Selassie Files Suit Against Mussolini Revamps Lineup

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) NEW YORK, June 13.—International League headquarters announced today that Selassie, Emperor of Ethiopia, has filed suit against Premier Mussolini and Italy in the French courts to obtain the right to sell his stock in Ethiopia's one-track railway.

Believed in need of cash since he fled from Italian armies a year ago this summer, Selassie has tried to sell the shares which he holds in the name of the Ethiopian Government. Italy contends the Italian Government is now the Government of Ethiopia, and that the stock, valued at about $13,500,000, thus belongs to Rome.

Paul Well, Selassie's lawyer, will argue before the court that his client is still the Government of Ethiopia—at least as far as the railway goes—because France has not recognized Italian sovereignty.

Protect Yourself From Insect Bites

The season has now arrived during which those winged demerits of forest and field, the bloodsucking mosquitoes, blackflies and biting midges, appear, and often make life uncomfortable for man and beast. Outdoor workers and others whose occupations or pleasure-seeking activities expose them to the attacks of these insects may secure considerable relief by the use of one of several repellent mixtures recommended in a pamphlet prepared by the Dominion Entomological Branch, and available, on application, from the Publicity and Extension Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. These preparations are made by mixing certain essential oils in a base of carrier, and are applied to the skin. Their effect is only temporary, but they are of great value in warding off attacks especially when the insects are very numerous. Several of the recommended formulae follow:

1. Oil of citronella, 3 ounces; spirits of camphor, 1 ounce; oil of tar, 1 ounce; oil of pennyroyal, 1-4 ounce; and castor oil, 4 to 6 ounces, depending on the sensitivity of the skin.
2. Oil of citronella, 2 ounces; castor oil, 2 ounces; oil of pennyroyal, 1-8 ounce.
3. Oil of lavender, 1 ounce; alcohol, 1 ounce; castor oil, 1 ounce.
4. Gum camphor, 3 ounces; salol, 3 ounces; petrolatum, 4 ounces.

Another popular repellent is made by mixing together one ounce of oil of citronella, 1 ounce spirits of camphor, and 1-2 ounce oil of cedar.

6. Still another formula is oil of cassia, 1 ounce; camphorated oil, 2 ounces; vaseline, 3 ounces.

Investigators also report satisfaction from using a preparation made as follows: 1 ounce ether, 1 ounce vaseline, 1 ounce ounce beeswax, 1 ounce and medium hard paraffin, 1 ounce. Cool until the mixture is just fluid, then stir in 1 gram, or one-quarter teaspoonful of oil of cassia and 2 grams, or a half-teaspoonful of oil of citronella.

Among the remedies for relieving insect bites, household ammonia, tincture of iodine, borated vaseline, glycerin, and alcohol are widely used. In many cases, irritation passes away when ordinary toilet soap is moistened and gently rubbed over the puncture.

The pamphlet, which is entitled "Methods of Protection from Mosquitoes, Black-flies and Sand-lice in the Forest," also gives advice on the selection of camp sites; the erection of fly-proof tents and shelters; the use of mudrugs; proper clothing; the use of headnets, veils and goggles; and sprays that may be used in cabins and tents.

COMMONERS CANDID AND FREE

The curfew was tolling the end of the day
And the wend of the plowman, was home,
The shadows of yew trees and elms
Were dim
As Gray wrote his elegy poem:
It was far from the midst of the maddening throng
But close to the tomb and the urn
Where men slept in beds that were narrow and deep
And their dust in its dust did return:

On the curb, in these shadows, I looked from afar
And watched the processions go by
With the glamor and gleam of the pompous and grand
That enhanced and bedazzled the eye;
I saw it recede in the distance and night
In its emine, its silks and its gold,
The jewels and diamonds and gems sparkled bright
On this route that kings traveled of old:

The horses and kings had departed
And the prince and the queens had gone by—
The lords and the marquises had faded from sight
—All amid the acclaim and the cry:
That once rang aloud in the high-way of old
That led up to Jerusalem's fame,
When the King of all Kings their kingdoms went by
And he heard the Horannah's proclaim:

My thoughts turned to Westminster Abbey so drear,
Where the king had departed and gone—
Where the urns of their bones rest in ashes and dust
In the crypts made of marble and stone;
They too, in their day were quite pompous and grand
As they rode in this pageant's display.
They were garbed in the robes of the royals that ruled
In the triumphs of their transient day:

But now in the tombs of the silent they lie,
Far away from the bands and the glare;
Into dust they have turned like the plowman and sire
Who had naught but their bones and their hair;
Then I thought of the poet so noble who wrote
Of the soul, of the breath and the shroud:
And asked why the spirit of mortal should be
Either pompous, deceitful or proud?

