THE 85TH BATTALION.—The Atlantic was due to arrive in Halifax yesterday with the 85th Battalion of Nova Scotia. There are about 128 P. E. Islanders in this regiment who it is expected will arrive here on Tuesday evening. It is expected that the Island boys will remain in Halifax for the big reception being tendered the battalion there today.

MR. APPLETON LEAVING.—Mr. C. B. Appleton, who has been National Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Charlottetown for some months has been recalled to Halifax and leaves for there this week. Mr. Appleton made some good friends while here who will regret to learn of his departure. It is understood that his successor here will be Bombardier Edgar McInnis of this city who returned a short time ago from overseas.

SOMETHING WORTH WHILE.—The illustrated lecture to be given by Major J. Parker Hooper, M. C., in the People's Theatre Market Building, on Thursday evening next, 12th inst., is one that will be of absorbing interest to the people of this city and province. In addition to a description of the part taken by the 88th in the war by one who saw practically all of it, the descriptions are illustrated by 150 lantern slides, said to be the best up-to-date collection of photographs taken during the war. In these photographs many of the Prince Edward Islanders are easily recognizable as are also the scenes in which they brought a large part of the war glory to Canada. No one should miss seeing these photographs and hearing of "The Trail of the 88th" Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Many friends heard with deep regret yesterday of the sudden death of Mrs. James Trainor, of Spring Park Road, this city, which sad event occurred at Rocky Point where the family for some years have conducted a summer restaurant. Mrs. Trainor crossed to Rocky Point on Saturday with her little grand-daughter aged about seven years, and the latter arose early to go to town to Mass. After coming to town she replied in answer to enquiries about her grand-mother, that she was unable to wake her up before leaving. As Mrs. Trainor had been suffering for some time with heart trouble this statement on the part of the child naturally caused alarm and upon investigation the worst fears were realized—she was dead, evidently having passed away in her sleep. Deceased was 60 years of age and a woman of splendid qualities whose sudden demise will be sincerely mourned. To her husband and children and other relatives deep sympathy goes out in their sudden bereavement. The children comprise two daughters at home and two in the United States, and three sons, one of whom is Sgt. Joseph Trainor, recently returned from overseas, and Walter now on way home from overseas and a younger boy at home; there are also several sisters, including Mrs. Joseph Carter, City, Mrs. Condy, Lot 65 and Mrs. Smith of Boston. The time of the funeral has not yet been decided awaiting word from the daughters abroad.

HEAR Mrs. Lawson and Mr. Bruce tonight in Zion Hall.

New gates are being made, the grand stand repaired and a new fence is being placed on both sides of grand stand. The track has been partially prepared and will receive the finishing touches this week. It is hoped to have the grounds in first class shape in two weeks.

BRIDE SHOWERED.—The members of the Christian Women's Board of missions of the Central Christian Church held a "shower" on Friday evening in honor of Miss Blanche Lulu Dewar whose marriage to Mr. J. C. Stewart takes place at Newlands on Wednesday. The scene of the shower was the residence of Miss Aggie Williams where a merry company had gathered. Miss Dewar received a large number of beautiful and serviceable gifts and after their presentation the evening was spent enjoyably with music etc.

THE MAJESTY OF LAW IN BRITAIN

A recent issue of the "Wesleyan" contains an article by Rev. H. E. Thomas, pastor of the Sackville Methodist Church, formally pastor of the Charlottetown Methodist Church in which he points out the respect which is paid by British Courts to the cherished principles of individual rights in war time. Mr. Thomas writes: "A judgement was quite recently given by the English Court of appeal which is not only of interest from a point of law, but is of yet greater interest as illustrating the respect which is paid by British Courts to the cherished principles of individual rights even during the exigencies of war. This appeal was taken from a decision of one of the courts which dismissed a claim of nearly $70,000 against the Government, made by Dr. Keyzers Royal Hotel (Limited), one of the hotels requisitioned by the Government during the war for the occupancy of the hotel by the war office. The case bears some resemblance to the famous Ship Money case, where the Court was asked to say whether the King might command his subjects at their charge to provide vessels for the defence of the Empire; whilst in the present case the point at issue was whether by the ancient common law of England the Sovereign might seize the property of his subjects for the public safety and in defence of the realm, without payment of compensation. In the presentation of the appeal the plaintiffs were represented by the very best legal advisers among whom was Sir John Simon; whilst both the Attorney-General and Solicitor-General, besides other distinguished legal luminaries, appeared for the Government. A long and costly search was made in the Record Office as far back as the year 1708, for documents which might support the claim of the Crown; but it seems that the mediaeval attitude toward the sanctity of property from confiscation without compensation is uncompromising. The result is that the Court of Appeal, by majority reverses the judgement already given and enters judgement in favor of the hotel with costs both of the Court below and of the present appeal. There thus becomes a part of the Constitutional history of England the fundamental principle that every subject has rights which even a King must respect, while at the same time the Court is proven to be a true asylum of the people's liberties. Some have claimed that this case involved the greatest legal issues since the times of Hampden, but whether this is so or not the judgement is of interest as vindicating the best traditions of the English Bench that the Court is always above reproach, even in a case like this where there are close associations between the Judiciary and the Executive Government; whilst at the same time every true British heart may leap for joy at the assurance which is here given that when he brings his case to the "foot of the throne," there his rights are held to be sacred and inviolate. That is what it means to be a citizen of a great Empire; an Empire which sends forth its vast armies to protect the subject from without, and throws about him the sacred mantle of law to guard him from any injustice within."

