Great Racing Seen At Covehead Yesterday As 2-day Meet Starts

Perfect racing weather, a lightning fast track and a crowd well in excess of 1300 were in attendance at the opening yesterday of the big two-day meeting at the Covehead racing track and the fans were well repaid for their attendance.

From the time Starter Dr. F. C. Dougan sent the first field of horses on the way the fans always had something to enthuse over. Such as blanket finishes, merry battles all the way down the stretch with the issue always in doubt and the hollering of the crowd a couple of times the decision went against their way of thinking.

But however, it was a great day of racing. Finishes were always close as the trotters and pacers battled it out every part of the oval and with today's card, including as it does the much talked off $1,000 free for all in addition to three other great cards winding up the program, racing fans, and they are plenty numerous, will witness a racing card the equal if not better than any seen over the Island tracks this season.

Once again Starter Dr. F. C. Dougan turned in a magnificent job, well on a par with the performances he has been giving all season long. At times yesterday he did have difficulty due to bad actors and drivers trying to beat the pole horse away but his usual warning had its effect and it was surprising to say the least how both horses and drivers steadied down the very next trip down.

In the Junior Free For All Kavola, driven capably by Roy Barnet was the only upset winner of the day, heading the field in the first two heats and then finally yielding to the favored, the Great G. in the final one. The class produced battles all the way with driving finishes marking every mile.

Joey O'Brien, a veteran of the sulky but still looking as youthful as ever took My Partner home in front in each heat of the No. 1 Classified but again the crowd saw stirring battles, so stirring in the first heat that many were of the opinion that Free Trade should have been the victor. Free Trade was second again in the second heat but it was O. U. Volo who provided the competition in the stretch drive in the third and final mile of the class.

Prince Budlong, Harold Cudmore's good pacer took another straight heat win in the No. 2 Classified but in the final heat the crowd once again voiced its displeasure, many thinking Roy Shelburne had taken the honors; the judges decision stood and Prince showed a definite superiority as he paced off with the next two heats and race.

Eleven starters came to the wire in the No. 3 Classified and again O'Brien was to the fore, this time with Lee's Nightmare, heading the field in every heat with Marion L., furnishing the competition in the first two and Just Flicka in the third, the latter coming on in the stretch to beat out Marion L., who had raced on the outside of the Nightmare practically the entire mile.

SPORTING NEWS

Charlie Willis wasn't foolin' last week when, in conversation, he stated that the cream of Maritime harness racing horseflesh would be present for his two-day meeting which got away to such an auspicious start yesterday afternoon.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

There was little to be found wanting in the racing that was provided the 1300-odd spectators on hand yesterday. Finishes were of the blanket variety, the weather was ideal to say the least, the track was lightning fast and the horses were as evenly matched as possible.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

And promoter Willis has an even better card on tap for today featured by the big $1,000 Free-For-All that has attracted a small but select entry list with Anti-Aircraft and True Hal heading the entrants.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

For Anti-Aircraft it will be a chance to redeem himself for the beating he took from Wal Hennessey's new import here during the Goodwill Races last week. Many think that Charlie Horton's big pacer was not up to his best form on that occasion but just as many more feel that the newcomer to Island tracks is just a wee bit too good for the big free-for-aller.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

However that is neither here nor there. It will be battled out this afernoon over the fast racing strip at Covehead and fans are promised many a thrill before the Free-For-All goes down in history. But the other three classes are very likely to furnish just as many thrills. Horse racing, no matter where it is held is always filled with those things and today's program should be a fitting climax to the Covehead track's activities for the summer.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

Charlie Ryan's junior baseballers have a chance of copping the Island junior title at the Park diamond this evening when they meet Summerside juniors in the fourth game of their best-of-five playoffs with the local youngsters leading two games to one.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

From the camp of the Charlottetonians last night came the word that they expect to wind up the series. They are confident of doing that but no ways cocky about it for they know full well the latent strength that lies in the bats of the Summerside kids.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

On Friday night the intermediate All Stars, led by Husky McCabe will journey to Summerside for the second game of their best-of-five series. And again it is a case of a Charlottetown team having a game advantage over their Western opponents having won the only game of the series played to date.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

But like the juniors the intermediates have a lot of respect for the Summerside ball tossers and knowing that they just edged out the Summerside team in their last appearance against them — the score was 2-1 — will be looking for an even tougher game on Friday as the Summerside team will be endeavoring to get back on even footing with the smooth-fielding Charlottetown crew.

