MRS. CHADWICK FACES BECKWICK

Aged Banker Upbraids Canadian Financial Adventuress—He Tells he Does not Like Her Frequent Changes of Lawyers.

Cleveland, Dec. 15.—Mrs Chadwick's first day in the county jail was a busy one for her. She received several visits from her attorneys, held long conferences with them, conversed with newspaper men, and for fifteen minutes stood face to face with President Beckwith, of the Oberlin Bank, who has come to such great trouble through his financial transactions with her. Accompanied by Mrs Beckwith who owing to her husband's ill health is always by his side, the aged banker made his way slowly and feebly up the long flight of iron stairs leading to Mrs. Chadwick's cell. She met him at the entrance of the corridor and shook hands with him cordially. After some general conversation, Mr. Beckwith referred to their business relations by saying:—

"Mrs. Chadwick, you have ruined me, but I'll get square yet. You are a fraud. I have stood by you to my last dollar and I do think now that the time has come for you to make known everything in relation to this thing."

Beckwith's voice betrayed deep emotion as he spoke and he leaned heavily on the arm of his wife, who was almost compelled to support him, so great was his physical weakness. Mrs Chadwick did not reply directly to the words of Mr. Beckwith, but her manner and look on her face were not conciliatory. Seeing that she would not waver, Mr. Beckwith went on:—

"I have always told you that I did not like it because you changed your lawyers so often. Why do you not get a good one and stick to him?"

"Well," said Mrs. Chadwick in reply, "I have reason for that."

"Have you heard from Judge Otcott recently?" was Mr. Beckwith's next question.

"Not since I left New York," was Mrs. Chadwick's reply.

"Has he changed his mind?"

"No, he has the same belief that he always held."

To what the questions referred was not known. Mr. and Mrs. Beckwith both said they hoped the matters connected with the Chadwick affair would eventually be straightened out. The interview then closed, Mrs. Chadwick thanked him for calling, shook hands with Mr. and Mrs. Beckwith and said she would be pleased to have them call again.

There is a possibility that the hearing in the Chadwick case may be resumed tomorrow morning in the bankruptcy court, and that she will be summoned as a witness, although the probabilities are that the hearing will go over until Saturday and possibly until Monday. An application for an additional receiver for the Chadwick estate was made in the common pleas court this afternoon by the Savings Deposit Banking and Trust company of Elyria, Ohio, which has brought suit against Mrs. Chadwick on two notes of $25,000 and $10,000 respectively. Mrs. Chadwick this afternoon retained the attorney who is to conduct when she is called for trial in the federal court. He is J. P. Dawley, one of the leading criminal lawyers of Cleveland. Sheldon Q. Kerruish will assist Mr. Dawley. Mr. Kerruish said this afternoon:—

"It is very difficult to know what is best to do for Mrs. Chadwick. She says one thing and a little later will give a totally different version of the same matter. Until we have succeeded in getting her affairs straightened out it will be difficult to say what we will do."

The New York Journal says:—What manner of woman is Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick? Who is she? What is she like? How does she stand out from among thousands of others of her sex—this woman around whom revolve all the puzzling features of The Great Chadwick Mystery?

Mrs. Chadwick made her first appearance in public yesterday and for five hours a reporter for the Journal had an opportunity of studying her. In outward appearance this is what he saw.

A woman neither large nor small, stout nor slender, neither repellent nor yet particularly fair to look upon.

big safe in his room while he waited the appearance of the bondsman.

"Do you think you had better leave that safe open with such a woman as me around?" she asked, smiling up at Mr. Henkel.

She is a woman of action. Her faithful maid, Frieda, for the third time called Virgil P. Kline, who had been appealed to for help in the emergency.

WOMAN EVEN UNDER STRAIN SHOWS GREAT SELF-REPRESSION. She has will power. Twice she fainted. "Restrain yourself, mother, and keep quiet," urged her son.

"I will not give in," she cried, clenching her cheeks. And then back and forth, back and forth, she trod the box-like office DARK EYES ARE SHADDED BY LONG LASHES AND HEAVY BROWS.

She has dark eyes, over which sweep longish dark brown lashes and eyebrows heavy, but shapely and well kept. The nose is straight and of medium size and the mouth is full, well formed and closes snugly over a perfect set of white teeth.

This lines run from the nose on either side down to the corners of the mouth, and between the eyes slightly deeper ridges have formed. Included in Mrs. Chadwick's entourage is a French attendant, whose special care is the complexion of her mistress, which is pink and soft and comparable almost to that of a child.

NOTHING IN HER APPEARANCE TO INDICATE ANY CUPIDITY. There is nothing in the appearance of Mrs. Chadwick suggesting either cupidity or guile, and she is about the last one that the average observer would pick out as possessing hypnotic power, ability to wheedle and cajole keen men of business, or the intimate knowledge of cruelties and prisons which she is said to possess.