Cross-Johnson Wedding

An interesting wedding was solemnized at high noon today at the residence of Lt.-Col. and Mrs. H. D. Johnson, 205 O'Connor street, when their daughter, Annie Marjorie, was married to Captain Harold C. Cross, who has been overseas with the Canadian Y. M. C. A., and who returned a fortnight ago. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Cross of Longueuil, Que. Major the Rev. H. I. Horsey was the officiating clergyman, and the wedding marches were played by Miss Revell. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Sidney McFarlane sang in sweet voice, "O Perfect Love." The drawing-room, where the ceremony took place, was profusely adorned with marguerites and white lilies. The couple were unattended, and the bride, who was given away by her father, wore a dainty frock of white georgette headed in white, the folds of the long tulle veil being encircled in orange blossoms. She carried Ophelia roses and lilies-of-the-valley in her shower. Captain and Mrs. Cross have left for Toronto and will spend a few weeks at Algonquin Park before leaving for their home in Victoria, B. C. A suit of navy blue with small navy blue silk hat was worn by the bride when travelling. Ottawa (City) News, June 4th

THE LAPWING'S HAUNTING CRY

Oh bird, of the blue you came, Then slowly winged away, And your cry it echoes back to me, As if by goodbye to say. Oh bird, my spirit answers thine, That spirit so brave and free, And I'd give a thousand year of life, To fly far o'er with thee. But no, ah no, it cannot be, No thousand years are mine, But may be that in Heaven, we'll meet For time, eternal time.

INTERPRETING THE OMENS

In his youth Mark Twain edited a weekly journal in a small Western town. A subscriber wrote him one day to remark that he had discovered a spider concealed in the folds of a recently delivered paper. The writer wanted to know whether such an occurrence was a sign of good or bad luck. The young editor replied in the next issue as follows: "Constant Reader: The appearance of a spider in a copy of last week's paper was a sign of neither good or bad luck; that intelligent insect was merely studying our columns in order to ascertain whether any store in the neighborhood had failed to advertise in our paper, in order that he might make for that establishment and there weave a web across the doorway, where he might dwell in undisturbed peace."—Youth's Companion

FROM HALIFAX TO ST. JOHN IN TWO HOURS

HALIFAX, Jun 6.—The first leg of the first long distance aeroplane flight in Canada was successfully completed when Lieut. Stuart Graham, who left here at 2.25 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his Curtis seaplane, the H. S. 2 L, arrived at St. John at 4.33 o'clock en route to Three Rivers, Quebec. Graham was accompanied by his wife, who acted as navigator. In a special telegram to The Morning Chronicle received last night, he reported a favorable trip in spite of heavy fog banks over the Bay of Fundy. He will continue in his journey this morning. Graham had planned to hop off on his history making jaunt to Three Rivers early yesterday morning, but a final overhauling of his machine delayed him until one o'clock. At twenty-five minutes after two, according to official time at the Air Station, the H. S. 2 L left the water. Flying low, it passed over the city, striking it at Salter Street and followed the shore to Bedford, where the overland portion of the flight commenced. At three o'clock word came from Windsor that the plane had been sighted there. It soared over Minas Basin and passed Cape Split at twelve minutes past three. Here the first signs of fog were encountered growing in intensity until St. John was reached. From Cape Split, Graham flew across the Bay of Fundy to Quaco Ledge, following the New Brunswick coast of St. John, where he effected a successful landing.

HINTS FOR The Motorist

BY ALBERT L. CLOUGH

YOUR CAR'S PRIVATE FIRE DEPARTMENT

Better To Be Sure Than Sorry

You probably carry a fire extinguisher on your car. If you do not, you are grossly negligent and are paying unnecessarily high for your fire insurance on this account. Have you looked recently to see if there is anything in your extinguisher? Sometimes the fluid leaks out gradually and all escapes and sometimes a meddlesome person or a practical joker discharges the fluid, returns the extinguisher to its place and does not tell the owner to whom "ignorance is bliss" until a fire starts. Are you sure that the extinguisher will work properly? You can find out by removing it from its bracket, discharging its contents into a can and then returning the discharged liquid. An extinguisher that has been carried for a long time ought to be tested, so that unjustified dependence may not be placed upon it. Do other people, who drive your car, know how to detach the extinguisher, how to operate it and how to place the liquid most effectively? If not, they should be instructed. Is the extinguisher kept where it can instantly be reached? It should be, for a few seconds delay may be decisive as to whether your car will be saved or not. If your car takes fire, do not be deterred from trying to save it, by fear that an explosion is imminent, such a thing is very rare. The thing to do is to "grab it," discharging the fluid on the seat of the flames, and the chances are in favor of success.

Original plans provided for only a brief stop at St. John to take on fuel, but because of fog, Graham decided to postpone his trip until nine o'clock this morning, anticipating more favorable conditions. The next stop will be at Lake Tennis-couata, and then the final destination, Three Rivers, where the aviator will present Sir Lomar Gouin Premier of Quebec, with a letter from the Lieut. Governor of Nova Scotia. Graham will return to Halifax next week to pilot another plane to Three Rivers.

His wire to The Morning Chronicle follows: "Left Halifax 2.25. Crossed Windsor 2.55. Crossed Cape Split (hazy) 3.12. Passed Isle Haute 3.42; Quaco Ledge 4.00; Cape Spencer 4.23 (fog); St. John Harbor 4.33. Fog prevents continuing flight today. Expect to leave at nine tomorrow."