K. of C. Softball

On Friday evening at 7.30 sharp the Cundall Kids and Bobby Sockers meet in the final stage of the third game of the finals in the Knights of Columbus Softball League.

The Sockers are leading 2-0 in games and have a 12-7 edge on the Kids in the third game.

Only three innings away from the title the Sockers will be fighting every inch to hold their lead, while the Kids will be equally anxious to at least get one game of the series.

TORONTO, Sept 18 — (CP) — Albert Steinberg, Toronto violinist, has been appointed Concert Master and Assistant Conductor of the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra, it was announced last night. He also will be conductor of the Vancouver Junior Symphony Orchestra.

Mr. Steinberg, 36, has been concert master of the Promenade Symphony here, a member of the Toronto Symphony orchestra, and conductor of several CBC programs.

Louis Keeps Promise But Fulfilled It Earlier Than Was Expected

(By Sid Feder)

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Sept. 18—(AP)—Joe Louis kept his promise tonight to "make a quick one" against Tami Mauriello, but he kept the promise so well probably even he was surprised at what a short night's work it was.

He caved the roof in on the tubby Bronx barkeeper so completely and so rapidly with a fancy display of all his gaudy artillery, that he chalked up the second fastest knockout in heavyweight championship history.

It took him just 2 minutes and 9 seconds to beat the round man from uptown New York into a helpless hulk. And but for two right hand "crunchers" he missed by a shade a few seconds earlier, he might even have equalled his own world record—the 2:04 it took him to stiffen Max Schmeling in their return bout back in 1938 in this same ball yard.

Although he'd been saying right along in his training that it would be a short night's work, the bomber might have let it last a bit longer than it did. At 211 1-4 pounds—Tami scaled 198 1-2—Joe was heavier than ever before in his 12 year career in the ring. Tami had youth—23 years to 32—on him, and Louis might have been inclined to feel him out for, say a round, anyway.

But Tami walked out as he'd been expected to, with his fists flailing. His—and the—first punch of the fight caught Joe flush on the mouth, and for a moment there was a possibility that the taproom tender might do the impossible.

Joe staggered halfway across the ring. There is no doubt he was hurt by this right-hand hammer that tore into his face. He bounced into the ropes. He blinked. He came out slowly to meet the rushing challenge of the dark-haired clouter who himself has a record of 51 knockouts in 77 professional starts.

He knew now he had to go to work, and right now. And that's exactly what he did. While it lasted it was fireworks all the way and the unexpectedly solid turnout of ringside customers and the faithful in the lower stands and the upper tier of this triple-decked ballpark were on their feet and roaring virtually every second of the way.

Joe Sleeps Before; Tami Afterwards

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 —(AP)—An hour before he entered the ring against heavyweight champion Joe Louis, challenger Tami Mauriello was singing and dancing in his dressing room to a song entitled "When you sock them you rock them." The music was supplied by two friends who played mouth organs.

Mauriello raised such a racket that the handlers of Champion Joe, a few doors away, sent word by a deputy boxing commissioner to "please be quiet; Louis is sleeping."

Quoit Tourney This Evening

Tonight and Friday night, all players are asked to be on hand at 7 o'clock at the Parkdale Quoit Club bench on the Mt. Edward Road.

Just A "Quickie"

ROUND ONE

There was a delay while Louis' gloves were adjusted before they were called to the centre of the ring by Donovan.

No Decision Announced Re Players

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Sept. 18—(CP)—Further information on the status of two St. Joseph baseball players, Alonzo Gaudet and Val Boudreau, was given tonight by the New Brunswick Baseball Association, St. Joseph has lost the first two games of a provincial final series with Saint John St. Peter's.

According to word from the Nova Scotia Baseball Association, it still regards Gaudet as property of the Kentville Club because, although the club claimed it gave him his release July 10, this was never brought to the attention of the Association.

Similarly, no release for Boudreau has been received by the New Brunswick Association from Shediac.

