You, a tough guy... afraid of guns... you're a voluntary who's got to have soft, silky stuff around! You can't stand a gun, 'cause it's cold, hard steel... the noise scares you... half-mugg, half-noble, you're a paradox, a misfit... you've got too much nerve and no courage. Now you're in a tight spot... squealing... but what's going to happen to you is stranger than any story-book yarn!

Bob Montgomery At Prince Edward

Robert Montgomery, so often seen on the screen as the wise-cracking main-about-town, has again proved himself one of Hollywood's most versatile actors with his dramatic portrayal of a Chicago gangster in "The Earl of Chicago," which opens today at the Prince Edward Theatre.

It was no ordinary role selected for Montgomery. The story is as unusual and original as any yet brought to the screen, with Montgomery playing Silky Kilmount, liquor racketeer, who becomes an English Earl by inheritance. Not as heavy a characterization as the psychotic murderer Montgomery played in "Night Must Fall," which brought him nomination for the Academy Award, it is an equally fascinating characterization and the star plays it to the hilt.

Can't Beat The Rap

The situation in which Silky becomes a member of England's distinguished House of Lords is fundamentally amusing, but there is deeper significance to his trial before his peers on a murder charge. Silky, one of the Chicago underworld bosses, covers that he can't beat the rap in England.

Outstanding performances are given by Montgomery, Edward Arnold, who plays Silky's lawyer and nemesis, Reginald Owen, Ed. and Gwenn, E. E. Clive, Ronald Smeaton, Norma Varden, Hattie Hooten, Ian Wolf, Peter Goutry and Billy Bevan.

Victor Saville, producer of "Good-bye, Mr. Chips" and "The Citadel," brought the picture to the screen with his customary brilliance, and Richard Thorpe's direction is dramatically realistic throughout.

On and after July 10th, I will be obliged to go to the strictly cash system of doing business. All my outstanding accounts must be settled by note or cash on or before July 31st. Present day conditions force me to do this in order to carry on.

Cross Roads School Closing

The closing exercises of Cross Roads School were held on Friday afternoon, June 26th, at the beautiful shore farm of Mr. J. D. MacRae, Tea Hill, with a large attendance of parents and visitors. The pupils under the direction of their teacher, Miss Georgie Harper, demonstrated a Red Cross meeting which gave the parents an idea of the fine work done by these Juniors during the past year. The "Smiling Helpers" were brought to order by the President, Clive Stewart, who occupied the chair. The meeting opened by singing O Canada, followed by the roll call which was answered by the name of a bird and which was responded to by nineteen members. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Alecia Jenkins, and adopted as read. The annual reports of the various committees were then given by the Convenors. Ian Stewart reported on the work done by the Health and Cleanliness committee during the year and told how the pupils lived up to the Health Rules. Blair MacCallum, convenor of the Service Committee, told how this branch raised money for the Crippled Children's Fund and other worthy causes. The convenor of the Citizenship committee, Jean MacRae, outlined the splendid effort of these Juniors to help in the War Service Activities and told how they forfeited the money voted by the MacDonald Women's Institute for prizes to buy a blanket for the European refugees. The Circulation Manager, Bryer Jones reported the sale of sixty Red Cross Magazines during the year. The financial report for the year was given by the treasurer, Blair MacRae, who reported that this branch had raised nearly thirty dollars, which showed how these boys and girls lived up to the name of their branch. The secretary then read an interesting letter acknowledging a bouquet of Mayflowers which had been sent in to the Red Cross Office. The following program was then rendered:
Chorus—"Twilight is Stealing."
Recitation—"Vacation" Faith MacCallum.
Solo—"South of the Border"—Bryer Jones.
Recitation—"A Hard Place"—Sterling Gard.
Recitation—"My Kitty"—Ralph Smallwood.
Duet—"Little Man Named Dir"—Jackie MacRae and Ralph MacCallum.
Recitation—"The Crooked Man"—Ian Stewart.
Solo—"A Gold Mine in the Sky"—Alecia Jenkins.
Recitation—"Bound to Grow"—Sterling Stewart.
Quartet—"Toothbrush Song"—Raymond Stewart, Bryer Jones, Jackie MacRae and Ralph MacCallum.
Patriotic Drill and Song "Canada, East and West."
The meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

How the fighting men of the Royal Air Force face death hourly and treat it as a game is told by Flight-Lieut. Wallace Barton, who is in Lindsay, Ont., on a visit home. At the end of the day's raids, the fliers compare bullet holes. The distance from the pilot's head in the cockpit to the nearest bullet hole is measured by a piece of string and the man with the closest escape wins the day's contest. Flight-Lieut. Barton, who joined the R.A.F. in 1936, brought his piece of string with him to show how the "game" is played. He is pictured here with his wife.
