"FIT LIKE GLOVES"

TOM'S STORY.

One Thing Led to Another in Surprising Fashion.

"Tom," said Jack as they lighted their cigars after the class reunion dinner, "tell me something about yourself. What have you been doing all these years since we left college?"

"Well, Jack, I've had my ups and downs. I was just about to start in business in New York when my physician ordered me to go west for my health."

"Oh, too bad! I'm sorry to hear that old man."

"Well, it wasn't so bad either. I started a ranch in Arizona and made a good deal of money."

"I'm glad to hear that, Tom. That was fine."

"Well, I don't know about that. It wasn't so good either, for after I'd been running the ranch awhile a murder came along and killed off most of my stock."

"Too bad, too bad!"

"Well, it wasn't so bad after all, for it drove me from ranching to Denver, and in Denver I met a girl who was fated to become my wife."

"Congratulations, old boy; that was fine!"

"Well, I don't know; it wasn't so fine either, for she turned out to have quite a temper, and she didn't make me very happy."

"A wfully sorry to hear it, old chap. That must have been a blow. That was bad, bad!"

"Well, it wasn't so bad either. We were scratching along, living on next to nothing, when my wife's uncle died and left her a lot of money. We built a nice home of our own and moved in."

"That was great luck, old man, now, wasn't it?"

"Well, it wasn't as good as it sounds; it didn't last. We hadn't been in the house six months before it took fire one night and was burned to the ground."

"Wasn't that hard luck! Too bad, too bad!"

"Well, I don't know; it wasn't so bad either."

"How so?"

"My wife was burned up with the house."—New York Times.

A Look Ahead.

"That little machine," remarks the exhibitor just before the performance, "contains the moving pictures which show the prize fight in every detail."

"Indeed?" we say politely. "And what is that large one on the other side of the stage?"

"That," replies the exhibitor, "is the phonograph which accompanies the pictures, giving the prize fighters' talk before the contest came off."

But as we have only five hours at our disposal we do not stay to hear but half of it.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Reminded Her.

"Do you know," said Miss Snappleigh, "when you smile you remind me so much of my father."

Mr. Oldboy smiled delightedly.

"Yes," she purred, "you wrinkle your face just exactly as he does."

Mr. Oldboy didn't smile any more.—Chicago Tribune.

His Special Line.

"Did your son specialize along any particular line?" somebody asked of the college graduate's proud mother.

"Oh, yes," was the reply. "I heard one of his friends say that he made a great record for himself on the rush line the last two years he was in college."—Syracuse Herald.

Another Reformer.

"Yes, sir," said the gentleman boomer. "I believe the great trouble in this country is that we are too slow in having the law take its course. There should be less delay. I am in favor of having the statute of limitations take effect within twenty-four hours."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Doing His Best.

"That Indian agent has a poetical soul."

"The one who robbed the savages so unmercifully?"

"Yes; he wanted to make 'Lo, the poor Indian,' a truthful statement."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Thoughtless Boy!

"What's the matter?"

"Boohoo! I'm selfish and thoughtless, and when Willie here generously offered me a lady's bite of his candy I went and took a hog bite."—New York Evening Journal.

Factional Antimosity.

Ward Healer—Do you hate the opposite party?

Zealous Voter—Hate it! I hate it as much as badly as I do the other faction of my own party!—Baltimore American.

A Quaint Courtesy.

The gentleman with the high stock and the white whiskers arises in the street car, offering his seat to the woman who has just entered.

As she sinks into the seat made vacant she raises her eyes modestly and with just the faintest tinge of reserve says:

"Thank you, sir."

"That evening the gentleman with the high stock and the white whiskers says to his wife:

"I had a most unusual experience today. I met a lady of the old school,"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Evidently Well Fixed.

Farmer Greene—Ol' Bill Jenkins must hev money enough tew retire an' live comfortable.

Farmer Brown—That's right. No man would work eighteen hours a day an' live on buttermilk an' pertaters like Bill does unless he had th' "dough."—Judge.

Suggesting a Switch.

Uncle John—How do you like the new minister, Tommy?

Tommy—I don't like 'im. I think he must 'a' been a schoolteacher onct.

Uncle John—Why do you think so?

Tommy—Cause whenever he talks to me he always holds his hand behind 'im.—Philadelphia Press.

His Argument.

"George, your watch should be worth a mint of money to you."

"Why so?"

"Gains time steadily."

"Yes."

"Well, time is money."—Yonkers Statesman.

Minard's Liniment for sale everywhere.

"I tell you," cried the author, "I'm going to rise in this world."

The editor eyed him doubtfully for five seconds, and then asked: Balloon or elevator?

EARACHE CURED.

Miss J. J. Johnson, Innisfail, Alta., says: "I was troubled with Earache for a long time, and nothing helped me until I used Haggard's Yellow Oil, which cured me completely."

Nurse—"Johnny, stop asking your father so many questions. Don't you see it annoys him?"

Johnny—"Why, nurse, it's not the questions that make him angry; it's because he can't answer them."

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff.

Mother—Tommy, you're really too bad! there's a hole in your trousers that was there this morning.

Tommy—Where do you suppose it was, then?

Stupifying headaches are cured, the head cleared, and the brain brightened by Minard's Sizzling Headache Powders. They do not weaken the heart. Price 10c, and 25c.