No protest against the players has been made by St. Peter's. The provincial organization started an investigation on its own initiative. No decision has been announced and none may be made until the matter of transfers comes up for consideration next season.

Claim Game By Default

MIDDLETON, N. S., Sept. 18 — (CP) — Middleton Cardinals today claimed a victory by default when Halifax Shipyards failed to turn up for a Halifax-Middleton Senior Baseball League final game here.

Umpire-in-chief C. M. Joudrie called play ball and declared the game forfeited after Lefty Letterl, Middleton pitcher, tossed the necessary nine pitches.

Shipyards coach Lou Zwerling had stated last night that his team would not appear unless a league ruling which threw out two games already played in the finals was changed. One of the two games thrown out was a Shipyards victory, and since the action was taken because of ineligibility of Middleton catcher Shaulis, Halifax felt the victory should stand.

If today's forfeit is upheld the best-of-seven series would be left tied 2-2.

SPORT BRIEFS

By Jack Sullivan

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 16 —(CP)—Somebody once tabbed Jockey Gordon Richards as "God's gift to backers," and the first persons to agree with the description are the unfortunate bookies.

Richards, one of the great jockeys of the world, is past 40 but he's still astride winning mounts with an almost uncanny regularity. The "wise" boys search for his name in racing programs, bet their shillings in the firm belief their returns will be in pound notes.

Gordon who has passed the 1,000 mark in winners in 20 years of riding, just keeps rolling along. A London sports writer kept a check on the "old timer" in the first half of August and came up with a tally of 29 winners in 58 mounts.

The same sports writer has hounded Richards for the secret of his success and each time Gordon has refused point-blank.

"But I really knew the answer before I put the question," the writer said. "So do we all. Here's a horse and there's the winning post. Put one past the other in front as soon as possible."

It's all very elementary, but it takes a Gordon Richards to show how easy it can be done.

There may be many easier ways of earning a living, but $1 ($4) a minute seems attractive enough, whatever the method. The catch in this "easy money" racket, however, is to act as sparring partner to Bruce Woodcock, British heavyweight boxing champion whose punch couldn't be called a powder puff.

Woodcock, preparing for his Sept. 17 meeting in London with Gus Lesnevich, finds he can well-afford to pay that amount just to take a few socks at some unlucky pugilist. He has been touring the Continent and at Stockholm 13,000 persons paid to watch the former railroader ride roughshod over his $4-a-minute victims in three-round exhibitions of three minutes —sometimes—each

The gate receipts in Sweden prompted Bruce to extend his sparring tour to Denmark.

The obvious crack is to say Charlie Briggs is a handy man to have around.

Charlie, who can throw the 27-inch-round football just as easy as if it were a cricket ball or baseball, is goalkeeper for Clyde football club in the Scottish league.

But the biggest hands in Scottish football are a handicap to him in his spare-time job. He's a barber.

GOLF

By BYRON NELSON

When I was a kid in school back home in Texas I had a teacher who took time out every few weeks to have us go back and review what she had taught us. She believed that too much knowledge crammed into us without a pause for a review and explanation could be confusing and so she had us go back over the ground she had covered in order to be fully sure that we understood what she had been teaching us.

Doubtless your head hasn't been crammed full of knowledge by reading this column, but nevertheless it does seem to me that it is a good idea to review some of the ground you have covered and that's why we've had reviews here from time to time. Let's check up on your iron play today.

Don't ever let anything induce you to sacrifice distance for accuracy in playing your iron shots. And you can't attain accuracy with your iron shots unless you check over every detail of how to play them.

When you use your woods you're trying to hit the ball as far as you can, but when you take an iron out of the bag you're trying to combine distance and accuracy so efficiently that the ball will drop into the cup without it being necessary for you to putt it at all. If you can do that most of the time, then it isn't necessary for you to read this column any further because you've mastered a department of the game which usually challenges the novice player.

All of the good golfers, players such as Ben Hogan, Sam Snead, Jimmy Demaret, Herman Barron, etc., may not be able to sink the ball every time they make an iron shot, but they're a cinch to put it up close to the cup.

In playing an iron shot, be sure to stand closer to the ball than you do when you're using a wood. In taking up your club check your grip to make certain it is firm and square. Because the shafts of the clubs are not as long, you will swing with a more upright arc and your swing will also be shorter. Let me caution you, however, that the swing will not be too radically different from that which you used in playing your woods.

