Resolutions

About 75 delegates from different parts of the Island attended the meetings. The following resolutions were passed:

1. Whereas there is a lack of available ministerial leadership; and whereas, the spirit of Christian unity is the spirit of Christ;

Therefore, be it resolved, that the Executive of this Association be asked to explore with other religious bodies all possible means of co-operation which would promote the work of the Church in this Association.

2. Whereas, we, the Prince Edward Island Association of United Baptist Churches (1) View with dissatisfaction and alarm the attitude of the Federal Government toward the sale and use of intoxicating liquors, (2) The prominence given to men in our war effort whose primary interest is in breweries, (3) The lack of satisfactory replies to appeals and correspondence from Churches and other organizations relative to the liquor situation;

And whereas, we as loyal citizens deeply resent being asked for an all-out effort to win the war when it is generally known that alcoholic liquors form a part of convoyed cargoes, and that millions of dollars are being spent annually in Canada for alcoholic liquors, while Canadians are asked to conserve wherever possible;

Therefore be it resolved,—That we express our determined opposition to the present practice of encouraging the sale of liquor, and urge our clergy and people to lend their support to the growing nation-wide protest. That copies of this resolution be sent to Ottawa.

3. Expressing appreciation for the helpfulness of the Association and thanking the retiring Executive for services efficiently rendered.

4. Assuring the Maritime Baptist Convention of our loyalty and support in the Centennial programme now being fostered and in the raising of a Centennial fund.

5. Thanking the entertaining Church, Pastor, officers, choir, organist, singers and community for their very fine assistance in making the Association the success it was, and for the very fine hospitality enjoyed.

Tax Exemptions Discussed In House

OTTAWA, July 2—(CP)—Income tax exemption on new life insurance policy premiums and on subscriptions for war savings certificates was advocated in the House of Commons budget debate today by two Conservative members, G. K. Fraser (Peterborough West) and Hon. W. Earl Rowe (Dufferin-Simcoe).

Mr. Rowe said the budget provision that premiums on life insurance in force the day the budget was presented might be deducted from the compulsory saving portion of increased income taxation should be extended to the young men just starting married life.

Unless it was so extended he did not believe it should be given to any policy holders. It was a concession to men with well-established insurace policies but the high taxation might make it impossible for young persons to create an estate for their families.

Mr. Fraser spoke against the new tax on candy and expressed the fear that the high taxation generally would drastically curtail contributions to welfare and other charitable organizations.

When Mr. Rowe proposed income tax exmption on new life insurance premiums, Finance Minister Ilsley asked Mr. Rowe if he realized the great impetus such action would give to the life insurance business of Canada.

Mr. Rowe agreed but asked what sounder way existed for a man to save money and create an estate than by insurance.

"Strengthen the life insurance companies and you strengthen the whole economic fabric of the Dominion," he said.

He declared that "thousands upon thousands" of war certificate subscribers were getting rid of what they had and refusing to buy more because such savings were not to be credited to compulsory savings.

Mr. Rowe devoted the bulk of his speech to an appeal for recognition by the government control boards of the problems of farmers.

He said price ceilings were being placed upon farm products with no regard for the rising costs of farm production and that these controls were applied by boards no members of which were practical farmers.

G. A. McLean (Lib. Simcoe East) appealed to all parties to join in an effort to remove what he said was a long standing situation of duplication, waste and extravagance in the offices connected with the Senate and House of Commons.

Angus MacInnis (C.C.F. Vancouver East) said the government could easily correct this condition if the members of the House of Commons and Senate would let it.

GIRL GUNS GREASE!

MAKING automobiles last longer—run smoother — is Anne Snelling's contribution to the war effort. Another case of a girl doing a man's job—and doing it well. But it takes all the vim and energy she has. No wonder she's a booster for the "Self-Starter" Breakfast! Says a big bowl of Kellogg's Corn Flakes with milk and sugar helps her sail through her working day. Will help you, too. Get some Kellogg's today!

MOVE PLANNED

and were in pursuit of British columns east of the defence anchor.)

British authorities conceded the break-through at an unspecified point but said the allies swiftly drove the penetrating tanks back again.

Race with Reinforcements

Reports from the fighting front were meagre but it appeared Field Marshal Erwin Rommell was throwing his Axis forces, already worn by their 350-mile dash across eastern Libya and into Egypt, into decisive attacks in a race against the arrival of allied reinforcements including additional United States tanks and planes.

