END THE FEEL-PUNK, DRAG-FOOT DAYS

Dull headaches, poor appetite, sleeplessness are warning signs. You feel low - hate to work. These symptoms may point to constipation due to "low-bulk" meals. Why throw these days out of your life - particularly when regular habits make you feel so good. Get "bulk" by eating a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

There's nothing experimental about ALL-BRAN. Millions of people have used it successfully. Scientific tests prove it is safe and effective. Within the body, it absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the system. ALL-BRAN is easy to eat. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company. Just eat two tablespoons daily. Stubborn cases may require ALL-BRAN often. Serve as a cereal, or cook into delicious recipes.

What an improvement over pills and drugs! ALL-BRAN is a food - you buy it at the grocery store. Made by Kellogg in London.

RED-WHITE-AND-BLUE SUITS FOR MEN

Gents' natty suitings are going all patriotic in Coronation Year, says the London Sunday Chronicle. Stripes of red, white, and blue on grey backgrounds will enliven the new spring suits.

"Coronation colors will be incorporated in most of the suitings," said the editor of the "Tailor and Cutter" when a reporter asked him how the Coronation would affect men's clothing. "Most popular will be those with red and white pin-stripes on a blue ground."

Ties with tiny embroidered crowns and the symbol GVI are waiting for the Coronation-conscious dresser while the extra-patriotic may have shirts adorned with the letters of word "Coronation" in various patterns.

And if you can't bear to forget the Coronation even at night, pyjamas with reproductions of national flags across the chest will be on sale.

Commenting on King George's influence on clothes, he said: "The tailoring trade considers that the King, with good figure, firm carriage, and excellent taste, presents to the world an outstanding example of the merits of British tailoring."

Y. M. C. A. Matters Discussed

A meeting of those interested in Y. M. C. A. matters was held on Tuesday evening in the Town Hall, Summerside. Mr. Thomas Johnston, President of the Board of Directors of the old Y. M. C. A. presided. Mr. W. A. Currie was asked to act as secretary.

A number of prominent citizens were present and discussed the feasibility of re-organizing the old Y. M. C. A.

Councillor A. S. MacKay gave a most interesting outline of the history of Y. M. C. A. work in Summerside dating back to 1870, when a Mr. Dimmock, who owned a book store in the town interested himself in the movement.

In 1885 the organization was functioning in the Ludlow Hall, an imposing building on Water Street, now quite disappeared. In 1887 the property on the corner of Central and Filzroy Street was purchased by the late R. T. Holman and was used for the Y headquarters for many years.

Prominent citizens associated with the movement at that time were Daniel Stewart, John Goss, C. W. Strong and Neil MacLeod, all of whom have passed to their eternal rest. Another active member during that time was Mr. J. A. Brace. The Y continued to function with varying success until about 1923. Meetings of the Directors have been held each year but the organization has ceased to function.

During the period of the war the Y. M. C. A. at Summerside gave valuable assistance and help to the men of the 105th who were stationed at Summerside for a time.

Members of the newly organized Y. M. C. A. Club were present and expressed themselves behind the movement to re-establish the Y. M. C. A. and would render every assistance possible.

Other speakers spoke along the same lines.

Two committees were formed with a view to furthering the movement.

The first committee consisted of Messrs. Don, Baker, Winslow J. Lidstone and S. S. Todd. They were asked to interview leading residents to ascertain if they were interested in Y. M. C. A. work.

The second committee, namely, Messrs. B. S. Hinton, J. F. Arnett and Dr. H. Clark were asked to enquire into the valuation of the property now owned by the Y and the cost of establishing a new Y.

Meeting adjourned and the committees will report progress at a future date. -S.

MAKING A LAMP SHADE

With the spring-cleaning campaign upon us we usually turn our thoughts during the recess between marmalade time and the beginning of the actual cleaning process to the needwark tasks which are always required for such things as new curtains, cushions, re-covering elder-downs, chair covers, and lampshades.

Lamp shades, particularly large standard ones, are very expensive to buy. A friend showed me one she had bought recently which cost six guineas. I felt that it was a waste of money, when it is quite an easy matter to re-cover a lampshade of this description.

As you may probably have one which you are a bit worried about at the moment, it may interest you to have directions.

The average standard lampshade is either a dome-shaped sectional one, or else a plain round one, narrower at the top than at the bottom.

The actual measurements of what you will require for re-covering your shade cannot be given here, as naturally sizes vary, but it is a simple matter to cut a paper pattern of one section, then multiplying this by the number of sections, you find the length of the material required.

Average measurements for a dome-shaped wire frame - fifteen inches deep and twenty inches across.

One and a quarter yard of China silk, measuring thirty inches.

Three cards of cotton bias binding.

Six yards of gold galon.

Two and one-eighth yards of six inch fringe.

One reel of Biko in the required shade.

