

THE ROUMANIAN SITUATION

(Special to the Guardian.) ROME, June 14.—A despatch from Sofia says: "M. Filipescu, Leader of the Rumanian Conservatives, declared the Quadruple entente powers, Britain, France, Russia and Italy, have agreed to the demands of Rumania. Therefore the definite conclusion of an understanding for the intervention of Rumania in the war is imminent. Greece and Serbia will send identical messages to the Bulgarian Premier and his cabinet. Declining the proposals of the Quadruple Entente Powers for the session of Macedonia Territory to Bulgaria. The correspondent of the Giornale D'Italia in his dispatch says, I am assured Greece and Serbia are sending a note of protest to the great powers declaring it is impossible to accept the Balkan understanding on such terms. M. Radoslavoff and his Cabinet will use pressure on Serbia and Greece because in the end the conception of the Quadruple Entente, based on a right and a just consideration of national aspirations in the Balkans, must prevail."

PRESIDENT WANTS MORE PATRIOTISM

TALES TOLD BY MEN IN THE FIGHTING LINE ON LAND AND ON SEA

"EVERY MAN DESERVES THE V. C." A private in the R. A. M. C., writes as follows:

We were the first ambulance into Neuve Chapelle, and we had a very lively time clearing away suffering humanity and dodging "Jack Johnsons" bodies as plentiful as pebbles on the sea beach.

Every man, whether Indian or English, whether a fighter or as a patient, deserves the V. C. they all worked to the finish. One case in particular I shall always remember—a fine Scotch Guardsman we brought in after lying in the field for four days without food and having six wounds, all bad. Not moan, groan, or complain—look it all cheerfully and as a matter of course.

Mr. Ross, the manufacturing head of the American Can Company, Montreal, also struck the note of optimism and held that Canada had not half tapped her resources.

CANADIAN OFFICERS FOR THE FRONT

OTTAWA, June 13.—Major General Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, states that hundreds of applications are being received from officers all over Canada for appointments with the troops for overseas service. The Minister states that everything else being equal preference will be given to those officers who personally undertake the recruiting of men and also to those officers who personally help to those who have a knowledge of musketry. He contends that boundless opportunity for recruiting will be afforded in the raising of the 35 new regiments now under contemplation.

The inhabitants of the town fled in panic to mountains.

DOCTORS APPALLED AT AWFUL EFFECTS OF POISON GASES

NEW YORK, June 12.—In a letter recently received in this city, Major General, the Hon. Edward Stuart-Wortley, commanding a British army corps in France, describes the horrors of death from the asphyxiating gases used by the German troops. He spends several paragraphs in the strong expressions employed in the letter gain additional point from the fact that General Stuart-Wortley was formerly on terms of considerable intimacy with the Kaiser, and when, a few summers ago, Emperor Wilhelm was ordered by his physicians to spend several weeks by the seashore in the South of England, the general placed at the Kaiser's disposal his country seat on the Hampshire coast. General Stuart-Wortley's letter follows:

EFFECT OF FALSE NEWS.

I have been able to see the effect produced upon popular and official opinion in Austria by the reported treatment of Austrians in England, and the practical effect it has had upon the treatment of British subjects in the Austro-Hungarian Empire. The severity (compared to the treatment of other nationalities) which is at present being exercised against their British prisoners is simply looked upon as an act of reprisal for the hardships which Austrians are supposed to be undergoing in England. And this is where the quotations with which I began these reflections operate.

EXPERIENCE OF ASPHYXIATING GASES.

A young Glasgow man, Private Harry Roberts, Royal Warwickshire, is now in the Deaconess Hospital, suffering from the effects of the asphyxiating gases used by the Germans.

It seems that the Warwickshires went to the assistance of the Canadian Trenches in their stress at St. Julien, and Private Roberts was in the trenches when the second great wave of gases came floating across from the German lines. "A thick, greenish-yellow cloud," Private Roberts remarked, describing the incident, "We prepared to run it if no man could live through such a thing as this. Just as it approached our lines, however, the wind changed, and carried the cloud back towards the German trenches. But our relief was only momentary. We were being heavily shelled, and the shells were gass shells. Men were dropping senseless on all sides.

Our officers decided that there was nothing for it but to retire. If we stayed much longer in the trenches it was certain that every man of us would be wiped out. My lungs seemed like to burst, and my whole body felt as if it was full of needles. We decided to run for it. We tore across a couple of fields, and made for a line of trenches behind. The air outside the trenches was no better than the air inside. The fumes seemed to have poisoned the whole atmosphere.

How I managed to cover any distance at all beats me. I felt every inch nearly drowned; the sensation on both occasions was the same. Things began to swim about in front of me and I dropped. I don't know how long I lay on the ground senseless, but when I woke up I was on a stretcher, and was being carried to the ambulance.

Despite the fact that this occurred a fortnight ago, the young soldier is still in a weak condition. His voice, he feels, lacks its former strength, and there is a danger that one of his lungs is affected. For more than a week he felt the smell of the gases; everything he ate had a sickening, oily taste, and when he attempted to blow his nose a greenish fluid covered his handkerchief.

BRITISH PRISONERS.

A prisoner of war writes of his experience in Austria: "Our friends' friends are our friends" is receiving a striking exemplification in the present war. To understand the significance of this remark, it is necessary to look back to what seems to us captives the almost prehistoric days before the war began. Great Britain and Austria have never found them-
