War Veteran Gives Interesting Address

Last night in the Holy Name Hall Mr. Frank O'Neill gave a very interesting address on his army experiences as a Knights of Columbus supervisor. The address was thoroughly enjoyed by a very large audience. At the conclusion of this talk a unanimous vote of thanks was moved by Col. Leo F. McDonald, seconded by Mr. Frank Shanahan, supported by all present and conveyed to the speaker by the chairman, R. A. MacDonald.

Two very fine films were shown, one through the courtesy of the National Film Board on developing the Peace River district and the other "We Too Receive" from an actual experience in the Southwest Pacific.

Mr. Leo McIsaac and Mr. Gerald Murtagh attended to the showing of the films.

The program was sponsored by the Knights of Columbus.

storey Insurance Exchange building across the street from the scene und in the Board of Trade building about a block away.

Corrigan estimated that destruction of the building and its contents would entail a loss of $1,000,000. The building included a restaurant on the first floor. The second and third floor were reported unoccupied.

Many of the injured were walking or riding in automobiles near the scene, or were near windows of nearby buildings and were cut by flying glass.

Most of the injured were taken to St. Luke's Hospital, where two died shortly after the blast.

Tremendous Force

Wreckage was thrown large distances by the force of the blast. Huge concrete slabs, apparently from the sidewalk, were blown on to the elevated structure, some 15 feet above the ground.

Red Cross workers treated between 20 and 30 persons at the scene, and searched buildings in the vicinity seeking injured victims.

Dead at St. Luke's Hospital was Harry Koons, Ft. Wayne, Ind., and an unidentified woman whose clothing had been torn from her body.

The blast occurred at about 12:15 p.m. CST.

P. E. ISLAND MEMBERS

reopen the entire ferry rate question on the highest levels.

Whether or not the Minister will agree is a matter of conjecture, but it is significant that last week in the Commons he voiced willingness to make the annual report of the Canadian National Railways available to the Board of Transport Commissioners at an early date and before it is tabled in the Commons.

James Lester Douglas, Liberal member for Queen's was latterly considering making representations in the House on behalf of the P. E. I. potato industry. In view however, of the favourable conditions brought about by the new British contract these representations will no longer be necessary.

Surprise was expressed by Prince Edward Island members that their Province has no representative on the most recent committee of the House. This is the select committee on control and disposition of canteen funds accumulated throughout the war years.

This is the second important committee of the House this year on which the Island Province has no spokesman, the first being the Committee on Redistribution. It is explained however, that even non-members of these committees have the right to attend their sessions and subject to the sanction of the chairmen, question witnesses.

A former P. E. Islander, W. J. Callaghan, commissioner of tariff, Department of Fihance sailed for Britain yesterday with the Canadian delegation to take part in the international trade and employment conference at Geneva. Prior to the Geneva meet, Mr. Callaghan and his colleagues will take part in the preliminary British Commonwealth trade parley in London.

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

The service in Trinity Church on Sunday morning was conducted by the Minister who spoke on the meaning of Lent and said that while many interpretations had been given to this period in the Church calendar, some of which have long since been surpassed by others, yet the great period remains as a special opportunity for men and women to give new thought and devotion to Christ who is the center of all Christian devotion. In seeking to bring the minds of the people to concentrate upon one important aspect of the Lenten season, the Minister used those words in Mark's gospel Chapter 9, verses 36 and 37 where it is recorded that Jesus took a little child and set him in the midst of his disciples and endeavored through that child to make him recognize their duty to God and one another.

The Choir sang the anthem "Seek Ye The Lord".....Roberts with Mr. Harvey McPherson taking the solo part.

In the evening, the Minister chose as the subject of his sermon "Laying Foundations".

The anthem "O Ye that Love the Lord".....S. Coleridge-Taylor.

Meet Challenge Of Home Problems, Red Cross Program

TORONTO, Mar. 2 — Monday will see the opening of an appeal across Canada for $5,000,000 for the Canadian Red Cross Society's peacetime work in the Dominion, Arthur L. Bishop, Chairman of the Society's National Executive Committee, said Saturday.

