MRS. HOWARD'S MESSAGE

Mrs. Hazel Howard, Cornwall, P.E.I.

"Loud rings on sea and land today
The challenge of a work to do
As in the furnaces of time
God molds this worn out world anew.
Then strip us of our love of ease;
Send full on us Thy vision clear;
Oh, may we catch the far off glow
Of thy great walls.
Then let us go
And build their splendour here."

For the next four months all over Canada the season is on for football, cricket, tennis, swimming, hiking, biking, in fact now-a-days every young person should have some out-of-doors interest.

In all games and outdoor recreation, one of the things that spells success is endurance—that is energy in a continuous stream and not just in a spurt.

Another requirement for success in games is well-trained and perfectly controlled muscles.

Another—an athlete must have quickness—quickness to see and quickness to decide what to do.

The player who takes intoxicants before or during a game places himself under a handicap.

Physical and mental fitness is one of the most wonderful possessions and makes almost anything possible for us! Alcohol is the certain enemy of perfect fitness. Be an abstainer and give yourself a chance to get the best from your life.

We are to build a new world. The significance of this war is that we have a great opportunity to build something more solid and more lasting than the old world. The world of arms will go, but the war of the human rave for a higher destiny is before us .... I hope all the sacrifices humanity has made will not prove to be a price paid in vain—that we will gather the fruits of colossal suffering.

—Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts.

A HIGHWAY THROUGH THE DESERT

(A Contributed Editorial)

"Make straight in the desert a highway for our God" was the ringing call of one of the greatest of the Old Testament prophets; and what majesty and rich imagery are in the words that follow:

"Every valley shall be exalted and every mountain and hill shall be made low; and the rough places plain, and the glory of the Lord shall be revealed."

It is a prophetic vision, a dream of perfection, and it is perfection attained through direct and open communication between man and his God. It is poetry, of course, but the poem has a distinct and direct message to man and nations today. If the world is to pursue its course with a sense of peace and security it must undertake the co-operative construction of "a highway for our God."

The crooked paths that confuse and bewilder and lead nowhere must be straightened and the rough places that cause misunderstandings and pain must be smoothed out. The demand is for a straight highway through the desert of man's misery and fear.

Man, as one commentator on this Biblical passage has pointed out, has built every other kind of roadway in the interests of civilization. He has build the roadway of education, of commerce, and ofevery other form of human enterprise—but he has not succeeded in achieving the high aims of peace and durable satisfaction. He has been willing to build a way up to God that might prove easy and convenient, without sacrifice and without that which demands the abdication of self-interest. Now the situation is so acute that it calls for more of consistency and more unselfish service. We cannot build a highway for ourselves unless we build it in the interests of others.

Getting down to the root of the matter, there has to be a widespread reformation that touches every individual life, the life of the home, society and the world in general.

There has been far too much debate and discussion about the esthetics and refinements of religion. Now, not talk, but practice of our religion in a way that shall make it real to the consciousness of men, is the supreme necessity.

The world today needs something more than commercial and scientific highways. We need great engineers and far-seeing and high-visioned statesmen at this time, but we also need consecrated and high-minded workers. An overemphasis has been placed upon material values and not until we come to reckon with spiritual values shall we resume the normal conditions of life.

The clarion-call right now is the challenge of the prophet: "Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make straight in the desert a highway for our God."

MINE TOWN REJECTS TAVERNS

SYDNEY, —Residents of Sydney Mines in a plebiscite Saturday turned down by a majority of 190 a proposal to have beer parlors set up in the town under provisions of the Nova Scotia Liquor Commission Act.

Only 1,142 of the town's 4,500 eligible voters turned out.

Sydney Mines was the first town in the Province to hold a plebiscite on the new ballot, which read: "Are you in favor of the establishment of beer parlors under provisions of the Nova Scotia Liquor Control Act, or amendments thereto?"

Previously Glace Bay, New Waterford, Dominion and Halifax in that order had voted in favor of the sale of beer or wine by the open bottle, but the results were ruled ineffective under changes in the Liquor Control Act at the last session of the Legislature.

Citizenship Bill Given Royal Assent

OTTAWA, June 27 —(CP)— The Canadian citizenship bill today received royal assent in the Senate, as Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret as deputy to the Governor-General gave assent to four Government measures and three private bills incorporating companies.

Other Government measures were an interim supply bill and amendments to the feeding stuffs act and the naval service act.

The citizenship bill, sponsored by State Secretary Martin, will have these main effects:-

1. Establish and recognize Canadian citizenship. Formerly the only definition of citizenship was found in the immigration act. In future, all Canadian passports will carry the words "Canadian citizen."

2. Women will be given the right to decide their own nationality.

3. Women who marry Canadians will qualify for Canadian citizenship one year after establishing residence.

4. A native-born Canadian, a British subject domiciled in Canada, brides of Canadian servicemen and all those who now possess naturalization certificates will become Canadian citizens.

5. Non-Canadians who have served in the Canadian armed forces outside of Canada will qualify for citizensip after one year of such service.

6. The bill will maintain the status of British subject, with the advantage that Canadian citizenship papers will be supplied upon request after the legal period of residence—five years. Once in possession of citizenship papers, they will have the right of entry into Canada and the right to Canadian diplomatic protection.

7. Naturalized Canadians will lose their citizenship if they remain out of the Dominion for six years or more without declaring intention to remain Canadians by an official endorsement on a passport or certificate of citizenship.
