IRISHMEN TO MEET IN PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, July 17—Michael J. Ryan, president of the United Irish League of America, has issued the call of the sixth biennial convention of that organization to meet in Philadelphia September 23 to 26.

MONTREAL, July 17—Even though the Court of Appeals should reverse the decision of the Superior Court and order that a certain $13,000 paid to a client of C. D. Sheldon just before the failure be returned to the general fund at present available for distribution among the "wizards" creditors, final adjustment of the estate will be made at the rate of about a cent and a half on the dollar.

The heaviest creditor against the estate, with a claim of $5,000, will receive but $50 or $75, while the "pickers" in the realm of high finance, who flocked by the thousands to drop their $2 and $5 offerings into the great blind pool, will receive anything from 5 cents to $5, according to the amount of their respective "investments."

Weariness Changed to Vigor
THAT PLAYED-OUT FEELING WAS QUICKLY REMEDIED AND HEALTH RESTORED.

Story of a Merchant Who Almost Lost His Business and His Health Through Neglecting Early Symptoms of Disease.

My life for years has been of a dissipated character. I was a well known firm in Buckingham. Nine hours every day I spent at office work and took exercise only on Sunday. I disregarded the symptoms of ill-health, which were all too apparent to family. I grew thin, thin pale, and before long I was jaundiced—eyes and skin were yellow, my strength and nerve energy were lowered, and I was quite unfitted for business. In the morning a lightness in the head, particularly when I bent over, made me very worried about my health. Most of the laxative medicines I found weakening, and knowing that I had to be at business every day I neglected myself rather than risk further weakness. Of course I grew worse, but by a happy chance I began to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I was forcibly struck by the fact that they neither caused griping nor nausea, and it seemed incredible that pills could tone, cleanse and regulate the system without causing any unpleasant after effects. Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted with me just as gentle as nature—they gave new life to my liver, strengthened my stomach, and won me back to perfect good health. My skin is clear, dizziness has disappeared, and my appetite, strength and spirits are perfect.

Refuse anything offered you instead of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are sure to cure. Sold in 25c. boxes, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or postpaid from the Carrhoxone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

GERMAN'S SUSPICIOUS.

lopment of the German people in every direction of intellectual and moral activity. That is a great record, and it makes one feel a sense of rejoicing that the man who is associated with these things should be half an Englishman. One would think that this was laying on praise thickly enough to satisfy even the most exacting Teuton. But so far from giving any satisfaction, the speech has provoked an outburst of rage in Germany. The German newspapers describe it as fulsome, offensive flattery obviously prompted by ulterior motives.

The Berliner Neueste Nachrichten, which is owned by the Krupp interests comments in these words: Last year England tried the whip on us. Now she is proffering us sugar-coated stuff. The object is the same—to arrest our promising rise to great sea power.

The newest thing in that line is Lord Haldane's attempt to assure us with honeyed words, an attempt which is all the more unsympathetic because it is aimed at the person of the kaiser and under cover of the most brazen and exaggerated compliments discloses the incorrigible arrogance of the British.

Lord Haldane himself must know that the description of the kaiser as half an Englishman can only offend the German nation. It is a direct affront to us to ascribe the slavishly over-praised virtues of the kaiser to his alleged English personality.

The noble lord, who ranks as a master of back door intrigue, evidently hopes by indulging in a bombastic panegyric to detach the imperial persona from that portion of the nation which realizes that Germany's only salvation is a strong and energetic foreign policy. Our kaiser is a German thru and thru, and will not be misled by such unscrupulous adulation.

Die Post, also a spokesman of the war party, says: The speech justifies the fear that some real and practical object is behind the thick clouds of incense which the chancellor poured forth. We have heard words enough of this sort from the English, now let us see deeds.

An English paper today humorously replies to these strictures by remarking that no good ever comes of these half measures. Evidently, if Haldane wanted to please the Germans, he should have said the kaiser was an Englishman thru and thru.

The Pall Mall Gazette suggests that Save me from my friends! must have been the emperor's exclamation when he read the criticisms of the German newspapers. The papers here generally take the German outburst of wrath good humoredly. How can we please these people? Is the question they ask. They storm at us equally whether we would or no. Evidently our best plan is to laugh at them.