"The people of Canada did a magnificent job in supporting the wartime work of the Red Cross," said Mr. Bishop. "We confidently expect them to rally to the cause of our peacetime program.

"This is a vital campaign, as it will set the scale of Red Cross work for years to come. We all realize that peace is more important than war and the peacetime work of the Canadian Red Cross will be of more real and lasting value to the people than were our war activities.

"Before the war, the Canadian Red Cross was engaged on a program of developing home services. When hostilities came, the Society put its major effort into war work. The peacetime activities were continued but the expansion plans were deferred.

"The time has now arrived to throw the great organization and the war-ripened experience of the Canadian Red Cross into peacetime humanitarian undertakings at home here in Canada.

Mrs. Dick Spends Quiet Day After Week In Court

HAMILTON, March 2 — (CP) — Mrs. Evelyn Dick, fighting for her life now during her second trial on a charge of the torso murder of her husband last March, had a day off today from a solid week of Ontario Supreme Court sittings.

Six days of morning and afternoon sittings left her looking wan and tired after hearing testimony from 33 witnesses.

By Wednesday, possibly, she will know whether her fight has been won or lost in this case which grew from the finding of the torso of John Dick on Hamilton Mountain last March 16.

A verdict in her case will pave the way for trial of her father, Donald MacLean and her friend, William Bohozuk, both of whom also are charged with the slaying and dismemberment of the 40-year-old street car driver.

Most of Saturday was taken up with a voir dire during which Chief Justice J. C. McRuer heard certain testimony in the absence of the jury to decide on its admissibility as evidence. His ruling will probably come Monday.

Mrs. Dick, a good looking dark-haired woman sat through proceedings in a trim, grey fur coat, taking occasional notes. While she seemed tired she showed by no expression how she felt about things.

HEAVY STORMSTORMS

weather was fine and clear with a high mark around Winnipeg of 16 above zero and only the occasional snowflurry.

All southern Alberta was covered with several inches of snow, the fall reaching eight inches at Lethbridge with a cold 10-mile wind from the northeast.

British Columbia and the Maritimes had much the same March weather—overcast skies and comparatively mild. On the Pacific coast temperatures soared into the 40's Sunday but it was colder with snowflurries in northern British Columbia.

South African War Veterans Attend Church Services

The veterans of the South African War paraded to Trinity United Church on Sunday morning, March 2nd, in memory of their comrades of that struggle and particularly in memory of the two from Charlottetown who died at the battle of Paardeberg—Roland D. Taylor, who was killed on February 18, 1900, and Alfred Riggs, who was killed on February 27, 1900.

The number of living South African veterans is becoming less each year yet there still remains in Prince Edward Island nine men who participated in the battle of Paardeberg and it seems very fitting that people should pause for a moment to remember the sacrifices of that day.

Describes Visit To King's County

We motor out of Charlottetown by way of the Hillsboro Bridge, and we are on the splendid paved highway leading to Montague. The first settlement we pass through is Southport, just across the harbor from Charlottetown, then a mile further on is a school district known as the Cross Roads, and on a short distance we descend Tea Hill, from the brow of which you look down on one of the province's finest scenic views. The next communities are Alexandria and Pownal where you are bound to admire the excellent hillside farms which produce large crops of potatoes, hay and grain.

A school house on our right tells us that we are in Mt. Mellick, a few minutes later we are rounding the right angle turn at Cherry Valley. A few more miles and we cross the road at Millview, thence to Vernon River which is also on the railroad, and here we slow up to gaze at St. Joachim's Roman Catholic Church, a fine structure of stone whose steeple can be seen for miles around the surrounding country. Summerville, Alberry Plains and New Perth follow and then we enter the town of Montague, famous for its progressiveness and fine homes.

We have now travelled through thirty miles of continuous farming country but we keep on right through Montague, and after traversing about three miles over a good gravelled road, now covered with snow, we enter the picturesque village of Lower Montague. We stop here where the Montague River empties into Georgetown Harbor, one of the finest harbors in the Maritimes. Across the water or the ice at this time of the year, we can see the town of Georgetown. A ferry operates between these two points and on several occasions we have enjoyed this short but delightful sail.