Many golfers are under the misapprehension that a good golfer does not take a substantial divot when playing an iron shot. That's not so, as a visit to one of our tournaments will reveal, because if you play your irons correctly you are bound to take a good bite out of the turf with your clubhead.

In using your long irons beware of taking your clubhead back too far on the backswing because you are apt to bend or "break" your firm left arm, "break" your wrists, loosen your grip or lose control of the clubhead as you start the downswing. Remember to start the clubhead down by starting the lateral shifting of the weight from the right to the left side and the turn of the left shoulder, which pulls the arms with it, simultaneously.

As a final tip on iron play, one of the things which helped me to master my irons was to remember to keep the back of my left hand faced toward my objective as the club enters the hitting area. This will help you to avoid any difficulty from uncontrolled wrist action.

Pirates Deal "Bums" Pennant Chances A Severe Body Blow

By The Canadian Press

The lowly, but tough, Pittsburgh Pirates dealt Brooklyn's National League pennant hopes a sad blow yesterday when they held the Dodgers to a split in their important doubleheader.

Lefty Fritz Ostermueller, Dodger cast-off, held his former mates to nine hits in pitching the seventh place Bucs to a 3-2 victory in the opener. Then Ralph Branca, who shut out St. Louis Cardinals last week, came through with a five-hit, 3-0 performance in the second game.

The split left Dodgers a full two games behind the front-running Cards before the Cards' night game with Boston.

The calamity to the Bums was eased a bit when Boston edged the Cards 2-1 in the night game. Rubber armed Johnny Sain held the westerners at bay until the ninth when they scored their only run.

That shaved Cards' lead to 1 1-2 games, but if Dodgers hadn't blown their first one they would have been only half a game out of first place and happiness would have reigned in Flatbush.

Sain held the Red Birds in the palm of his hand until the ninth inning when Enos Slaughter's 18th homer of the year ruined his shutout bid. Before 26,570 cash customers, the tying run was on second base when he retired Joe Garagiola for the final out.

Harry Brecheen, Eddie Dyer's starting choice, had matched Sain pitch for pitch through four scoreless innings until the Braves manufactured two runs on one base hit. Dick Culler's double, in the fifth.

The Cards still boast a decided advantage over Brooklyn Dodgers who split with Pittsburgh. The Dodgers now have 10 games to play compared to nine for St. Louis before the season ends a week from Sunday. Any combination of nine Card wins or Dodger losses would give the Birds the flag.

Ensign Hanover Leading Three Year Old

DELAWARE, O., Sept. 18—(AP)—Ensign Hanover, an odds-on favorite, won an extra-heat race-off today to capture the first racing of the Little Brown Jug, richest race competition in history for three-year-old pacers.

The Jug, conceived to give three-year-old pacers a race to match the trotters' annual Hambletonian, was worth $33,358. The win made Ensign Hanover the three-year-old leading money winner of the year, dragging down $17,679 to boost his total to $65,349.

Second money, $8,839, went to His Lady, owned by J. M. Davis of Clayton, Del. Dr. G. B. Gill's Quick Trick of Washington, D.C., took fourth money and fifth went to Honest Truth of McKinley Kirk's Washington Court House, O., stables. Fourth and fifth places were worth $1,767 each.

Fire On "Queen Mary"

HALIFAX, Sept. 18 —(CP)—Fire broke out on the main deck forward of the Cunard-White Star Liner Queen Mary this afternoon and caused several minutes of excitement before it was extinguished by alert crew members.

The small blaze of undetermined origin started in a large sheaf of notices hung on a bulletin board attached to a wooden bulkhead of the giant liner. Damage was negligible.

Locked Doors At Rangers' Practice

WINNIPEG, Sept. 18 —(CP)— The curious or interested who might have planned to attend some of the New York Ranger hockey school sessions here had better think again. No one is allowed inside the rink without a pass.

Manager Frank Boucher explains this policy of allowing only newspapermen and Ranger scouts and officials to witness the practices by saying, "we bring these guys here at our expense ..... we don't want a batch of locker room lawyers showing up with pencils, cheque books and important-looking documents."
