Among the attractions at the Oakland, Cal., Orpheum during the two weeks ending August 14th, was a company of six handsome young women billed as the "Electrified Gibson Girl Review," portraying in various poses the famous pen and ink sketches of Charles Dana Gibson that were so popular a few years ago. One member of the company Miss Minnie Harrington, claims Prince Edward Island as her birthplace, although the greater part of her life was spent in Winthrop, Mass., and New York. Her father, Bennett Harrington, and two sisters, Pearl and Corrine, are living in Winthrop, her mother dying some years ago. Miss Harrington's grandparents were Michael Harrington and Caroline Gould, who lived for over half a century and raised a large family at De Saule Shore, P. E. I., and who have long since passed away.

Anyone wishing a portrait painted should write to A. Alex. McLeod, Eldon, Belfast, at once.
