

What Makes Your Hair Keep Growing?

Many worry about "thinning" hair, yet don't know the facts

The average healthy head of hair grows 1,200 to 2,400 new hairs a month!

"But if your scalp is too dry, too oily, or clogged with dandruff, you can look for trouble," hair experts say.

Unless you wash your hair at least once a week, an unclean, unhealthy scalp condition often develops. For your hair is like a spider web that traps dust, dirt and smoke from the air. These combine with perspiration, oil, dried skin or dandruff—to form a scaly, waxy accumulation that fits closely and almost invisibly over your scalp—and helps choke off nourishment from your hair.

To keep your hair healthy, abundant and good-looking—you should dissolve away all dirt and dandruff with a weekly shampoo. Use Fitch Dandruff Remover Shampoo, the only shampoo guaranteed to remove dandruff. Fitch is stimulating to the scalp and leaves it tingling with health—because this scientifically-prepared shampoo penetrates right down into the thousands of tiny hair roots—dissolves and washes away clinging dirt and dandruff and leaves your scalp antiseptically clean. You'll really enjoy a Fitch Shampoo!

IN MEMORIAM

MISS VERA CAMPBELL

At the Charlottetown Hospital on September 17, there passed away her eternal reward Miss Vera Campbell after an illness of several months. Miss Campbell was born at Upton seventy-six years ago, being the daughter of Neil Campbell and Christine Flanagan. Her life of dedication to the service of God reminds one of St. Paul's exhortation to his co-laborers to be mindful of those devout women who had labored with him and whose names are in the book of life. For five years Miss Campbell presided over the home of Rev. Ronald J. Gillis at St. Peter's Bay. In 1907 she went to Vernon River as housekeeper to Rev. James Morrison, later Bishop and Archbishop of Antigonish. For forty-two years she directed the household arrangements of the Archbishop, thirty-seven years at Antigonish. She was ever the dignified, efficient housekeeper, the kind, gentle lady whom all respected and loved. When the increasing infirmities of age obliged her to retire from active service she came to Charlottetown, first to the Sacred Heart Home and then to the hospital where she underwent a serious operation in September. Her worn out constitution was not able to recover from the shock and on September 17th, she passed quietly away. Her funeral at St. George's Church on the morning of September 19th was a splendid tribute to one who had been held in such high esteem by her many friends and admirers. Solemn High Mass was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Bennett MacDonald, who was assisted by three priests of the diocese of Antigonish—Rev. M. J. MacKinnon, Deacon, Rev. M. A. Callivan, sub-deacon and Rev. D. E. MacDonald, master of ceremonies. Rev. Harold Croken occupied a seat in the sanctuary and Rev. W. J. McCabe assisted the choir. The pall bearers were: Joseph G. Campbell, Albert Acorn, Frank McPherson, George McPherson, John J. Campbell and Joseph J. Campbell. Miss Campbell is survived by two brothers, George of St. Louis, Minnesota, and Alexander of Primrose, P. E. Island, Rev. Sister Mary James of the Sisters of St. Martha, Antigonish, who died some years ago, was a sister of the deceased and Sister St. Stella Marie, Notre Dame Academy, Charlottetown is a niece. Mr. Campbell and his family wish to express their appreciation of the many kindnesses they received during their bereavement. Especially do they wish to thank the members of the clergy, the Sisters of St. Martha of Antigonish and Charlottetown and the Sisters of Notre Dams.

Quebec City Seeks To Get In On Maritime Rates

OTTAWA, Nov. 14 — (CP) — An attempt by Quebec City to get in on railhaul benefits given under the Maritime Freight-Rates Act drew opposition from the Maritimes today before the Royal Commission on Transportation. A Quebec witness was challenged on some points by one Maritimes counsel after presenting a brief asking that the city be included in the preferred territory that receives statutory freight-rate reductions of 20 per cent under the 1927 statute. That territory now ends at Lewis, Quec. across the St. Lawrence River from Quebec, and the City's contention was that the "select" area should extend to Quebec because it and Lewis are part of the same river port. Frank Power, counsel for Quebec City and its chamber of commerce, had a lengthy skirmish over the issue with Frank D. Smith of Halifax, Nova Scotia counsel before the commission. Mr. Power's brief also put forward two other major recommendations: 1. That measures should be taken to remove the "evils" of "extreme centralization" in the administration of Canada's national ports, which was affecting Quebec adversely. One proposal was for the establishment of local port advisory councils as recommended by Sir Alexander Gibb after a 1935 survey of Canadian ports. 2. That a thorough investigation be made with a view to implement 1903 railway legislation calling on the Canadian National Railways to encourage traffic through Canadian ports by lowered grain rates and other means. On the Maritime Freight Rates Act question, the Quebec counsel, acting for his ill father, C.G. Power, former Air Minister—contended the act now discriminated unfairly against Quebec City. Shippers there could not get the full benefit of the reduction in sending products to their natural market on the nearby south shore of the St. Lawrence. To get a reduced rate, Mr. Power's brief said, they had to ship by boat or truck to Lewis and then load their goods on a train. This cost them an additional nine cents per 100 pounds on the average. The Nova Scotia counsel challenged Quebec's claim for inclusion in the M.F.R.A. territory on the ground that it was not on the Inter-colonial Railway, the line built into the Maritimes as one of the terms of their union with Canada. Lewis is the western terminus of the I.C.R.

Vocational School Head Gives Views

HALIFAX, Nov. 14 — (CP) — Principal Bert Larson of Halifax Vocational High School said today 40 candidates for teaching jobs at the school had an average grade seven education. He told a service club luncheon this was "a startling thing" and he referred to "the appalling number of people who have never seen the inside of a secondary school." He blamed the situation partly on impractical courses in some branches of secondary education. Although academic high schools were primarily concerned with producing university-standard graduates, only 10 per cent of high school graduates attended university. Vocational schools could help remove this defect by teaching various trades. The Halifax school opens next September. "Ninety per cent of our students are destined to work with their hands," Mr. Larson said, "and we may as well face the fact."

STILL IN OFFICE

SYDNEY, N.S. — (CP) — It was a tight squeeze but A.D.H. MacKinnon was elected as councillor in Cape Breton county by only one vote. Mr. MacKinnon trailed his opponent, John Neil MacKinnon in returns after the election but a recount showed a tie vote. The returning officer cast his vote for A.D.H. MacKinnon, who had been a council member for more than 34 years.