Meanwhile, allied bombers and fighters hammered at the long, strained Axis supply lines, and have never conceded Axis control of the air over the dusty battle lines.

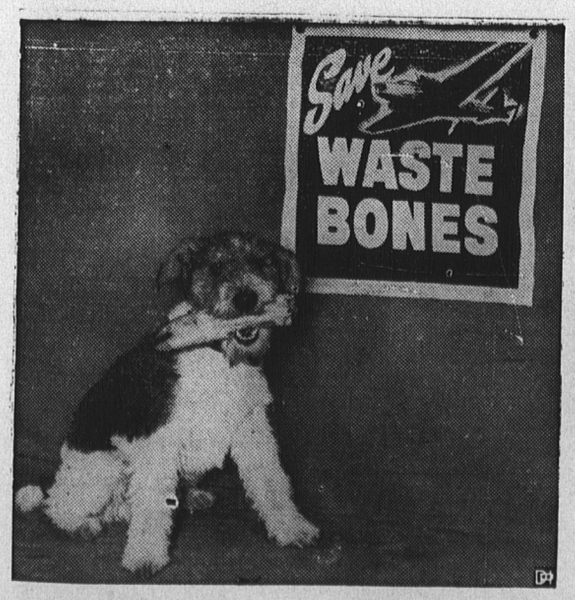
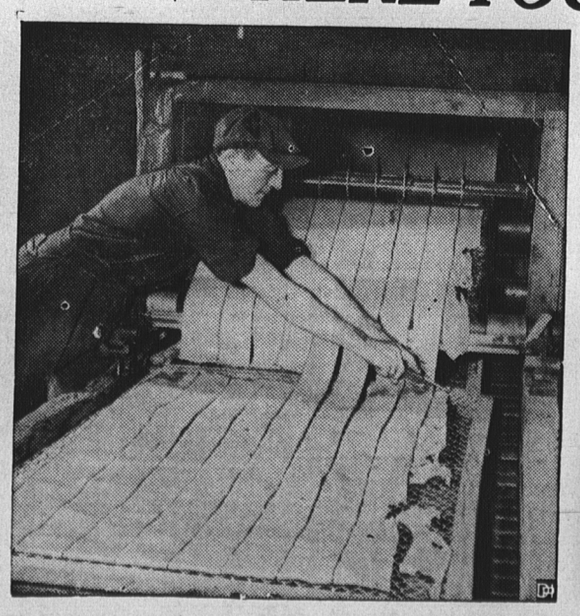
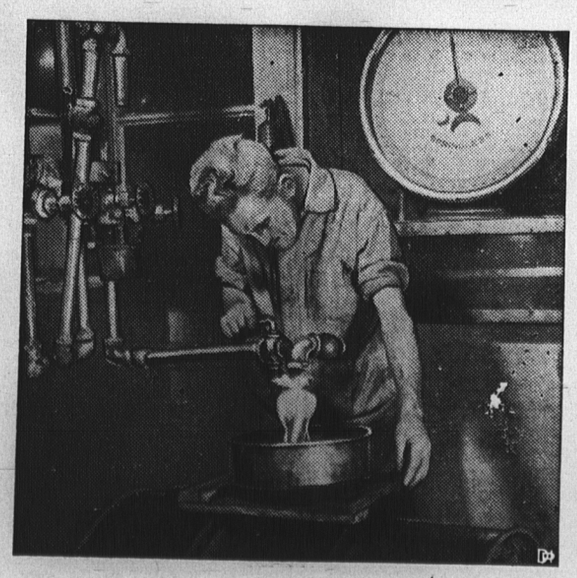
WHERE YOUR SALVAGE GOES



Sparky, a bone-saver from way back, sets an example for the housewife. Vegetable oil imports are partly cut off. To ensure sufficient quantities of fats and greases for war use, every home in Canada should save bones, drippings.



This is concentrated glue made from bones which the home owner has laced in a paper bag and set out separately for the garbage collector. Drippings are put in old cans. Glue has a multitude of uses throughout war production.



Ten pounds of processed household fats and bones produce nine pounds of soap and one pound of glycerine. This is high-grade glycerine being poured into a barrel. It will be shipped to an explosive plant to make nitro-glycerine.

Behind the roar of our coastal defence guns is the grim power of cordite, which like practically all propellents contains nitro-glycerine. Every pound of nitro-glycerine requires a half-pound of glycerine from fats and bones.
