In Memoriam

MR. J. PHILIP ACORN

J. Philip Acorn of Primrose, P. E. I. passed away after a short illness of three days at his home on March 11th, aged 75 years. He attended to the usual duties of the farm up to the time he was stricken.

He has left to mourn, a widow, the former Jane Matheson of Upton; two daughters, Mrs. I. B. Morrow (Jessie) of Belmont, Mass., and Mrs. Henry Madigan (Ada), of Detroit; one son, Albert, at home; four grand children, besides one sister, Mrs. John McLeod, California.

The funeral service was conducted in the home by his pastor, the Rev. M.D. MacLeod. The large gathering manifested the high esteem in which Mr. Acorn was held in the community.

Forecasts Major Oil Development In N. B.

FREDERICTON, April 7 — (CP) — New Brunswick's natural resources should be developed to form the backbone of the Province's industrial life, Industry Minister Andre Doucet told the Provincial Legislature tonight.

Speaking in the budget debate at the first night sitting of the House since it opened March 2, the Minister said that while other industries were welcomed "basic industries are nearer our present reach and present possibilities."

"Our greatest efforts should be directed to production and processing of our natural resources, our lumber, fish, minerals and agriculture."

The Minister also forecast a major oil development in the Province and said introduction of draggers into the fisheries "will revolutionize our deep-sea fishing."

Problem In World Trade Needs Solution

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The European Recovery Program and Sir Stafford Cripps' budget speech again highlight a problem in world trade which needs solution.

It is that the United States is overwhelmingly a seller to other countries, rather than a buyer. So long as this is so there must be a continuing shortage of United States dollars.

From the United States point of view it results in this:

1. Periodically, such as in loans after the First World War and now E.R.P. she has to virtually give her goods away.

2. Her citizens are denied the greater share in the world's goods which they would have if she took payment in other countries' products. In this connection many people feel that the peoples of the world, including North Americans could have an almost undreamed of prosperity if world production and freer exchange of goods could really be put in motion.

It is true that the present moment is something apart. The United States is virtually giving away her goods because war-torn countries must have them; and other countries have only limited amounts to sell even if she would buy.

Canada Affected

The object of E.R.P. economically is to set other countries into production. If it succeeds, what then? Will the United States become a buyer? If she does not, then the rest of the world must turn to trading between countries other than the United States. However, it can be hoped that in line with her official freer-trade policy she will in fact become a buyer.

Canada, also a dollar country, must keep an eye on all this to make sure she doesn't get ruled out of world trade. Apparently it is part of her present policy to pursue a course which will be more independent than heretofore of the individual policies of other countries; she will try to sell more to the United States and at the same time cultivate her world markets.

Underlying various statements out of Britain is the thought that if she is to buy in Canada she must also sell here; otherwise, as much as possible, she will divert her purchases to other places.

Famous Schooner Lost In Storm

NEW YORK, April 7 — (AP) — The schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud, once pride of the Gloucester fishing fleet, has been abandoned in the Venezuelan harbor where she was wrecked in a February storm, it was announced today.

Representatives of owner William Hoeffner said the vessel would be left at La Guaira, Venezuela, to be broken up by the Caribbean. If she becomes a menace to navigation, the spokesman said, she may be hauled off the breakwater and scuttled at sea.

The schooner won the international fishing fleet championship in 1930 in a race against Capt. Angus Walters' Bluenose, which took away the championship in two later races.

The Bluenose sank in the same area two years ago after she was smashed on a Haitian reef.