Shipping Point

We start our round of calls by entering the large up to date store of Raymond Poole's. John Landrigan escorts us into the office where we discuss last year's potato crop, prices, etc.

We learn that some potatoes are shipped from here by schooner. In one part of the store, Parker Aitken, a former member of the R. C. A. F., is serving a customer while on the opposite side Thelma Coffin is endeavoring to satisfy the needs of another customer. A call is made at the local school where we find Rita White of Georgetown, teaching her third term. There are about forty pupils in attendance. Nearby is the United Church, an attractively designed building which is served by the Rev. Mr. Adams of Montague. Another fine building is the canning factory which is operated by James Hewitt and his son Horace. It was closed down at the time of our visit but in the Spring some thirty hands are employed here canning fish.

We called at the home of William Edmunds and although he was not around, we had quite a chat with Mrs. Edmunds. We met George Annear and his son Harold, well known farmers around these parts, and we interrupted Stephen Hicken in the middle of his dinner.

We saw Robert Machon, a plumber by trade; Roy Aitkens, a potato inspector; Ralph Graham, a butcher, and Ralph MacDonald, a comparative newcomer to the village whose good wife we met one day last summer when we stopped at Stephen Reynold's farm in Gaspereaux. In our travels we came across two residents who are engaged in fishing for a livelihood, in the persons of Eli Vatcher and Thomas Boudreau.

We had the pleasure of visiting many fine farms and making the acquaintance of several members of the household. There was Charles MacFarlane, Archie Wright, Albert Ellsworth, Wall Aitken, Louis Wright, George Yeo and Billy Thompson who owns that well known property, formerly occupied by Mrs. Herb Poole. For many years Mrs. Poole's place was famous for its excellent meals. Then there were the three Ross families, all farmers, D. P., Harvey and Austin. Thus is the story of a pleasant visit to the neighborly and progressive people of Lower Montague.

Prospect Of Artificial Unit For P. E. I.

Some thirty cattle breeders of Charlottetown and vicinity, representing the Ayrshire, Holstein, Guernsey, Jersey and Shorthorn breeds, met on Wednesday last in the Department of Agriculture to discuss with Mr. Davies of the Dominion Department at Ottawa a proposal to institute an artificial insemination unit here consisting of ten bulls of the above breeds.

Mr. Robert Chappell of York was appointed chairman and Mr. R R Bell, K.C., secretary.

The meeting was addressed at some length by Mr. Davies. He stated that the unit could handle, and to be successful, should serve some 3,500 cows and was for the benefit of both grade and registered animals. The Dominion lends assistance to the breeds in purchasing high class mates.

All present at the meeting strongly supported the move and it was decided to organize the school districts within a radius of ten miles of Charlottetown, as a start, to find out how many farmers would patronize the unit.

A Committee of five consisting of Messrs Heber MacPhail, Claude Lewis, Guy Rodd, Stirling Wood and Roland Easter, was appointed to be in charge of the organization.

Meetings are to be called forthwith in some seventy school districts where the subject will be explained and discussed and subcommittees appointed. If sufficient breeders sign up to patronize the unit, it is hoped to establish same in the early summer.

This is one of the most important undertakings as far as stock raisers and farmers are concerned, to be started in this Province, as artificial insemination is proving most successful in other countries and it gives every farmer the benefit of the best sires procurable in the different breeds. All cattle owners, whether with grade or registered stock, are asked to attend the meetings to be called shortly.

UNEMPLOYMENT HITS

in the little homes where families are skilled weavers. The islanders hear of urgent demands from home and overseas buyers for more Harris tweeds and they can do nothing.

Fishing Boats Gone

Often in the past the weaver who had no work for his loom went fishing for the Stornoway herrings found around the island's stormy coast and reputed to be without equal. But the sailors came back to find their boats fallen into disrepair during the war, or taken away for service with the navy.

European markets were reduced and Norwegian competition in the herring market increased. Coal for larger boats and gasoline and oil for smaller craft were more expensive.

