Expect Decision On Seat Soon

OTTAWA, June 27 (CP) — Prime Minister Mackenzie King, returning here from San Francisco today, said he had made no decision yet on a seat for Parliament but he expected to do so "very soon."

For the next few days, in addition to resuming his regular work, the Prime Minister's time will be partly occupied with meeting distinguished visitors, the first of whom, Viscount Cranborne, arrived today. Tomorrow Prime Minister Bennett of South Africa arrives for a short visit.

Lord Cranborne, Dominions Secretary in the British Cabinet, was one of the British delegates at the San Francisco conference.

Mr. King looked tired after his long nonstop flight from San Francisco but said the trip was perfect, accompanied by his Justice Minister St. Laurent, who shared the honor of signing the new United Nations charter for Canada.

Warwick F. O'Hannan, Canadian Ambassador to Chile, one of the advisers of the Canadian delegation at San Francisco, and Arnold Heney, clerk of the Privy Council.

Stettinius, Jr., as Secretary of State, and was appointing him as American representative on the Post-War Security Council and chairman of the United States delegation in its general assembly.

The President said he would announce his new Secretary of State Monday or Tuesday, probably Tuesday, but laughed off attempts of reporters to have him verify reports he had named Stettinius, former Director of War Mobilization, in mind for the post.

At one point, the President said the man he would name was not now in Government, a description which would fit Mr. Stettinius.

Turks Excited Over Red Views On Dardanelles

ANKARA, June 27 (AP) — Turkish quarters believed today that Foreign Minister Hsian Saka soon may confer in London with British leaders to determine the official Anglo-American attitude toward reports that Russia is seeking advantages in the Dardanelles.

Doubt and anxiety have stirred Turkey during the last 48 hours as a result of reports that Russia has sought a modification of the Montreux convention which gave Turkey control of the strategic straits between the Black Sea and the Mediterranean.

In Moscow the Soviet Army newspaper Red Star on Wednesday accused Turkey of carrying on a policy favorable to Fascism during the war. Red Star's international commentator, I. Yermachev, urged Turkey to behave with more decorous modesty when discussing world affairs.

The best opinion in Ankara was that nothing concrete was likely to develop before the forthcoming "Big Three" meeting. But the Turks were believed preparing to sound out Britain and the United States for their reaction, and it was expected that Saka would stop off in London for talks with Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden while en route home from the San Francisco conference.

While official quarters remained silent, it is possible to state on reliable authority that the question of changes in the Montreux convention arose during discussions preliminary to the negotiation of a Turkish-Soviet pact of friendship and non-aggression.

The Russians also were said to have raised the question of the proprietorship of the northeastern Turkish province of Kars, a former Russian territory.

It was emphasized in this disturbed capital that no Russian demands as such have been made to the Turks. The questions were said to have been merely interjected into the general discussions of the framework within which the new Turkish-Soviet pact will take shape.
