

ROSEBUD has something on them all!

It's a better tobacco and better value anyway you look at it. Cool? A summer breeze on a shady nook has nothing on Rosebud. Mellow—fragrant—satisfying—your money buys more of what you want when you smoke Rosebud! No wonder it's a standout favourite in the Maritimes.

In Memoriam

MR. JAMES BYRNE

The residents of Waterville and surrounding districts were shocked to hear on the afternoon of July 11th that Mr. James Byrne had departed this life. Although in failing health for some time it was not thought there was any immediate danger of death. However, on the morning of July 11th he took a turn for the worse and at noon his spirit passed to eternity. During his illness he had all the care and attention that loving hands could bestow and the highest medical skill, but all to no avail. The late Mr. Byrne was born in Waterville, and lived all his life there where he carried on extensive farming operations. Although Mr. Byrne was a quiet man of a somewhat retiring disposition, he was a splendid neighbor and a true and sincere friend. He was a man of integrity and high principles, of deep religious convictions and lived his life strictly according to the moral code. A man of deep piety he was always a constant attendant at all religious services. He was attended in his last illness by his Pastor, Rt. Rev. Monsigneur McDonald who visited him frequently. He leaves to mourn four sons and two daughters: Joseph and Pius, Boston, Mass., who visited their father shortly before his death; Mrs. James E. Curley, Waterville; George John and Annie at home; also one brother, Michael, Fall River, Mass., and a sister, Mrs. John T. Garland, Tarantum. His wife predeceased him twelve years ago. His funeral took place by motor hearse to Veron River on July 13th. Although the morning was exceptionally wet a large number of people attended. A high Mass of Requiem was sung by Right Rev. Monsigneur MacDonald who also performed the services at the grave. The pall bearers were: Messrs. John T. Garland, John T. Grimes, William O'Brien, John O'Shea, Francis J. Quinn, and Louis Trainor. Signed on behalf of your friends in Clinton.

Mother Dies On Welcoming Son

GLASGOW, Aug. 19—(CP-Havas)—The excitement of welcoming home her son Ralph Davidson of Vancouver, whom she had not seen for 27 years, today proved fatal to Mrs. Davidson, of Mount Road, Tweedmouth. As the line in which he was a passenger was entering the Clyde Mrs. Davidson had a seizure and lost her voice. Arrived home, Davidson watched over his mother for five days and nights, hoping she would recover sufficiently to be able to join a family reunion planned to coincide with her 84th birthday. Mrs. Davidson died today.

Scout News and Notices

A wide open invitation to British Boy Scouts to attend on the day of the September motor races at Brooklands has been extended by Earl Howe, the President of the British Racing Drivers' Club.

Douglas Corrigan, who made air history by his flight from America to Ireland, was at one time a Boy Scout in a New York City troop. He declared his hiking experiences had proved of value to him when he took up flying.

The big annual parade by Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs will not be held at the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto this year. Instead there will be displays of Scoutcraft, work of various kinds. The usual large staff of public service Scouts will be maintained, including those who each year are assigned to the special task of finding and caring for lost children.

Summer Scout visitors to Canada included 25 American Sea Scouts from New Jersey, aboard the two 35 foot cabin cruisers "Reverend" and "Gull", which reached Montreal by the inland water route from New York. The Sea Scouts were entertained by Canadian Scouts at St. John's, Que., on the night water inland were guests of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club Sea Scouts at Dorval.

Rescues from drowning in rivers lakes and the sea have become almost a looked-for service by Boy Scouts in all the Scouting countries of the world. In India the Scouts have added the frequent rescue of persons who fall into the many communities draw their water. A recent typical case was the rescue at Shahadra, Punjab, of a small boy who had toddled to the well and fallen in. The rescuer, Scout Mubarak Ali, called by the child's excited mother, at once dived in, grasped the infant, and held it above the water until a rope was procured and lowered by villagers, when both were drawn up to safety.

Of all the inventions of modern times few, I imagine, have done more to increase human happiness than the Boy Scout movement. — Robert Lind, in the London News-Chronicle

A great National Camp of Boy Scouts from all parts of Sweden was held during August in the park of Tuilgarn, upon the invitation of the King of Sweden, and under H. R. Prince Gustaf Adolf as Camp Chief. British Scouting was represented by a contingent drawn from parts of the British Isles, and one Scout from India.

An interesting addition to the list of Cornwall Scout medal awards given for outstanding courage and cheerfulness during continued suffering, was that of the South African magnate Sir Abe Bailey. The award was made by Lord Baden-Powell, "for exceptional courage in facing intense suffering over a long period of time." Sir Abe, a vice-president of the Boy Scouts Association, had one leg amputated in London last year, and the other one early this year at Johannesburg. Following the second operation Sir Abe sailed for England, against his doctor's orders, to see his two horses run in the Derby.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19—John Belling, advertising clerk who grew up in Montreal, today confessed he shot and killed Mary Joyce, pretty 25-year-old private secretary, after he learned their romance had ended. Sorrowing at her waning love, the English-born employee of the New York Merchant's Association here, confessed to a priest that he had shot his sweetheart with a sawed-off rifle carried in a brief case while they dined and quarrelled. Then he accompanied the priest to police headquarters where he surrendered. They dined at a fashionable hotel last night, he told police. He said he urged Miss Joyce to marry him and when she refused, they quarrelled. The young couple went to a cafeteria for coffee, Belling told police. Still arguing, they returned to Miss Joyce's apartment, where, he said, the girl shook hands and said it was "goodbye."

As she turned to unlock the door, police said Belling told them, he opened his brief case, drew out the rifle and shot her in the head.
