

All Children Love "Syrup Of Figs" For Liver And Bowels

Give it when feverish, cross, bilious for bad breath or sour stomach

Look at the tongue, Mother! If coated it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When feverish, cross, listless, pale doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without gripping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Gr. George E. McKay, son of Mr. Edward McKay, Darnley, P. E. I., who died of wounds received in action in the Horton, County of London War Hospital, Epsom, England, Jan. 26, 1918.

The cross is twined with gossamer, The cross some hand has shaped with care— And by his grave the grasses stir, But he is silent sleeping there.

The birds sing loud; he hears them not, The night goes by; he does not know— Alone white cross stands on the spot And tells of one who sleeps below.

The brooding night is hushed an still, The crooning breeze draws quiet breath, A star-shell flares upon the hill And lights the lonely house of death.

To Freedom's cause his life he gave And dared the battle, purpose sure, A Hero. Write upon his grave: "He died that Britain might endure."

WHY DO WOMEN SUFFER

When There is Such a Remedy for Their Ills as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

Mishawaka, Ind.—"I had such a severe female weakness that I could not do my work and I could not get anything to relieve me. A physician treated me, but it did no good. I had been in this condition for three months when I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound (tablet form) and it cured me. I keep house and am able to do my work now. I certainly praise your medicine—Mrs. SUNDALD, 618 West Second Street, Mishawaka, Ind.

Women who suffer from such ailments should not continue to drag around and do their work under such conditions, but profit by the experience of Mrs. Oldfather and thousands of others who have tried this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and found relief from such suffering. If complications exist write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of their 40 years' experience in advising women on this subject is at your service.

THE PROMOTER'S WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

THE TONE OF NEIL'S LETTERS MORE LOVING.

CHAPTER V.

Neil sent the books and the picture. He answered my letter almost at once, which made me very happy that I had not allowed my pride to make me wait as long as he did before writing. The books I not only read, but studied. When he wrote of them I was thus able to discuss them intelligently with him. They were mostly light reading, but by well-known authors. The picture I placed on my bureau. I begged mother to buy me a frame for it. She bought me a very pretty one, better than she could afford, yet it seemed by a poor setting for Neil's handsome face. We now wrote regularly. As the fall ran into winter, and the wind again whistled through the stalks of the shrubs and the naked tree branches, I longed more for these expressions of friendship from Neil. Altho I neglected none of my duties, helped mother, joined in all the little affairs at the church and at the homes of my young friends, my heart was not in any of them. Neil was constantly in my thoughts. At Christmas he sent me a set of O. Henry. He was a great admirer of that writer, and had said in one of his letters that he wanted me also to become familiar with his work. I was surprised and delighted, but when in addition I received a wonderful box of American beauty roses I was so happy I cried. "Looks pretty serious to me," father said, as I arranged the flowers. I recall now what a time I had finding holders for them. I couldn't bear to cut the stems, as mother suggested, so I placed them in the big water pitchers we used in the bedrooms. The only receptacles in the house deep enough to hold them. One, a beautiful half-opened bud I carried up stairs and pressed it between the leaves of my bible. That I would keep always. As winter waned and the spring winds blew softly and warmly over my cheeks, Neil's letters grew a little more affectionate. Now he often said something about other girls, comparing them to me, always in my favor. Once he said: There is no one like you, Bab. No one a fellow feels is so brave, so true, so good. The more I see of these New York girls the more I think of you, dear, and your girlish ways. Keep all your ideals, Bab. The world is pretty hard and sordid at times. We all need something to cling to." He often now wrote somewhat in this vein. Then at times he would ask me to excuse a short letter, saying that the market had gone all to pieces, and he was terribly busy. I had no slightest idea what he meant. That he was busy, was all I grasped. Or he would tell me the market was scooting upward so fast no one could catch it. I asked father what he meant, but he hadn't any more idea than I had. He answered: "It is sort of banking business, I guess." But as a rule Neil wrote nice, long satisfactory letters. And in reply I also told him of everything I thought would interest him. I too allowed myself a little more freedom as time went on, and several times I had signed them "with love" as I had longed to do at first. Then one day in early spring when the leaves and buds were pushing themselves into a warm sunlit world I almost fainted from sheer joy. Neil was coming!

I went about the house singing in my heart the refrain: "Neil is coming! Neil is coming!" It seemed to me that the soft winds whispered it; that the birds caroled it. Nothing else could possibly engage even their attention, save the one wonderful fact that Neil "my Neil" I called him blushing was coming. It was the last of May when he arrived. The village never had been prettier, the flowers and shrub never bloomed more bravely. I had been sewing for weeks so that I to might appear bravely attired. I don't know that I have mentioned my own accomplishment; but I was "a wizard with a needle" so mother and the girls said. And I put all my ingenuity to work so that I might look attractive to Neil. The materials I had to work with were the simplest but they were all that I was accustomed to wear, and I had not even wished for anything better.

Tomorrow—Neil Tells Barbara of His Love. I went about the house singing in my heart the refrain: "Neil is coming! Neil is coming!" It seemed to me that the soft winds whispered it; that the birds caroled it. 2 Cakes Cuticura Soap and 3 Boxes Ointment Heal Two Weeks Old Baby Of Skin Trouble. "When about two weeks old my baby turned blue, and in a couple of days broke out in a rash. Then she turned sore around her ears and on the top of her head, and on her arms and legs. The skin was red and she scratched till she made it bleed. She could not sleep. I wrote for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. It was a great relief, so I bought more, and I used two cakes of Cuticura Ointment when she was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Alfred Ryan, 167A St. Martin St., Montreal, Que., August 10, 1917. For every purpose of the toilet Cuticura Soap and Ointment are supreme. "He's Just Perfect!" This exclamation of Barbara Forbes, is the eternal cry of the real wife when all the world turns against her husband. Although she, herself, may have opposed and criticized him, she is his staunch ally when the rest of the world fails him. So, although Barbara had pitied herself above all women when she had discovered that Neil's business methods were not always laudable ones—although she had thought herself the most wretched of wives when she had had to entertain Neil's questionable business associates—still, with his creditors at the door and the arm of a vengeful world about to strike him down, she stood before her husband and, with flashing eyes, declared that he was the finest man on earth! But Neil Forbes, sanguine and visionary by temperament, had made mistakes. There was no doubt of that. He did deserve punishment. He had chosen a crooked path; and it is just that we should suffer for our errors. Barbara, however, was determined that he should not suffer—that she would protect him. And we all know the strength of that determination which lies at the heart of a woman who loves. So it appears that Barbara will save her husband from shipwreck, doesn't it? To make sure of this, read: "The Promoter's Wife" which begins this week in The Charlottetown Guardian.