Start by binding the upright wires of the frame. The binding must be firmly sewn to the top of the wires, where is joins the ring at the top; wind this evenly round and round the wire down to the lower edge. The binding must now be cut off and sewn securely. All the upright wires must be bound in this way, also the top ring and the wire at the lower edge. Where it is necessary to join the binding take care to see that this is done very neatly.

Take a piece of stiff paper, preferably white. Place underneath one section of the frame and with a pencil outline the section to get the exact shape. This is used as a

Changing Gardens

In gardens the same thing is advisable. Half the joy in gardening is derived from moving plants from one bed to another, in adding something new and different here and there; in short in having a continuous changing picture but one that really expresses the individual preferences of the owner.

There are some people who are afraid to make a change once a garden or home is laid out. But with most plants a shift is good for the plants themselves. This does not mean that permanent trees and shrubbery should be dug up and re-planted each spring but with many of the perennials and annuals only confusion, overcrowding and deteriorating growth will result from too long residence in one spot.

True there are certain species which do better in one location than another. Some flowers must have full sun, and others partial shade. Any seed catalogue will list these different tastes. But there are usually a score or more which have these special preferences and one may be used one season and another.

In the perennials for instance, it is certainly advisable to shift such plants as iris, delphiniums and phlox every three or four years. Otherwise weeds will creep in, centres become spindly and particular nourishment used by the plant will become exhausted. Early spring or fall is the proper time to do such shifting.

Shrubbery

With shrubbery and trees while constant moving is not suggested annual pruning is. The object of course is to remove all weak and very old growth so far as possible, to let in light and air and to encourage symmetrical growth. One is not advised, however, to prune any blooming shrub like the common spirea or the forsythia before blossoming time or much of this year's beauty will be sacrificed.

Rock Gardens

Level flower gardens and lawns may be the easiest to handle, but where the owner is prepared to go to a little extra trouble, more striking results can certainly be obtained with ravines and slopes. Where the ground falls away very rapidly it will be necessary to arrange in short terraces. On such slopes rock gardens can be laid out with level stretches of grass in between. Rock gardens are made to resemble miniature alpine ranges, and in them alpine flowers are grown. These are usually little short sprawly things that require little moisture during most of the year. They are especially listed in the better seed catalogues. To hold the sharply sloping soil, fair size rocks of the roughest possible nature, preferably weather beaten boulders, are buried to about two thirds their depth irregularly throughout the slope. Good pockets of sandy soil are arranged between the rocks. The flowers find a foothold here and trail over the boulders.

Poppy, larkspur and bachelor button seeds may go into the ground as soon as the frost is out.

Tomato seeds sown now in a box in the house will save you a considerable sum over the cost of buying the seedlings, and give you a better choice of variety.

Overcrowding in the cold-frame will raise havoc with your seedlings. Thin them out mercilessly.

Inspect your lawn for bare spots and reseed.

Have your supply of plant food on hand for your first day in the garden. You will need it then as you will later.

If your order to the seedsman has not already gone forward, you had better send it immediately. Planting season is practically here.

pattern to cut out the required number of sections in the silk. Be sure to keep the grain of the silk running straight down the centre of each, always allowing one inch for turning.

Carefully pin one section on the frame, and oversee this closely all round on to the binding. One of the most essential points in this kind of lampshade making is to see that the silk is stretched as tightly as possible all the time. Leave about a quarter of an inch when cutting away turnings, never less, as it is fatal with a stretched shade if the silk begins to fray. Sew the binding over the top and lower edge.

You are now ready to put the fringe on. This should be laid heading over the wire at the bottom. The gold galon should be sewn neatly down each wire, then round the top, and over the heading of the fringe. This completes the shade, and you get an expensive-looking lampshade for merely the cost of the actual material.

CODE FOR MAIDS

London's maids after meeting their mistresses, and over the teapots, have drawn up the following code.

Two half-days off each week. One complete day off a month. No canceling off-time without notice.

More courtesy and consideration on the part of the employers.

Said one speaker: "Unless solution is found for the domestic servant problem there will be a greater diminution in the number of children in middle-class households and a gradual abandonment of family life in favor of the artificial existence in hotels and service flats."

PROGRESS

A man may become what he wants to be, if he wants it hard enough to pay the price.

Canadian Garden Service 1937

This spring with its steadily returning of prosperity and low cost Home Improvement Loans of the Dominion Government, Canadian housewives are being urged to make a break and change their homes about. Owners are advised to make changes, to remodel kitchens or bath rooms, to add fire places or extensions elsewhere. Where finances do not permit it is suggested that at least the old furniture be polished or painted or at a minimum moved from its accustomed corner to some other place in the room. This spring change is absolutely necessary occasionally unless one prefers to stay in the rust.

Shrubbery

With shrubbery and trees while constant moving is not suggested annual pruning is.