Ah me! Said I then, in my fanciful thought,
What more could I crave as a man
Than an heritage ROYAL in nature's parade
As a part of God's wisdom and plan?
Where the heartbeating throbs of ennobling men,
Have a mind of unfettered decreed—
With a soul of the Cosmic creation endowed
In the COMMONERS, candid and FREE.

—PETER A. REILLY.

Rumors Current

As usual in time of stress, Moscow was filled with rumors of alarming events including stories of the secret execution of other high officials—but there was no confirmation.

The wave of executions for anti-government activity began last August, when 16 persons were shot after the first "Trotskyist" treason trial. Thirteen more met death in January following a second "Trotskyist" trial.

In recent weeks 66 were executed in Eastern Siberia. In Southern Russia, more than 20 were shot at Tiflis.

Marshal Klement E. Voroshiloff, Commissar for Defense, in a lengthy explanatory statement to the Red Army, said the executed leaders had conspired to cede the Ukraine to a foreign power in order to overthrow the Soviet regime and restore a capitalist one.

Voroshiloff declared only "the chief traitors and heads" so far had been tried, a statement interpreted as meaning other persons were held.

MEXICO CITY, June 13

The execution of eight Soviet army leaders "marks the beginning of the end of the Stalin dictatorship," Leon Trotsky, exiled Bolshevik leader predicted today.

Trotsky, founder of the Red Army declared that "after decapitating the party and the Soviet structure, Stalin now has decapitated the army."

Trotsky paid tribute to the military knowledge of all the victims and said they were the most popular of all Soviet military leaders.

Charges of espionage for a "Fascist state" by Soviet generals, as were convicted and executed were described by Trotsky as "untrue and unworthy of denial."

WELL KNOWN SUMMERSIDE CITIZEN DIES

Death Saturday Of John Mollison, Writer And Former Editor.

Mr. John Mollison, well known as a gifted writer died at his home in Summerside on Saturday night at the advanced age of 88 years. Mr. Mollison was born in Burnstone, Scotland, and received his early education there. On the death of his father he came with his mother to Prince Edward Island. His mother was Agnes Miller, whose parents resided at Bideford.

Mr. Mollison continued his education on the island and as a young man learned the trade of carriage builder. He later took up teaching and taught school for a number of years. For some years he was editor of the Pioneer and Island Farmer; papers published in Summerside where Mr. Mollison has resided for over forty years. Leaving the editorial chair he took up land surveying and was well known throughout the country. In connection with this work he laid off many of the new streets in Summerside.

Mr. Mollison was a gifted writer and has written many articles chiefly in connection with Island history. An outstanding article on "Prince George" from his pen is to be found in "Prince Edward Island Past and Present."

In later years, after Mr. Mollison had laid aside his more strenuous labours, he devoted his time to the study of philosophy. Among his writings on this subject was his book "What Is Man?" which was favorably received by literary critics as well as the general public and had a wide sale.

Mr. Mollison was a member of the Presbyterian faith and was a constant worshipper at the Presbyterian Church. He had two daughters, one of which was active up to the last, and possessed a wealth of information on many subjects. He was held in the highest esteem for his pleasing personality and many fine characteristics.

He leaves to mourn one son, Robert L. Mollison of Summerside and two daughters, Mrs. R. H. Haulbask of Cambridge, Mass., and Mrs. Hugh Thompson, Cambridge, Mass., and one sister, Mrs. Riley of Cambridge, Mass. Also one half-brother, William Bannerman in Edinburgh, Scotland.

NOTED COW RANGE MAY YIELD GRAIN

(CP)—The famous Matador ranch on whose 200,000 acres cattle have ranged for more than 30 years, may be split up into farms.

Government officials have made preliminary inspections of the huge pasture and found satisfactory for grain-growing. A proposal has been submitted that farmers on sub-marginal land in this area be transferred to those tillable acres.

The Matador ranch was known far and wide on this continent at the height of its activity. It was owned by the Matador Cattle and Stock Company, a United States firm. The company brought large numbers of cattle here from as far south as the Rio Grande River Valley when grazing conditions down there were unsuitable.

