LAXA-LIVER PILLS

Here's how the people speak of them: "I had an attack of Liver Trouble and Indigestion and decided to try Laxa-Liver Pills, and found them to be the best remedy I ever used, and their effects are lasting."

MRS. C. GAMES,
Hazeldean, Ont.

Laxa-Liver Pills work while you sleep without a gripe, make you better in the morning.

The "Albert" Toilet Soap Co's Baby's Own Soap makes youngsters, clean, sweet, and fresh.

It keeps their delicate skins in good order.

Made entirely from vegetable fats, it is an emollient as well as a cleanser, and is as useful on a lady's toilet as in the nursery.

Faintly but exquisitely aromatic.

Beware of imitations.

THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1900.

RAND AND THE MICMACS.

A neat little volume of eighty odd pages by Jeremiah S. Clark, B. A. recalls the life and abundant labors of Dr. Silas Tertius Rand, the late well-known missionary to the Indians of the Maritime Provinces. A singularly life-like portrait forms of the frontispiece of the book. The introduction is by Rev. Dr. Murray, editor of the Presbyterian Witness of Halifax.

More than fifty years ago Dr. Rand devoted himself to missionary work among the Indians, and in the prosecution of his tireless labors lived for some years in Charlottetown. With great labor he learned the Micmac language and reduced it for the first time to written form, prepared and published a Micmac grammar and dictionary; he translated into that language the New Testament, the Psalms and Genesis; he tramped ceaselessly from settlement to settlement, sharing to the fullest extent the wretchedness of the Indian life and sought to make plain to them the relations of man to God and the great truths of the Gospel Message. "He met," says his biographer, "discouragement in every form; he received scant sympathy from his fellow Christians, but he lived to rejoice in the work that brought fulness of life to a number of the people, and laid a broad foundation for future work before he answered the summons that called him home to his reward."

Dr. Rand was a singularly earnest, devout and able man. He not only learned the Micmac language and became thoroughly acquainted with its structure, but also made himself acquainted with Latin, Greek, Hebrew and other languages. Mr. Clark's volume gives glimpses, too, of his literary labors, among which are The Dying Indian's Dream, a poem, and a number of well-known hymns and psalms translated into Latin. Not the least interesting portion of the volume is the chapter on Micmac mythology, of which Dr. Rand had been a close student. We cannot refrain from giving an extract:

At last Glooscap was disgusted with the treachery of the foreigners, and saddened by the weakness of his own people; so, by way of giving vent to his righteous indignation, he turned his kettle upside down and transformed his two dogs into rocks, the guardians of Blomidon, still looking westward awaiting his return. Then the Great Snowy Owl retreated into the depths of the forest, where his mournful cry is often heard as he wails again and again: "Koo-koo-skoo,—I am so sorry." The lordly Glooscap sailed away to the land of the setting sun on Fundy's ebbing tide as it returned again to the ocean; there he makes his home in the Acadie of the blessed, until the faithless interlopers have either changed their barbarian habits or gone to their own place. When all shall have learned to honour Truth he will return and usher in the millennium amidst the wildest rejoicing of the elements.

Mr, Clark's volume is of interest as recalling the abundant labors of a tireless and devout man, engaged for half a century in Protestant missionary work in a most neglected home field; it will be of no little value to the philologist, and is well calculated to promote further Christian interest in and sympathy for the descendants of the race which once were the sole owners and occupants of a large section of eastern Canada.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS AHEAD

For many decades past there have been recurring periods of commercial expansion and depression, commonly spoken of as "good times" and "hard times" respectively. The present is a period of exceptionally good times in the commercial and industrial world and all are naturally desirous that the term shall continue as long as may be. Just now those on the financial watch-tower see signs of promise far ahead. Henry Clews in his latest circular, under date of New York, March 31, says:—

The entire world is entering upon an era of commercial progression and prosperity that will far surpass all present records. National conquests will be made henceforth by the weapons of commerce rather than by those of war. The great increase in the gold product of the world is the moving power, and the faster it is brought up from the bowels of the earth the greater will be the impetus of business ventures and developments. The future will be brilliant in inventions and discoveries and in the advancement of gigantic business enterprises without limit as to sphere. We are to witness a race of mankind for supremacy in the world's markets The "open door" will be the policy of all the great powers. The completion of the Trans-Siberian Railway points to the development of the heretofore almost unknown resources of Russia. Upon the ending of the Transvaal war we shall see a tremendous sweep of civilization into Africa, which means the opening up of its fabulous resources. Who can gainsay that the results will be marvelous? There is not a corner of the globe where they will not be felt. Such are the conditions prevailing in this closing year af a wonderful century. The prospect for the coming one is indeed dazzling.

Church Service At Sea.

Rev. W. J. Cox, Anglican Chaplain to the Canadians in South Africa, writes an interesting letter from Cape Town, describing scenes on the trooper Laurentian. He says:—The Sunday services are fine. Holy Communion at 8.30, with an old box covered with a Union Jack for an altar. At 10.30 the parade service takes place, and I never saw anything finer. They rig up a sort of reading desk covered with flags. The singing is glorious. I never heard the like. For accompaniment we have an autoharp, two violins and two banjos, while the Sergeant Major stands out and beats time with his whip. At 6.15 there is a voluntary service, just a lesson, few collects, lots of hymns and a short address. Last Sunday night they sang for two hours after it, and, as one of the officers said to me, "Fellows who can sing like that, all those old-fashioned hymns they learned at their mothers' knee, will make trouble for some one when they get into action." Two-thirds of the contingent are Englishmen and a very large majority are churchmen.

"One Good Turn Deserves Another."

It is so easy to go through life doing good and helping to make others happy. A lady who had been ill with a complication of troubles, having been thoroughly cured and now enjoying perfect health, felt it a duty to tell her friends that the specific that brought her back to health was Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Thus, after Hood's had served her well, she felt it deserved a good turn at her hands. Thousands tell the same story of blood purified and health restored. Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses merit peculiar to itself.

Sick Headache—"For a long time I was troubled with sick headaches. Different medicines failed to give me relief. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, my husband having been cured of salt rheum by it, and soon it made me feel like a new woman." MRS ROBERT MCAFEE, Deerhurst, Ont.

Impure Blood—"My wife suffered with pain and distress from an affection of the throat caused by impure blood. She was almost in despair when she turned to Hood's Sarsaparilla. Six bottles of this medicine completely cured her." JOHN WECKNAR, Galt, Ont.

Back Ache—"My mother had severe pains in her side and back. She was obliged to give up work. A friend persuaded her to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and soon she was able to do her work, free from pain and had a good appetite." MAGGIE MORGAN, Nasonworth, N. B.

No Strength—"My whole system was run down. I was weak and could hardly get around to do my work. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and after using five bottles I found that my strength had returned and appetite much improved." MRS KELLEY, 313 Dufferin Street, Toronto. Ont.

Nerve Food—"My wife was stricken with nervous prostration. She suffered from headaches. She became weak, low-spirited and her appetite was poor. I am glad to state that Hood's Sarsaparilla has completely cured her of all her ailments." G. BELLAMY, 321 Hannah St., Hamilton, Ont.