It is on a y when Mrs. Chadwick is watched closely that one begins to understand her.

"Mr. Kline is considering the matter, madam," said the maid.

"Considering?" "Considering?" cried Mrs. Chadwick. "What's the use of considering? Why doesn't he do something?"

She has nerve. For six hours yesterday she waited in the office of United States Marshal Henkel, while her counsel sought ball to prevent her being locked up overnight in the twice during the ordeal she fainted, but on each occasion, as soon as she was revived, she clenched her jaws and smiled and comforted her son and her serving maid with the assurance:—

"There is nothing to worry about. Things will come around all right. I have no fears."

The eyes have a peculiarly wistful expression, and they look straight out at one as Mrs. Chadwick talks.

Altogether the face shows none of the aristocratic tendencies of the society woman however, but, on the contrary is kindly, sympathetic and motherly, and this suggestion is further carried out in the ample figure which was clothed yesterday in a loose fitting gown of dark bengaline, made severely plain and which was almost completely covered by a cloak of brown broadcloth, also loosely made, with side pockets and large brown pearl buttons. She wore a hat of dark brown cloth, with a feather drooping over the edge, and a thin rabbit fur. She carried a muff to match.

This ball-bearing at the funeral of the late Thomas D. Rogers which takes place at 2:30 to-morrow will be as follows:— Arthur A. Alley, R. M. Johnson, Ewen Cameron, John P. Gordon, John McLaughlin, Thomas Morris.

The mourners will be the immediate relatives and the employees of the Rogers Hardware Co., Ltd.

The Croup.

It's a terrible thing, isn't it? Somehow, that awful cough, that hard struggle for air, can never be forgotten. Be a little fore-handed and prevent it. Keep Vapo-Cresolene in the house, and when the children take cold let them breathe in the vapor during the evening. It goes right to the throat, just where the croup lies. All irritation subsides the cough quiets down and serious trouble is prevented. It never fails to cure whooping-cough.

HER PREVIOUS "TROUBLE."

"At that time was Mrs. Hoover arrested for forgery and sentenced to a term in the Ohio Penitentiary?" was asked.

"There was some trouble. Mrs. Hoover got into difficulty, and I would sooner not discuss that portion of the story. I am not denying any of the reports that have been spread broadcast about her, nor am I endeavoring to hide anything. There was trouble."

In 1897 she married a very wealthy physician and surgeon named Dr. L. S. Chadwick. She had travelled around the world, and has dabbled in financial matters in this country. I never knew of her acquaintance with Andrew Carnegie, nor any one of the wealthy people of that stamp. I do know, however, that no matter what difficulty she is in at present, she will surely get out of it, for she possesses more than sufficient money to make good any amounts she may have borrowed on notes and loans."

According to Mrs. York, Mrs. Chadwick, whose Christian name is Elizabeth, is 38 years old. The family name is Bigley. Mrs. York disclaims all knowledge of Mrs. Chadwick ever attempting to do business as a medium or clairvoyant. "Not one of our family ever posed as a medium," declared Mrs. York. "There was no necessity for such a move, for all of us had money during our lives. Her husband was one of the most successful machine manufacturers in Ohio. In 1887 he got interested in a radiator company. This concern ate up all his money, and the loss of his fortune killed him." Mrs. York has two daughters living with her here.

Boston, Dec. 13.—With reference to the statement of Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton of Cleveland, that he assisted in having introduced Mrs. C. L. Chadwick and Herbert D. Newton, who he was not well acquainted with the woman, Mr. Newton said to-day:—"All I've got to say is this I don't see why, simply because a man happens to be a minister of the Gospel, HE SHOULD NOT STEP FORTH IN MAN FASHION AND TAKE HIS MEDICINE LIKE THE REST OF US."

"Will you state just what you mean to convey?" Mr. Newton was asked.

"You may draw whatever conclusions you please," was the answer.

Asked if he entertained any bitterness toward Mrs. Chadwick, he said: "I can truthfully say I do not. I have suffered much through this affair, but I can say with truth that I bear no malice toward anyone."

"I could not help thinking this morning, when reading the account of Mrs. Chadwick's troubles that the way of the transgressor is hard. I pity her from the bottom of my heart."

Concerning the crediting of Mr. Newton with hoping for a settlement thru John D. Rockefeller, on the assumption that he would not wish to have his pastor's name dragged into the affair, Mr. Newton said: "There is no truth in that report. I have had hopes of a settlement, but not thru Mr. Rockefeller." P. W. Carver late of Journal is counsel for Mr. Newton.
