Who's Who In P. E. Island Agriculture

Leo P. McIsaac

Selected for the position of permanent secretary-treasurer of the Prince Edward Island Federation of Agriculture, Mr. Leo P. McIsaac will take up his duties as soon as he is released from the Department of Agriculture.

Born in 1922 on the family farm at Cherry Valley, Queen's County, Mr. McIsaac attended Earncliffe School. Thence to St. Dunstan's University, where his studies were interrupted by his father's illness.

Leo managed the home farm from 1937 until he enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force in 1941. During his period of service he took several short courses in leadership, and availed himself of some of the courses available in agriculture. With the various service facilities, he finished his high-school education while serving as ground-crew instructor until he was discharged in 1945.

Back in civilian life, Mr. McIsaac took a special course in agricultural economics and cooperative extension work at Toronto and the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph.

Returning to Prince Edward Island, he worked with the Extension department at S. D. U. until he joined the staff of the Provincial Department of Agriculture in November 1946, directing extension activities, Farm Forum and the work of the Junior Farmers.

On July 1, 1947, Miss Mary Callaghan, New Wiltshire became Mrs. Leo McIsaac and the family consists of 11-month old Anita Marie. Apart from his work, which takes up a great many of his evenings, Mr. McIsaac is an ardent reader in the fields of economics, sociology and agriculture.

He believes that one of the main satisfactions of life is gained by working towards a general understanding of each other's problems and solving them through co-operative effort. His favourite motto is "Be Practical" and he believes that the successful life is lived on the farm and that happiness there requires both efficiency in farming and a broader outlook to those things beyond the farm.

CONSIDER LARGE SCALE

(Continued from Page 1) of Canadian and United States forces preoccupied, cutting down on the forces available for action in more active theatres.

The object, therefore, is to evolve techniques that would enable such enemy forces to be wrinkled out quickly and decisively, using minimum numbers of troops.

Training programs here incorporate lessons learned from the Balkans, the Indian, Canadian lumberjacks and bush pilots, the Scandinavian countries, the Russo-Finnish war and the Alpine campaigns of the First World War.

The winter program was the most intensive schedule of cold-weather tests yet undertaken at this "mystery" base on the shore of Hudson's Bay. Top-secret reports now are being written for Ottawa, Washington and London, and preparations are being made for heavier program next winter.

Earlier tests at Churchill were primarily to see if soldiers could live for long periods in the Arctic, and if weapons and equipment would do their job in cold, snow and ice. This winter the tests were carried a step further—to see if troops in the Arctic could operate as combat units.

Special Service Held At St. Paul's Church

Protestant members of the Canadian Legion participating in yesterday's Memorial Day parade attended St. Paul's Church, where a special service appropriate to the commemoration of V-E Day was conducted by the Rev. Rev. James T. Abbott, assisted by the Laymen's Choir, under the direction of Mr. Royston F. Mufford.

The hymns chosen were specially suited to the day, as was the anthem "A Song of Peace," which is set to the lovely music composed by Sibelius for the Finnish National Song "Finlandia." The Laymen's Choir sang this with great beauty and true devotional feeling, besides lending splendid support to the effective rendition of the psalms and hymns.

After the sermon, in remembrance of those who served and those who paid the supreme sacrifice, Kipling's Recessional was sung. A wreath was then presented, on behalf of the Charlottetown branch of the Canadian Legion, to the Rector who placed it on the altar. After a period of silence and a prayer of remembrance the memorial hymn "O Valley Heart, Who To Your Glory Came" was sung, followed by the sounding of the Last Post and Reveille by a trumpeter of the 17th Recce Regiment.

Looking Back The Rector, who delivered the Address, chose his text from the Book of Deuteronomy, "Beware lest thou forget... But thou shalt remember."

"At the time Moses wrote these words he was approaching death, having led the children of Israel to the border of the Promised Land, which he knew he could not enter," the speaker said. "Moses was one hundred and twenty years old when he died; his eyes was not dim, nor his natural force abated. He felt inspired to leave to his nation a word of guidance and a word of hope. And of the Book of Deuteronomy, we may say that it is a book of national remembrance."

"And now, on this V-E Day of 1949, it behoves us to look back—not very long, just five years, and I am sure you will agree with me that those words of Moses should be heard and heeded by us, so freighted are they with significance at this time."

Memories Too Short "Only foolish men, and those tyrants who play the despot over others, have forgotten the history of the past. But too many have memories not alert enough for those things they should remember. Too often our memories are far too short."

"Let me quote from the words of a veteran who gave his life for us in this last war: 'I only hope that when this war is over you people won't forget.' Or words like these: 'I am afraid that the day peace is declared, people are going to return to their narrow aspirations and lives, and forget...'"

The speaker went on to quote the verses of another veteran, W. R. Stewart, which exemplified the poignancy of memories of battle experiences:

"Rain in the blackness, stabs of flame in the blackness, Whines and groans in the blackness. Remember? REMEMBER AGAIN. Rockets at dawn, Shells come and zone. Mists in the dawn. Cheers in the dawn. Remember? REMEMBER AGAIN. Stillness at noon. Curses in the stillness of noon. Still Writing bodies at noon. Still Bodies at noon. Remember? REMEMBER AGAIN. Flashing shovels at twilight. Prayers at twilight. Dry-eyed men at twilight, soultwisted at twilight. Remember? REMEMBER AGAIN. Time will pass. Crises will arise. Remember? REMEMBER AGAIN."

"Four years since V-E Day! And there are millions who will not forget, for they have felt and many are feeling the impact of this war in their own bodies and souls, and the terrible realities of the conflict were, and are, their own."

Guiders are reminded of the annual meeting (sponsored) of the Charlottetown Guiders' Club on Wednesday, May 11th.

Lt. Governor And Mrs. Bernard Home

Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. Bernard returned on Saturday from a very enjoyable holiday. In the course of which they visited three of their sons in Ontario and two daughters in Massachusetts.

While in Ottawa His Honour called by invitation upon His Excellency Viscount Alexander, Governor General, and had a most pleasant interview with him. His Excellency was full of reminiscences of his holiday here last summer and spoke very enthusiastically about the Island and its people.

In Boston His Honour was entertained by Governor Paul Dore and Mayor Curley, the latter being an old friend of the Bernards. They also met many other friends and acquaintances, including a number of former Prince Edward Islanders.

A highlight of their stay was a visit to the Braves' baseball park during a night game between the Braves and Cubs which was attended by over 20,000 people. The grounds were so brilliantly lighted that the game could be followed more easily than in broad daylight, and the spectacle was one of the finest attractions His Honour had ever witnessed.

DECISION ON

Choice of a capital city was delayed until later in the week. The chief contestants are Frankfurt and Bonn.

The new constitution makes the plotting of aggressive war a punishable offence, provides for the surrender of sovereignty to a United States of Europe, when and if, and embodies an elaborate "bill of rights" guaranteeing freedom of press, religion, assembly, and equality of all regardless of race, religion, language, sex and political opinions. Censorship is forbidden.

A figurehead president is chief of state, with administrative powers handled by a chancellor chosen by a bund, or parliament.