The Saskatchewan government took over the ranch 12 years ago when the company discontinued operations here and has since operated it as a community grazing ground. It had fed 5,000 cattle yearly from drought areas of southern Saskatchewan.

Coffee of Merit

There are at least four popular methods of making good coffee. drip coffee. These are percolated coffee, drip coffee, steeped coffee and boiled coffee.

You can get perfect coffee every time by any of these methods if you follow a few basic rules.

First, of course, remember to select a fine blend of coffee to start with—one that you can always rely upon to be roasted properly, ground to suit your particular type of coffee pot, and kept fresh for you till you want to use it.

1. Always use water, freshly drawn, for making coffee.

2. Always measure both coffee and water to obtain the same strength each time coffee is made. Use one heaping tablespoon of coffee for each standard measuring cup of cold water.

3. Never allow coffee to boil. Actual boiling develops bitterness and destroys both flavor and aroma. The volatile oils which give coffee its delicate fragrance and flavor, escape in steam as coffee boils, and changes take place which bring out a bitter or sour taste. The best temperatures for coffee making are below boiling (185 degrees F. to 203 degrees F.) Coffee boiled for even one minute is more bitter than coffee made at 203 degrees F. just 9 degrees below boiling.

GREEN PASTURES JOY TO FARMERS

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., June 12.—(CP)—After eight dry years at Bracken, Sask., on the southwestern Saskatchewan border, Roy May and Arthur Miller feathered their eyes on green grass and trees and well watered farm lands at Kakabeka Falls, 18 miles west of here, and decided that was the place for them.

They are typical western farmers who have seen good times and bad. It was exactly eight years ago they had sufficient rain at Bracken to produce a big crop, this year they determined to move on.

Once on the Kakabeka farm their cattle and horses, which had not seen green grass for a year, made for the verdurous pastures. But they were permitted to browse for only a short time, for it was feared the sudden change would make them ill.

ALBERTA HELIUM LOW PERCENTAGE

CALGARY, June 12.—(CP)—Thousands of cubic feet of helium gas, suitable for dirigibles such as Germany's giant Hindenburg, destroyed at Lakehurst, N. J., recently, are lost daily in waste gas in Turner valley oil fields.

Since gas was discovered here there have been proposals from time to time to erect a plant to extract the helium, and since the destruction of the Hindenburg the subject has been again to the fore.

A Dominion government report a few years ago disclosed that heli-searchingly on "Quest for God," suggested by Zophar's query to Job, "Canst thou by searching find out God?" Job 11, 7. There are four outstanding questions in life, the quest for gold with its accompanying and absorbing attributes, the quest for life in length of days and physical expression, the quest for power and its resultant enjoyments and the crowning quest for that which is greater and better than the material, physical and intellectual, the quest for the supernatural, the quest for God, which redeems man from mere animal existence and makes him a living soul. This quest is the inspiration of life's greatest and most satisfying adventures. The Hebrew Patriarchs and heroes of faith were commended for not only seeking in faith but also dying in faith, this enduring searching faith being their crowning glory. An apt illustration of the results following seeking of gold rather than God was found in the contrast between the low plane of life and backward conditions of the countries of South America, where the Spaniards came seeking gold alone, and the progressive, successful North American States founded by the Pilgrim Fathers, who came seeking a country where they might have freedom to worship God, God is a personality and cannot be localized. He is not to be found confined in altar or cloud-bank, in nature, in religious systems, doctrines or customs, but only in the person of Jesus Christ, who said "I and the Father are one."—S

THE SALVATION ARMY

Beside the regular meetings at the Citadel yesterday service was conducted at Spring Vale United Church by Adj. and Mrs. Lynch and the Salvation Band. The Church was filled and an enjoyable meeting held. The band added much to the meeting by contributing some stirring music and accompanying in the hymns. A wonderfully inspiring meeting was held at 7. Many testifying to God's power to save and keep.

One of the most inspiring features of the service was the excellent singing. The hall was well filled.

num content of Turner Valley gas was only three-tenths of one percent and experts say that a 10 percent content is necessary for economical extraction.

In 1911 Prof. J. C. McLennan of Toronto, erected an experimental plant in Calgary, and some helium reported 98 percent pure, was extracted from Bow Island gas. The plant was closed during the war and production of helium was never realized on a commercial scale.

It is believed some of the new wells now drilling may uncover gas flows richer in helium so that an extraction plant would prove commercially feasible.
