Let us be confident," Premier Bennett declared after remarking that the world's troubles might not be over, but Canada's would be the sooner over, the sooner Canadians marched fearlessly to meet them. "Let us be bold and put to shame those who in their assumed wisdom forecast unending trouble, and in the greed that springs from fear prefer themselves and their own interests and exploitations to the welfare of Canada as a whole. Turn from those who, to serve a class or community would deny to the length and breadth of this land the benefits for which it has struggled. Abandon sectional causes, knowing that no part can really prosper at the expense of the others and that the prosperity of the whole must be reflected into its remotest regions."

Bacon Hog Fair at Morell

The Bacon Hog Fair held at Morell on Wednesday, October 14th, may fairly be termed a successful one, both classes being filled to requirements, or better, with entries. In Class No. 1, Pair Bacon Type Market Hogs, there were 11 entries, and in the Single Sow Class entries to the number of 10.

The Fair was conducted under the supervision of Mr. J. A. Gillies of the Dominion Live Stock Branch who just previous to the placing of awards, addressed the farmers present, briefly, on the objects and aims of such fairs. He also touched upon the principles of Hog Grading as required by the Grading Regulations, and stressed the point that only by breeding, primarily, and careful feeding and attention, could farmers hope to attain to high standard of type production. He also stated that notwithstanding the fact that some farmers still maintained that one breed of hog was as profitable as another, and that our present grading Regulations were nothing more than a questionable whim, yet the farmer who adhered to the practice of catering to the demand of the trade, in his production, was the farmer who eventually came to the top in the hog industry.

Mr. George Boswell of Frenchfort one of our Island's best breeders, was Judge. He congratulated the exhibitors on their splendid showing on this first occasion of local competition.

The Fair was held under the auspices of the Morell Live Stock Shipping Club and was fostered by the Dominion Live Stock Branch and the Provincial Department of Agriculture.

The following is a list of the Prize Winners:

Hidden Well Swallows Boy

LONDON, October, 17 (British United Press)—An old well, the existence of which was not known, in a yard at the back of a house in Birmingham, suddenly opened and swallowed up a three year old boy.

The victim of this extraordinary tragedy was Reginald Phillips. He had been playing in the yard, but could not be found at dinner time. At first it was thought he had wandered away. The ghastly discovery of a hole in a corner of the yard was made later, and investigations revealed a well 35 feet deep.

Owing to the presence of poisonous air in the cavity of the disused well, it was necessary for a fire-

Review Of P. E. I. Protestant Orphanage

The October meeting of the Trustee Board of the Orphanage was held in the city office on Tuesday afternoon with the Chairman Mr. W. A. Stewart, M.L.A., in his place and a good attendance of the members.

Reports of the various committees were presented and approved. The Institution is now connected with city light and power and an agreeable rate is being fixed.

The forty-five children in the home are continuing in good health but the work is very heavy, there being so many of tender years, and foster homes difficult to find.

The finance report was given by Mrs. H. S. Henderson head of the committee and there was considerable discussion of this important phase of the work.

Talking depression does much to bring about the condition and in the work of this institution depression has a double effect.

In ordinary business it may take the form of fewer customers or less cash but in Orphanage work besides the scarcity of funds we have an increase in the inmates and an overworked adoption committee handling the applications for admission.

Less money more children, that is the position and the discussion centered on how to complete the year successfully under existing conditions.

For the Maintenance account $45.00 was received recently from the Bedeque Auxiliary per Mrs. Bowness and $10.00 from the family of the late Neil McCannell and L.O.B.A. per E. C. Holm $27.00. The Endowment Fund has received from the estate of Robert McDougall, DeSable, $254.45 and from the estate of John A. Moore, City, $10.00.

It is still hoped that the faithful friends of the children will again generously give their support which in the past has been sufficient to carry over many difficulties, to ultimate success. The annual maintenance collection will soon be under way and the board is endeavoring to have collectors in every section of the province as well as press requests to friends anywhere to assist by contributing.

Let us not think of success as something for ourselves but rather think of it as the success of the children in our care. This meeting of the board was unusually long as the Adoption and Finance questions had so many serious phases.

After the passing of the bills for payment the meeting adjourned to meet again regularly on the second Tuesday of November.

Human Sacrifice For The Rain

DURBAN, South Africa, October 17 (British United Press)—A grim story of the offering of human sacrifices to bring rain has been revealed during the examination of three natives, who are charged with the murder of two children, aged 2 and 4.

According to the evidence of one of the natives who turned King's evidence, the children were stolen from their mother's hut, poisoned and hacked to pieces, their bodies being used to make "Peku" the medicine for inducing rain.

The native territories have been afflicted with a terrible drought. In some districts it has not rained for twelve months and thousands of cattle are dying daily. Most of the natives are starving.

He jumped in and caught her and lifted her over the fence when the bull reached him. He was fighting a losing contest when the owner came and set the dog on the animal. Mr. Bryanton was unconscious when picked up but the doctor says he will soon recover.

(Canadian Press)

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 17.—Summoning of a special session of the Alberta Legislature to consider the financial position of the province was urged by D. M. Duggan, Provincial Conservative leader.

Communists Are Busy In Berlin

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—(A.P.)—Communist demonstrations were staged in various parts of Berlin last night on the eve of the critical Reichstag session at which Chancellor Heinrich Bruening's new government will meet its first test since the legislature was reconvened Tuesday.

One policeman and five Communists received gunshot wounds during the demonstrations and thirty persons were arrested. Late tonight order was restored.

The attempt by Communists and by the United National Socialists (Nazis) and Nationalists to bring about the downfall of the government was expected to fail. Chancellor Bruening counted on the support of the middle parties to tide him over.

The opposition continued its assault on the government in the Reichstag and out. Edeard Dingeldey, head of the People's party, delivered a vigorous attack in the Legislature and Adolf Hitler, leader of the Nazis but not a member of the Reichstag, pressed his anti-Bruening campaign in his newspaper.
