Drives Royalty In Mountains

Vic Riley, veteran chauffeur at Jasper Park Lodge, who drove Their Majesties to Mount Edith Cavell and return during their stay in the Canadian Rockies on their eastbound trip. Riley, who is in an engine cab in the winter, and has driven a Lodge car for many summers, says the King and Queen were interested in everything they saw and took hundreds of feet of movie film during the trip. They spent more than half an hour walking around the foot of the Glacier of the Angel.

Our King, Our Queen

God save our King and Queen! Our hopes have ever been centered in thee. Our land from shore to shore rejoices evermore, feet of movie film during the trip. They spent more than half an hour walking around the foot of the Glacier of the Angel.

When The Daughter Moved

The police captain waved the last of the maudlin ladies out of his office and greeted his teeth in a grin. "Rafferty!" he yelled. His police secretary entered. "What's the big idea of wasting my time with a bunch of reformers? Here the Slavon gang is busting the town wide open; the Third National has been robbed; if that Karpis case isn't arson, I don't know. Fire from a waterfall—and you let a bunch of women come in to tell me there are dirty magazines in town." He glared at his secretary. "Rafferty, did you ever see a dirty magazine?" Rafferty snickered. "I used to read the Police Gazette," he confessed, "in the shops when I was a kid."

King and Queen Get Front Seats at Mrs. Roosevelt's Own "White House Varieties"

Royal entertainment became certain when these headliners were billed for the White House "vaudeville" show. Left to right: Sam Queen and Gertrude Clark, stars of the Soco Gap N. C. square dancers, and famed songbirds Marian Anderson, Lawrence Tibbett and Kate Smith.

BY GEORGE ROSS METROPOLITAN BARTITONE NEW YORK, June 7—Grizzled showmen along Broadway were amused—as they scanned the vaudeville list the First Lady made up for the entertainment of King George and Queen Elizabeth, it is the queerest variety they saw, since the hedge-podge bills at the old Orphanum. "My daughter!" stuttered the police captain. "Buying fifth like that!" All the youngsters can if they want to, dad. Of course if your men confiscated them and warned the dealers, but then you're busy with the Slavon gang and the Third National and the Karpis case... and when women, mothers of my classmates, asked you to clean up the newstands from the police captain. His arms full of magazines, he thumped down to the furnace. Next day the newstands of the town saw a cleanup of drug stores and newstands remembered for many a long day.

Sailing to England to join 7,000 other girls from all parts of the world in a mass calisthenics display in Wembley Stadium on June 10, these members of the Canadian Women's League of Health and Beauty are seen on the deck of the Canadian Pacific liner Duchess of Athol, in which they left Montreal. Travelling with some 46 other Canadian members of the League these young ladies will take part in the Empire Pageant of Health and Beauty, then will break up for European visits of various lengths, and return individually. Seen above are, left to right, back row, Live-Ellen Lockebard, Ottawa; Hazel Thomas, Ruth Moorbridge, Muriel Morris, Daisy Henshaw and Edith Moore, of Montreal; front row, Elsie Morgan, Mabel Shufelt and Louise Ballock, Montreal, and Fleur-ette Drouin, Ottawa.
