tioned in the early Sixteenth Century... By its use, Elizabethan manners could tell the time and set their courses by the stars. Until it was found at Oxford it had been thought that the finest example of the English-made astrolabe was one made by Humphrey Cole in 1575.

London—Queen Elizabeth's Coronation Day was chosen by the stars. Just as her mariners were guided by them, so the great Queen probably sought wisdom from her astrologer in determining the destiny of Tudor England.

Provision Made For Marketing Act

OTTAWA, Jan. 19—(CP)—Provision is made in the main estimate tabled in the House of Commons yesterday for administration of both the unemployment and social insurance act and National Products Marketing Act, both of which were found unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of Canada and are now awaiting decision of the judicial committee of the Privy Council. For the marketing act the vote is $108,000 and for the employment insurance act $40,000. The former vote is unchanged from last year and the latter is $3,000 less. No new schemes were referred into under the marketing act since the appeal to the courts. The Employment Insurance Commission never got down to actual work and the personnel has been occupied with the National Employment Commission. and although he had complained of not feeling well it was thought that his condition was serious but in the morning he took a turn for the worse and passed away. Scout News and Notices. Ottawa, January 19—(CP)—The fatal good turn of Wolf Cub, or Junior Scout in attempting to remove a broken high-tension wire from a park pathway, and the stunning and drowning by a Boy Scout of a bear that attempted to climb to get the rowboat safely out of the water, were featured today at Dominion headquarters of the Boy Scouts Association.

The act which won a posthumous award for Wolf Cub Gordon Smith of Windsor, Ont., was the attempt of the 10-year-old boy to remove a high-tension wire which he found lying in the path during a hike through Point Pelee National Park after a storm. Apparently in an attempt to get the rowboat safely out of the way for other persons, the boy lifted it with a stick, when the wire slipped off the stick and struck his hand, killing him instantly. The adventure with the bear occurred to King's Scout Kenneth Keely 16, of Bala, Ont. While rowing with his 10-year-old sister across a Lake Muskoka Bay last summer, they approached what appeared to be a party-sunken floating log. As they drew near the log suddenly became a bear, and headed rapidly for the boat. Before the boy could pull away the bear reached them and got his paws on the gunwale.

In the bottom of the boat was the handle of a screw jack that had been used in raising a cottage. While balancing the boat against the bear's weight, Scout Keely caught up the iron bar and pounded the bear over the head. The animal fell back, and before it sank he grasped it by the back of the neck and shoved it beneath the water "until the bubbles stopped coming up." He then succeeded in pulling the bear into the boat and got it ashore. TWO BOYS RESCUE MAN. The life saving award cases included the rescue of a six-foot man weighing 175 pounds by two boys of 11 and 12 years respectively, Watson Rowatt and Scout Dunsmore McClatchie of Hummington, Que. when the man sank in a deep hole in the Chateaugay River at the Powerscourt. The boys grasped him by the straps of his bathing suit, got him into shallow water over a flat rock and there kept his head above water until help came. Other water rescue cases included: The rescue of another boy, non-swimmer, who had fallen from a freight vessel lying in the Thames River, by Scouts John Carrick, Louis Cowan and Douglas Campbell, each aged 13 of Chatham, Ont. The rescue of a party of three young men and two young women who were salubred and capsized off Rondeau Park in Lake Erie, by Rover Scout E. E. Kilby, 18, and Rover Squire W. H. Kilby, 16 of Chatham, Ont. A row across Hamilton Bay in heavy weather and the rescue of a man whose sailboat had overturned, by Scout William Menzer, 15 of Hamilton. The diving rescue, fully clothed, of 10-year-old boy who had fallen from a dock and appeared, by Scouts Harold Trapp, 14 and Austin Scott, 15, of Parr Sound, Ont. The rescue from the Niagara River near Queenston, Ont., of a 15-year-old girl a poor swimmer, who was being carried away in the strong river current, by Scout L. G. Bowman, 17, of Niagara Falls.

A CHANGE OF FOOD FOR THE CONVALESCENT

To vary the dishes for the convalescent in a small household and to make them less insipid is not always easy. Water-thin water biscuits are a change from toast. Soup may be served as a jelly in a deep cup. Fish may not, as a rule, be offered fried, but grilled lightly it is often permitted. Poached fish is tasty. The fillet is put in a little stock and cooked in the oven under waxed paper. When cooked it is drained and placed on a moist omelet, which is folded over instead of sauce made with fat, one may be made of hot milk poured over yolks of eggs, stirred in a double saucepan till as thick as cream and seasoned with herbs. This may be added to fish or cauliflower, but sauce should not be poured over invalids' food, for it makes it sodden. It should be served separately in a little lipped jug. A baby's plate whose edges curve inwards is always useful for hot meals which must be liquid, and the housewife will find that the inconceivable expense of a bed tray is well worth while. Another change is provided by delicate sandwiches. Beef is sustaining, and is very digestible if, for instance, round steak is stewed in stock till tender, pounded and passed twice through the mincer, flavored with a little sauce, and then used in thin white bread and butter. It may be stored in a jar under melted butter.

As a rendezvous for Deep Sea Scouts, As a Hostel for Overseas Scouts who may from time to time be passing through London, and in particular for those who are sons or descendants of British settlers overseas. Funds to finance the project were presented the Scout Association shortly before their death by the late Lady Houston.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD WHEEL PICTURES

The motion of the ferris wheel was stopped at 1/100 second at f.16. The exposure of the still locomotive wheel was 1/10 second at f.16. The wheel of the barrow was taken at f.8, exposure 1/25 second, after a long study of lights and shadows and much changing of camera position.

"The world is a wheel." WHEELS—man's first invention—make photographic subjects of absorbing interest. There is a lot of fun in making a hobby of wheel pictures. There are so many kinds of wheels—wagon wheels, spinning wheels, automobile wheels, locomotive wheels, water wheels, steering wheels, cog wheels and the thousand and one other sorts and sizes used in machinery. And every one of them, when pictured in a photograph, tells some kind of story of human interest. Pictures of wheels call for close-ups. They should fill the viewfinder. Often when the impression of size and strength is desirable, the print may be trimmed so that the wheel crowds the picture space to the limit. When wheels are in revolution, don't think you should always use a fast shutter speed. Blurred spokes in the photograph will give the sense of motion just as they do to the eye. Try some pictures of this intriguing subject; and may the wheel of fortune favor you. JOHN VAN GUILDER.

Marrying Themselves

Only a few days after two New York workers were married by contract minister White Woodruff and Miss Nancy Irvin McAfee escaped the usual nuptial pomp by marrying themselves without aid of a minister in the old C after tradition in Purchase, N. Y. The bridegroom is shown placing his ring on his bride's finger during the simple ceremony. The minister said the marriage was in the presence of two guests who were just as Miss McAfee's great-grandmother had done more than 100 years ago.