Last evening a goodly number of citizens and visitors gathered at the Public Gardens, Charlottetown, to enjoy the music furnished by the Fourth Regiment Band, the program of which was announced in yesterday evening's issue. The weather was delightful and the selections chosen and rendered as they were, in such an excellent manner, by the bandmen, contributed an evening of pleasure to the many. The Fourth Regiment Band deserves great credit for their excellent mastery of the musical instruments.

The fourteenth annual S. S. Convention of the South East Prince District was held in the Tryon Methodist Church on Monday, July 15th. Both sessions were fairly well attended. Social services were led by Rev. W. A. Ross and Wilfred Boulter. Reports were given by secretary and treasurer, after which roll of schools were called, ten reporting out of the fourteen. After music by the choir the field secretary went over a temperance chart, showing the awful effects of alcohol on the entire system. He then conducted a round-table conference which was very instructive. In the evening after minutes were read, the nominating committee reported as follows:—President, Alex. Morrison; Vice-President, Wilfred Boulter; Secretary and Treasurer, Major Lowther; Supt. Home Dept., Albert Robinson; Teachers T. Rev. G. M. Young; Missions, Rev. Wm. Field; T. B. R. A., Major Lowther; Elementary, Mrs. W. A. Thomson; Organized Adult, Wilfred Boulter. Excellent addresses were given by Rev. G. M. Young and Rev. W. A. Ross, they being very inspiring and helpful. A choice solo was given by Miss Edna Moyle and the choir rendered some excellent music. A vote of thanks was tendered the people of Tryon for their kindness and hospitality. Convention closed by benediction. H. Myers, Secretary pro tem.

Although the Guardian has had no Canadian press dispatches since the cable unfortunately went out of commission some days ago, it is nevertheless a member of the Canadian Press Association of which the little critic is not and which is probably the cause of its kicking. The Guardian is in a position to receive dispatches when they come and is in no way to blame for the failure of the cable.

Discord and harmony were somewhat promiscuously intermingled on the Band Square last night. Two regiments, either attracted by private reasons or inspired by the martial music, got into a clinch and exchanged remarks, the eloquence of which drew the crowd in hundreds from the band attraction. Some one finally sent for the police and the brutes were separated, neither much the worse, physically, although evidently relieved by the separation.

SOME FACTS.

In 1891 The Morning Daily Guardian was established, and is still issued each morning with the latest local and foreign news, including the Canadian Press and a special telegraphic service.

In 1887 The Weekly Guardian was established, but its issue proved too infrequent for readers and the Province advanced and from time to time was changed, first to a Semi-Weekly, then to a Tri-Weekly, and later to a Rural Daily, so that for years The Guardian has issued two dailies, as at present—one in the morning as a Morning Daily, and the other in the afternoon as a Rural Daily.

As the name of the latter was never sufficiently clear as to what it implied and always requiring much explanation, it was in May last changed to Evening Daily, and continued as an afternoon paper.

For some time past the management has felt that Prince Edward Island is justly entitled to a twenty-four hour telegraphic news service, as enjoyed by the other Provinces of Canada, rather than the night wire service only, as up to June 30th last supplied by The Morning Guardian and afterwards printed in The Evening Guardian.

Accordingly a representative visited St. John and arranged for a Canadian Press day service, which is appreciated by the general public.

It is thus to The Guardian that the people of Prince Edward Island are indebted, first for a night Canadian Press service and now for the day Canadian Press and Special Telegraphic news published since July first and thus enjoyed by its readers.

The friends of both The Morning Guardian and The Evening Guardian are quite appreciative of their favorite paper, and since the latest day and night, as well as night and day Canadian Press and Special Telegraphic and local news, and Major Ogilvie continued the inspection of the 3rd Regiment Canadian Field Artillery at the drill shed last evening when two of the companies went through the gun drill acquiring themselves in a highly creditable manner. After the inspection Major Ogilvie said he was pleased with the showing made by the regiment both at gun and infantry drill. He also said that considering the recent change from 4.7 guns to 15 pounders, the regiment was in every way satisfactory. During the past five years, said Major Ogilvie, a vast improvement has been made in the general smartness of the regiment, as at the infantry inspection all the men were especially clean and neat. Major Ogilvie informed The Standard last evening that he was very much pleased with the showing made by the regiment, and that the officers had a great chance to make it one of the best in Canada. He pointed out that the 4th Regiment Heavy Artillery at Charlottetown, had been built up along these lines, and that at present it surpasses the majority of the regiments in this military district.—St. John Exc.