They found some of the old industries like rock quarrying — small enough compared to those of the mainland in most cases—had either disappeared or been curtailed.

The islanders are not blind to modern services and want electric power, better bridges, improved harbors.

Government officials in Edinburgh and London promise consideration but they have similar demands from every part of the United Kingdom. Nevertheless, they have frequent reminders from Malcolm MacMillan, Labor member of Parliament for the western isles, who rises in the Commons time and again and pleads for the lone shieling, for the little boat and for the loom quiet in the corner.

FOOTBALL BOON

CAERPHILLY, Wales — (CP) — Mother of 10 children, Mrs. O. Brewer recently won £2,017 ($8,068), a share on a penny points football pool. Her husband, a coal miner, died eight years ago. Previous to that he had been unable to work for 10 years owing to ill-health.

Autobus And Truck In Collision; One Dead

MONTREAL, March 2— (CP)— One man was killed and "quite a few persons were injured" when a towing truck and an autobus said to be carrying about 40 passengers were involved in a collision near St. Jerome, in the Laurentians about 35 miles north of Montreal, Provincial Police reported tonight.

The accident came at the tail-end of a blizzard which tied up highway traffic and air travel to and from this district. Police said they did not have the name of the man killed in the crash. They said it was not possible to get ambulances through immediately to the scene of the crash because of the storm conditions.

Police said they believed that the bus was heading for Montreal when the accident happened. Earlier, approximately 100 automobiles carrying week-end visitors from the Laurentians to Montreal were reported stranded at Ste. Rose, 20 miles north of here.

Police Chief Charles Ouimet of Ste. Rose said that scores of the passengers from the automobiles, faced with the necessity of returning to work tomorrow morning, were leaving their machines and travelling the rest of the way to Montreal by train. Railway offices here reported that the storm had not affected service.

House To Discuss External Affairs

OTTAWA, March 1—(CP)— The House of Commons, finished for the time being with a long drawn-out discussion about wheat, turns Monday to different and more lively subjects—external affairs and the Throne Speech debate.

The external affairs discussion will arise when Gordon Graydon (PC—Peel) moves, as he has indicated, that the House adjourn its regular business to discuss Canada's submissions to the Big Four for a larger part in the drafting of the German and Austrian peace treaties.

When this subject has been talked out, the House will resume the Throne Speech debate, interrupted two weeks ago to allow consideration of urgent Government control legislation.

WEST HARTLEPOOL, England —(CP)—Owners of the 7,318-ton Empire Eddystone have applied to the Ministry of Transport, former owner of the vessel, for permission to change its name to Winston Churchill.

British Miners Look For Income Tax Cut

LONDON, March 2—(CP)—Hugh Dalton says he cannot anticipate his April budget but Whitehall is willing to bet that miners and other essential workers will receive taxation concessions to encourage production.

Dalton, Chancellor of the Exchequer in the Labor Government, can afford to make these concessions. His revenues are buoyant enough to take the shock of the fuel crisis and the production cut that resulted without eliminating the prospect of taxation reductions. For the inevitable delayed action losses due to the industrial shutdown during the crisis, Dalton probably will see an off-set in the form of new taxation in other fields such as a tax on betting which has been predicted in many quarters.

Box Car Situation Continues To Be Cause For Worry

WINNIPEG, March 2 — (CP) — The new week opened with the box car supply situation insofar as grain shipments to both west coast and lakehead terminals were concerned still a cause of worry.

Assistant Chief Commissioner W.C. McNamara of the Canadian Wheat Board said in a week-end interview here that while there had been some improvement noted lately in the supply of box cars for the movement of grain the situation was still far from satisfactory.

It was causing particular concern at the west coast, where shipping sources said several British ships from the Orient, originally bound for Vancouver, had been diverted to other ports because of the grain shortage in Vancouver and New Westminster terminals.

The 240 car minimum daily quota for grain movements from Prairie points to the west coast had never been met since the quota was established Feb. 15, Mr. McNamara said, the daily run averaging 100 cars short.
