Our Service
A thoroughly satisfactory pair of glasses involves a careful examination, accurate grinding of the lenses, selecting the mounting best adapted to the wearer's features and correctly adjusting the completed glasses to his face.
Because we give experienced attention to all these points our glasses, in addition to giving distinct vision, fit securely and comfortably, and are becoming to the wearer.

Dress up Your Circular Letters--
You would not think of sending a shabbily dressed, dirty-faced boy to your valued customers to act as your dignified representative.
It is even more unbusinesslike to address an ordinary printed circular letter bearing a message to your customers, because it is a reflection on their better judgment.
Every letter you send out should be either typewritten or printed by the Multigraph Process, (and you can't tell one from the other.)
A letter produced by the Multigraph Printing Service is identical to typewriting in every respect. It is printed from moveable type, printed through a ribbon making the appearance and effect of the finished product the same.
There is nothing more effective than a direct personal letter to your customers. This letter can be produced the Multigraph Way at a very nominal cost. You can have a hundred printed in ten thousand, as you wish. The last copy will be as legible as the first.
Can be printed in most any size or color.
Let us tell you more about it.

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

If Cross, feverish or bilious give "California Syrup of Figs."

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given. If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that it's little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you will have a well, playful child again.
Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's stomach and bowels and sweeten the stomach and taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.
Beware of counterfeit syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup."

Dr. Wilson's HERBINE BITTERS

ABOUT FURS
Points About the Favorite Pelts This Season
At present sealskin was almost anything originally. Muskrats and rabbit skins are mostly used. These substitutes have not undergone as elaborate and disquieting a process as the real seal, which is first of all plucked, the coarse hair being entirely removed to show the soft fur underneath. But even after this must be dyed.
So there is no such thing as natural sealskin, except the hairy silver pelt which forms a handsome motorcoat usually of some few years' standing. Ermine is the favorite fur and in sets and trimmings may be worn on promenade. For evening there are long armine cloaks, fur, and in Chincheilla, also costing huge sums is another fur which is likely to be unbecoming to certain women. Several furs imitate it from a distance, and oppossum is in something the same coloring.
Skunk is a very useful and becoming fur and serves in a thousand ways, being as much favored for trimmings as it is for sets. It is the general choice for collar and cuffs and trim, profusely many a "Hudson bay seal" coat.
In novelties long black monkey is a Paris fad for trimming dresses. This long fur appears in numerous ways, but as a fringe on evening gowns it is most conspicuous.
Fox sets are fairly classic.
Silver fox is one of the handsomest fashions a magnificent choice, but it is a rather heavy fur, a good sized set being somewhat weighty.
Russian chinchilla, cream and brown makes a handsome set. The long skin and the muff are made up in the mode and most approved for sable sets.
The beauty and richness of furs are indeed a delight.

The following letter was received a few days ago by his sister from Mr. Alex. McKinnon, son of Mr. D. C. McKinnon, New Annapolis, who left the Island with the 105th Battalion, and was one of the first draft from that battalion being attached to the 25th Battalion, and has been in the trenches since the first of December: France.

Dear sister,—Just a few lines to let you know that I am quite well and getting along fine. Hoping this will find you enjoying the same blessing. I received the box from the Women's Institute today. Gee, that was some cake, was it you who baked it? It was as good as when it was made. Thanks very much for it, and you will have to thank the other ladies who were so kind as to think of me. I have not the time to write to them just at present, but will try and drop them a line as soon as possible. I had a letter from Jack today; he also sent me some tobacco. I hope I will have enough coming to keep me smoking a pipe for a while, for I am sick of cigarettes. That was a fancy box of stationery that was in the Institute box. Who sent it? You can imagine what cheer it brings to a fellow to receive a box from home, some day in the near future I hope to be able to tell you some things which I cannot now. I think a few more months will see an end to this war, I have not got the box you sent from home at Xmas yet. Well, I must stop now, write soon and often, don't be waiting for me to answer every letter, for I don't have much time. Be sure and thank the ladies of the Women's Institute for me, and give them my best wishes.

FRENCH DENOUNCE GERMAN DEVASTATIONS
PARIS, April 3.—The senate yesterday showed its wrath at the devastations in Northern France by voting a resolution denouncing to be the civilized world the acts of Germans and demanding that the authors be punished and resolving to continue the war until German imperialism and militarism are definitely crushed. The resolution was prepared by Senator Henri Cheron, member of the committee on war damages when visited the evacuated region in the Somme after the recent retreat. His speech on the resolution, as well as one by Rene Viviani, minister of justice, brought repeated and prolonged applause and the senate voted that the two addresses be posted in all public places in France.
Senator Cheron said that Germany as a signatory of The Hague convention, gave a guarantee against the abuse of person or property. This has been treated as a simple scrap of paper, he said, and it would be necessary to go back ages to find such acts of savagery and devastation as the committee found in Northern France. "We visited a number of cities and about fifty villages," said Senator Cheron.

"Everywhere it is pillage and systematic devastation. In a German cemetery we found a statue of peace. It is truly that in the same cemetery a tomb was violated, a coffin opened and emptied of its remains and filled with filth."
"At Chauny the Germans destroyed everything by fire and explosion. There remained nothing of this city except a suburb. In this suburb the Germans concentrated the inhabitants of a certain number of localities, and then bombarded the suburb, making a number of victims. For these crimes there must be triple punishment, that of international law, penal law and the victory of civilization."
"No one today would think of making peace with such criminals; any such transaction would be treason. The hatred against Germany today is the most holy of duties."

BRITISH GOVERNMENT AWAITS DISCUSSION OF PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.
(Special to The Guardian.)
LONDON, April 4.—Andrew Bonar Law, member of the British War Council and the Government spokesman in the Commons, today stated in the Lower House of Parliament that until Wilson's speech has been discussed by the United States Congress, the British Government was satisfied it would not be right to take official notice of it.

GERMANS WANT HONORABLE PEACE
LONDON, April 3.—"The silent mass of mankind" in Germany and Austria-Hungary is becoming vocal and will soon cry out for an immediate cessation of hostilities. This is the interpretation given here to the statement of Count Czernin, the Austria-Hungarian foreign minister, that the Central Powers are ready for an "honorable peace" at any time.
The second part of Count Czernin's statement, in which he pointed out that the dual monarchy must fight on until "guarantees of existence" are assured unless the Kaiser's proposals of a peace conference is accepted by the Entente Allies, is not regarded as important except as an attempt to show the official belief that the masses of the Central Powers will not revolt.
That Count Czernin realizes the necessity of recognizing in Austria the echo of the Russian revolution, new sweeping all Europe, is unquestioned. Following Thursday's Socialist demonstration in the German Reichstag wholly different color has been given to the question of peace.
It is the more significant because the Austrian resistance stiffened somewhat after the declaration of the Allied peace terms.
The reference to the Czechs and the Slovaks, rightly or wrongly, was taken as proof of an intention to break up the empire, giving the dual monarchy everything to lose and nothing to gain by making peace. It is thought that there is a reasonable tone about Count Czernin's statement which rather guarantees its genuineness. His point about the possibility of a peace conference without a truce is regarded as considerable of a concession to the Allies, but generally there is a feeling that a German revolution is scarcely expected here, but there is an idea that an outbreak of public opinion might force peace.