Supreme Court at G'town

GEORGETOWN, July 18—Dr. McMillan was called this morning. He testified to being present at and conducting the two autopsies on the McGee children.

He described minutely the general and particular microscopic appearances of the bodies and internal organs. The general reddish color of the skin, the vile stained condition of all the internal organs; the large, yellow and slightly friable liver, the enlarged and inflamed kidneys, the inflamed duodenum and all the pathological conditions discovered were explained to the court. Especially were all these conditions exhibited in the body of Johnny. The autopsy was most exhaustive and the conditions found excluded possibility of death by any acute infection and limited the causes to poison introduced from without.

The doctor had taken various parts of the body to Montreal for expert chemical and microscopic examination. He was present at the laboratories when the examination chemical was being made by Dr. Ruttan and by Dr. Gruner.

From consideration of the symptoms exhibited by the children during their sickness as detailed by the attending physicians; from the discovery of the autopsies and the revelation of the chemicals and microscopic examinations Dr. McMillan was convinced that the death of the children resulted from phosphorus poisoning.

Asked by Mr. Fraser as to the mental condition of Mrs. McGee, Dr. McMillan answered that the actions of the woman on the various occasions on which he had seen her were decidedly not those of a normal mother. Pressed for more certain pronouncement of the woman's insanity, the Dr. answered nothing more pointed.

Dr. McIntyre sworn. He testified to having been in attendance on the McGee children during their illness and his evidence was fully corroborative of the evidence of Dr. Fraser; and was the same as given at the preliminary trial.

He said that there was positively no doubt that Mrs. McGee's actions at the time of the death of the children were most abnormal. Her actions led him to think that she was not an ordinary sane person.

Prof. McGill, director of chemistry, McGill University, and the chemist who had made the examination of the various specimens taken to Montreal, next gave evidence.

The Dr. gave a minute account of the results of his chemical analysis. In none of the specimens submitted was there the least trace of free phosphorus, either in the intestinal tracts of the children or in the specimens of milk which were submitted.

Two of the three herrings given had been fed to an animal in the Dr's Laboratory without any evil results. The third herring was examined and for alkaloidal poisons but none were found.

The Dr. stated that under the conditions he would not expect to find free phosphorus. He was thus under the necessity of making an examination of the various organs for the retrogression and morbid chemical changes which would be caused by the exhibition of phosphorus.

The expected changes were very characteristic in the liver, kidneys and heart. Phosphorus given to an individual, causes, if life remains for a few days, generative changes in their organs. The nature of these changes is a replacement of the predominant constituent albumin or protoid matter by fat. These changes the Doctor found very marked.

The liver of John McGee showed 26.6 of fat whereas a normal liver exhibited from 3 to 5 per cent. The most extreme cases of fatty degeneration do not exceed twelve per cent. In the kidneys were found 21.1 per cent of fat, while normally they should show but 1 to 3 per cent. In a word the protoid destruction and fatty replacement was most marked. The blood was found normal and since all infections were excluded, the doctor could think of nothing else but phosphorus as being the cause of the children's death.

In conjunction with Dr. Ruttan, Prof. Gruner, pathologist of Royal Victoria Hospital, had made the microscopic examination on portions of the organs. This examination further supported the deductions made on chemical and symptomatic grounds.

The doctor dwelt minutely upon the constitution of phosphorus matches; the great danger and their poisonous nature. He graphically described to the court the course of a case of phosphorus poisoning from the first injection of the poison to the ultimate cardiac failure resulting in death. He took up each of the organs and dwelt in the course of the poisoning. He had analyzed samples of the matches brought and was of opinion that 20 such would cause death in an adult. He said that the cardiac failure as described by Drs. Fraser and McIntyre was most characteristic of the latter stages of poisoning and that no doubt existed in his mind that the children came to their death through poison by phosphorus.

Dr. Ruttan spoke most highly of the scientific nature of autopsy conducted by Dr. McMillan in conjunction with Drs. McIntyre, Stewart and Fraser, and declared that the specimens arrived in Montreal in most perfect condition.

This concluded the examination of witnesses for the prosecution. Court adjourned at 1.15.
