Fishermen End Third Week In Short Course

The Fisheries Extension Course now being conducted at St. Dunstan's College, under the direction of Dr. J. A. Murphy, has completed its third week. Twenty-seven young men from the various fishing ports of the province are in attendance.

Experts from the Dominion Department of Fisheries have assisted in the instructions. Among those who have lectured and conducted demonstrations are: Dr. Ernest Hess, Inspector K. Solows, Supervisor R. Gray of the Station in Halifax; Dr. G. M. Smith of the Biological Station at St. Andrews; N. B. and Miss Elizabeth McMillan formerly of the Island but at present a Demonstrator of the Department of Fisheries, Ottawa.

Dr. Smith, Canada's leading expert in lobster growth and culture lectured on lobster distribution, seasons, size limits, catch and spawning habits. Dr. Hess took up the subject of curing, smoking, refrigeration, canning, and fish spoilage.

Fresh fish has been procured from Halifax and cured fish from fishing stations on the Island and the work of processing is carried on in the carpentry shop. Inspector Solows conducted demonstrations in putting up boneless cod and the making of filets. Supervisors Gray and Hess, on pickled fish who served a long apprenticeship in Scotland, last week demonstrated the full process of pickling herring in both the Canadian and Scotch methods. He also demonstrated the cure of mackerel, both split and filleted. There is a strong market for the latter and the mastering of this technique should increase the income of our fishermen. Supervisor Gray gave a practical and interesting demonstration on coopering and repairing of barrels. Miss McMillan spoke on the nutritive value of fish.

Fieldmen Assist

Field-men of the Fisheries Department of this province, Mr. Charles Gavin and Mr. Francis Campbell, have assisted in the demonstrations and have also conducted work in rope splicing, mending knots, and engine repair. Captain J. Doucette has conducted classes in Navigation. The field-men of St. Dunstan's College Extension Department led the students on the study of co-operative projects in the province.

In addition to the above Members of the College Staff conducted classes in such subjects as: Business arithmetic, English, correspondence, and legal papers; character building; library work; co-operatives and credit unions; simple mechanics and bacteria.

A policy followed in this course is to extend the student's training beyond the class room and three evenings each week have been devoted to debating, instructions on conducting meetings and public speaking. Mr. Doucette assisted in the organization of recreational programmes. Educational films have also been shown at these gatherings.

The students living in the new Science Hall, working and playing together, have evinced a remarkable interest in the course and should return to their homes with an increased knowledge of their vocation.

This course is sponsored by the Dominion-Provincial Youth Training Movement of which Mr. W. R. Shaw is director in this province.

A time of war is no time for clever, astute, smart politicians. This country wants honest statesmanship, the kind it is not getting."

If there was disunity in Canada as Mr. King said, he should "smoke out" those in his own party who are against unity.

"Until the international wheat market is stabilized through agreement between importing and exporting nations, no internal Canadian policies can have a completely desirable effect upon the prosperity of the wheat farmer."

"Consequently, it is the duty of the government to adopt every possible means to secure international agreement, including if necessary the offer of trade advantages in other directions to other countries."

Explains Crop Insurance

In explaining his crop insurance proposal at Moose Jaw, Dr. Manion said: "At the first session of Parliament we will appoint a committee of the House of Commons to investigate thoroughly practical means by which the farmer may be protected from crop failure, and particularly the feasibility of establishing a system of crop in-may be expected by neutrals within reach of British naval forces. (Information issued at London stated the Albatross had two pom-poms and four machine guns.) "All neutrals should be alive to the fact England has no respect whatever for the law of nations or for the safety of people when her interests are affected," this spokesman said.

As for the German controversy with Norway over the happening, authorized sources said this was a matter for the most careful study and negotiation.

No official Norwegian reply has been made to the German protest charging Norway with inadequate protection of the Albatross and demanding reparation.

The Oslo government sent an official communication repeating the official version of the incident as released to the Norwegian press Saturday.

German authorities pointed to Norway's observation to the effect that she had to bow to Britain's superior force.

Oslo dispatches said the Albatross, grounded during her dramatic conflict with the British destroyer, remained on the rocks and there were no signs of her getting free.

The Eastern Guardian Trinity United Church

MONDAY—3:30—Cubs, Social Hall. TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

A very large congregation attended the morning worship of Trinity United Church. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Hugh Miller and had for its theme, "Moral Rearmament." In this address the minister pointed to the great need for every Christian to make a new survey and confirmation of his faith in the ideals and to place his confidence anew in the power of the spirit of God.

ST. PAUL'S ANGLICAN CHURCH

At the morning service at St. Paul's Church the Rev. Mr. Gardner took as the subject of his sermon "Jehovah-rapha"—Christ the healer. The Rector pointed out that he who will live a godly life and follow in the footsteps of our Master must suffer persecution. It is not a call to ease, luxury and riches but a call to bitter poise there by adversaries or our own willfulness—sickness, death, hate, strife—all results of Satan's work. God knows that they have to be passed through; he stands by to help, "I am the God that healtheth." Mr. Gardner cited the case of a medical doctor waiting on a patient who would not follow his advice, and compared this with our failure to heed the advice given us for spiritual healing.

The Anthem "Praise Ye The Father," Gounod, was very effectively sung by the choir under the capable direction of Mr. Albert Dennis with Miss Lillian Earle as organist.

The evening service was conducted by Canon Malone who took as his subject "Prayer." He suggested that each person should carry a little book containing a collection of prayers, objects of prayer and persons for whom prayers are desired. Canon Malone showed that there are three methods of praying—in private, by meditation and by public worship.

The evening service was followed by celebration of the Holy Communion. The Anthem—"Crossing the Bar" (Fletcher) was very acceptably sung by the choir. Mr. Burchleigh Taylor assisted at both services.
