Salt Rheum

You may call it eczema, tetter or milk crust. But no matter what you call it, this skin disease which comes in patches that burn, itch, discharge a watery matter, dry and scale, owes its existence to the presence of humors in the system. It will continue to exist, annoy, and perhaps agonize, as long as these humors remain. It is always radically and permanently cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla which expels all humors, and is positively unequalled for all cutaneous eruptions.

Mr. McDonald's guests arrived on Friday from Boston. This is the third season they have spent in Tracadie and seem to be more pleased every year with the many attractions that Tracadie and vicinity has to offer.

Last Sunday at the Hotel Acadia, Grand Tracadie Beach, was observed by a well attended service held in the Music Room, conducted by Rev. Mr. Bradner, Assistant Rector of the Church of Ascension, Fifth Avenue, New York, who gave a highly instructive and very interesting talk on the Grandness of Human Life as a whole. After the service a collection was made for the P. E. Island Hospital.

THE C. A. A. intend holding Electric Light Sports on their grounds, Thursday evening next. The list of events will be one hundred yards and half mile runs, quarter mile run open to firemen who have not won a first or second place this season, half, one and three mile bicycle races, one mile bicycle novice and another event yet to be decided on. All events are scratch and a time limit will be placed on the one and three mile bicycle races. Cameron the crack Montague rider, Doyle and B. Brown of the Abegweits, P. Brown of the C. B. C. together with Wonnocott and Gaudet, should make a struggle well worth seeing in the bicycle events, while McMillan, Ritchie, Duffy, Donahoe and others, will fight for supremacy in the runs. The quarter mile run open to the firemen, should be well filled as it is almost on the eve of their departure for Halifax. The Fourth Regiment Band will be in attendance.

It is not often that a Charlottetown congregation is moved to smiles, much less to laughter during the delivery of a sermon, but this did happen last Sunday in one of the most orderly and devout of our City Churches. The preacher in a discourse from the text, "She hath done what she could" was for the moment illustrating what might be done in trying to recall the number of our blessings, and so stimulating our gratitude. The deeply interested auditory listened closely while the preacher related the story of a good old sister, the delight of her pastor, who was always cheerful and thankful when she took part in the prayer and social meetings. Things were going prosperously with her then. After a time her husband died. When the first sharpness of her grief had passed and she again took part in the service she said she was thankful that her children and her home were still left her. The children afterward died but she gave testimony of thankfulness that she had yet a home. Then her house was burned and people wondered what ground of thankfulness she would now record. At the next meeting she rose, cheerful as before and among other things said "she felt so thankful that the one tooth she had left in her upper jaw exactly matched the only one left in her lower jaw." Thus she did what she could in the way of thankfulness. But the story was almost too much for the gravity of Zion Church. First a little ripple of smiles ran round the congregation. A moment later and the smile had become audible. It was quickly suppressed, but broke out again a little later, notwithstanding that each "did what she could" so to repress it.

The follow guests are enjoying the cool breezes at Tracadie Beach at the Acadia: Mr. Chas. P. Orr, wife and family, Pittsburg; Miss Hunt and Miss Stevenson Quebec; Mr. and Mrs. Walsh, Mr. C. Walsh, Miss Walsh, Montreal; Mr. Trowbridge, Miss Trowbridge, Mrs. Trowbridge New Haven; Judge and Mrs. Ampt, Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs. Newton, Clinton, Mass; Mrs. Cary McCormac, the Misses Glasgow, Miss Coleman, Richmond, Va., Mr. and Mrs. Churchill, Miss A. ### A Gander in the Hail Storm.

Very valorous sometimes, especially when in defence of his brood, is the plain, old-fashioned gander. Children of smaller growth have learned to beware when he threatens, and even those of older years have been known to fly from his onslaughts at such a time. Way down in Maine it is said that when the country youth desires to accompany his best girl to her home he sometimes phrases his request in the form of asking permission to "see her past the gander." With this kind of a terrible danger before her mind no prudent young woman was ever known to refuse an escort. But this veracious history has nothing further to do with the prohibition State or its young men and maidens, but with a plain old-fashioned Prince Edward Island gander as first above written. He was a proud old bird and valorous too, albeit a little given to bragging to his wife when he had driven away a boy, a cow, or mayhap a pig from too close proximity to his growing brood. His place of abode was at a farm on the Union Road and the date was Saturday forenoon last. The flock were apparently happy and were feeding and chattering away with no apparent dread of such dangerous seasons as Thanksgiving Day or Christmas. Just then a shower of stones—hailstones they were and big ones at that, driven by the wind, struck into the midst of the flock and scattered them in fright. Now or never was the time for the valiant gander to show of what stuff he was made, and he seemed equal to the occasion. While wife and children fled squawling, he turned to face the foe, with mandibles and wings extended wide. His spirit was worthy of old Ajax when he defied the lightning. But alas, for heroic courage against fearful odds! He had barely turned when a hailstone of unusual size hit him on the top of the head. It had fallen perhaps a half mile and was going swiftly. It knocked him out on the first round, and when he gathered himself up it was not to renew the fight but to join in the general rush for shelter. THE GUARDIAN informant tells that the time made by that old gander in his retreat was not excelled by Dewet in his palmist days. He has since been in a subdued and quiet frame of mind, apparently trying to make out what it was that hit him.
